DESERT TROOPS PUT ON A SHOW FOR DALADIER

20,000 Reviewed in French Tunisia.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GABES, Tunisia, Jan. 4.—All the glamor of war in the desert—but little of the actual strength of the modern army which France maintains in southern Tunisia—was exhibited for correspondents in a military review put on this morning for Premier Edouard Daladier of France at Camp Ain-Tounine, fifty miles southeast of this city.

The camp is between Toujane and Beni Zelten on the eastern side of the Matmata mountains. The main part of the Mareth line, "the Maginot line of the desert," begins in that region and runs northeastward to the Mediterranean through the village of Mareth.

Twenty thousand troops, mostly native, took part in the review in bare hilly country reminiscent of New Mexico's mountains of the cliff dwellers.

Rifles Fired Into Air.

There were spahis in flowing burnooses galloping in clouds of dust, troops mounted on fast camels, who traveled 200 miles across the desert to participate in the review, and three squadrons of irregular Bedouin cavalry who whooped and fired rifles into the air as they passed Premier Daladier.

There also were twenty-five airplanes and sixteen tanks. The artillery was represented chiefly by small mountain howitzers carried on muleback.

The military show was a different one from that put on in honor of Premier Benito Mussolini's visit to Libya two years ago when spectators, standing in real trenches to avoid accidents, saw a mud village demolished by real bombs, live shells, and flame throwers.

Seeks to Avoid Display.

Not that the French possess fewer of these lethal weapons than the Italians, but the watchword since Daladier arrived in Africa has been to avoid anything which could be called aggressive display.

Even the desert Maginot line was kept in the background. Before going to camp Ain-Tounine Daladier visited the Mareth tortifications accompanied by Gen. Morin, who supervised their construction after having supervised the construction of the original Maginot line on the French-German border. Only journalists were allowed to accompany them, however.

After lunch in a tent at Camp Ain-Tounine—the main course being whole roasted sheep carried on a pole by two soldiers and piped in to the music of Algerian tirailleurs [sharpshooters]—Daladier and Gen. Morin went off to inspect other sections of the Mareth line as far as Ben Gardane, which is near Italy's colonial border.

Demonstrations Played Down.

The extraordinary tact manifested in all military and oratorical demonstrations during Daladier's visit was paralleled by the attitude of local Italians, evidently under orders from Rome. The Unione, a Fascist newspaper published in Tunis, this morning gave a straightforward, detailed account of Daladier's arrival and played down the anti-Italian demonstrations last night in which windows of an Italian bookshop on the main street were smashed.

The Unione contented itself with denouncing the "anti-Fascist scum" and complaining in a minor key that the French police, while they broke up a mob seeking to demonstrate in front of the Italian consulate, did not make any arrests.

Papers Assail "Rioting."

ROME, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Fascist indignation was fired today by dispatches in Rome newspapers describing the burning of an Italian flag by a crowd in anti-Italian riots at Tunis, capital of France's protectorate of Tunisia.

Italian newspapers called the alleged flag burning "a dangerous aggravation of Gallic nerves," and "a new provocation by the Jewish-Masonic mob."

Stefani, the official Italian news agency, reported that the Tunis crowd took the flag from the smashed window of an Italian bookshop and burned it while the police made no effort to stop them.

THE MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

BILL PROPOSES END OF WPA AS RELIEF AGENCY

Provides for Control by State Boards.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—A bill to liquidate the Works Progress administration and put relief in the hands of state nonpartisan boards, with grants in aid from the federal treasury, was introduced in the senate today by Senator William H. King [D., Utah].

Various other proposals for the revision of New Deal laws were presented in the senate today as members of that body had their first opportunity to introduce bills. More than 1,200 measures were dropped into the legislative hopper of the house of representatives yesterday and today. There was the usual run of crackpot schemes.

Payments from Treasury.

Senator King's bill would authorize the secretary of the treasury to make relief allocations, to be administered by state nonpartisan boards, only after the governor of each state had demonstrated its inability to meet its actual needs. A joint congressional committee, after an investigation, would recommend amounts to be appropriated for allocation to the states.

The bill would require the President, within 90 days, to impound all unexpended and unobligated funds appropriated for the WPA and the national youth administration in excess of $10,000,000 to be used in liquidating those agencies.

Senator W. Warren Barbour [R., N. J.], introduced a bill to place the administration of relief under the social security board. The board would make grants in aid to states with approved relief laws and administrative systems.

Bill Hits Politics in Relief.

Senator Carl Hatch [D., N. M.], introduced a series of bills to take the relief administration and all other federal agencies out of politics. One bill would prohibit political activity, other than voting, by all persons receiving compensation from the government, except elective or policy-making officials. Administrative officials of the government, as well as all other persons, would be prohibited from coercing or intimidating employés of the government or others receiving compensation from it.

A bill to abolish the so-called full reserve provision of the Social Security act and put the old age pension system on a pay-as-you-go basis was introduced by Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg [R., Mich.]. Under the Vandenburg plan, pay roll taxes on employés for old age annuities would remain at 1 per cent, instead of being stepped up gradually to a maximum of 3 per cent.

Two Income Bills Introduced.

Senator Francis T. Maloney [D., Conn.], and Senator Arthur Capper, [R., Kas.], introduced bills to subject the income from all future issues of government securities to federal taxation. They also introduced constitutional amendments to permit the reciprocal taxation of state and federal securities.

Senator King introduced a bill to repeal outright the neutrality act of 1935, as since amended. President Roosevelt wants this measure amended to give him power to designate and discriminate against an aggressor by permitting the shipment of munitions of war to the other power.

Senator King also introduced a bill to repeal the Miller-Tydings resale price maintenance act, which validates interstate price fixing contracts and restricts price cutting competition by chain stores. Representative Wright Patman [D., Tex.], who has figured in the McKesson and Robbins drug scandal, introduced a bill to tax chain stores out of existence.

Townsend Plan Bill Submitted.

Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] introduced a Townsend plan bill which would levy a 2 per cent excise tax on all transactions in the United States and pay pensions up to $200 a month to all persons over 60 years of age.

The so-called "cost of production" farm bill, which failed by only six votes to pass the senate last year, was introduced in the house by Representative Jerry H. Voorhis [D., Cal.]. It would abolish production control, pay subsidies on a farmer's proportionate share of the requirement for domestic consumption, and permit him to sell the remainder at the world price.

Roosevelt Talk Roils Nazis and Elates British

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 5 [Thursday].—President Roosevelt's attack on dictators in his speech yesterday before the congress of the United States brought varied reactions of opposition and acclaim in Europe.

In Germany the President's message prompted immediate accusations of "intervention" and "aggression" in the government controled press. He was charged with following in the footsteps of Woodrow Wilson, America's world war President.

The Essener National Zeitung said "Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation could almost be considered as provocation for breaking off diplomatic relations."

Isolation Ended, Paris Thinks.

In Britain and France, however, there was satisfaction over the speech. Mr. Roosevelt's reference to other ways than war for "commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind" was hailed in London as a threat of economic sanctions [penalties] against rebel Spain, Japan and possibly any aggressor nation.

In Paris official foreign office spokesmen said they believed the President's address brings America out of the isolation it has maintained since 1918, and makes it again an active force in international politics.

Expanding on the idea that broken relations between Germany and the United States might be justified, the Essener National Zeitung said: "The message is of interest only because it shows that the chief of state of the United States himself tolerates the trouble making course of the American public against authoritarian states, and that he is willing to steer a similar course in the future.

Accused of Intervention.

"It is impossible to judge whether the American government is actually contemplating breaking off of relations. In American circles it is stated that relations between Germany and the United States have grown worse to a degree where official breaking off of relations may be counted upon.'

Under the caption, "In Wilson's Footsteps," the Berlin Lokalanzeiger accused Mr. Roosevelt of a policy of intervention.

"When the American President refers to 'God fearing democracy'," it said, "it is necessary to recall the God fearing Wilson, who betrayed all the principles of peace in favor of power politics.

"Mr. Roosevelt remains true to the imperialistic policy revealed in Lima, Peru [where the Pan-American conference was held last month]. The saving of democracy was set up at the Lima conference as the goal of a fight against totalitarian states, which Mr. Roosevelt now calls 'attack nations.' There were the most nonsensical assertions over alleged offensive intentions of Germany and Italy toward Latin America, politically and economically.

Expected Demand for Arms.

"In domestic politics his [the President's] goal is to strengthen government power."

Regarding Mr. Roosevelt's demands or increased armaments, the Lokalanzeiger said these were expected, and added: "He tried to make [the demands] plausible with threats and veiled attacks on other nations."

London's reaction was in sharp contrast to that of Berlin. Especially intriguing to British ears was Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that America's neutrality law is outmoded and must be revised. This was taken to mean that if Britain and France were threatened by Germany and Italy they would have the full moral and economic support of America.

"How far American opinion is yet ripe for such a volteface [about face] remains to be seen," said an editorial in the Daily Telegraph, which closely reflects foreign office opinion, "but the mere fact that the President voiced it will scarcely be lost upon certain nations."

MESSAGE SETS OFF CONFLICT IN NEW CONGRESS

Invokes Attack Fear; Urges Arming.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—In a message which invoked fear of attack by foreign dictatorships as a spur to strengthening our national defense and to perpetuation of the New Deal, President Roosevelt today touched off a mighty conflict in the new congress.

With an espousal of continued pump priming expenditures and continued deficit financing until the national income rises from the present sixty billion to the level of eighty billion dollars a year the President drove the wedge more deeply into his divided party, arraying conservative Democrats with the Republicans against the New Dealers.

Issue Sharply Joined.

Reception of the message among senators and representatives revealed the issue sharply joined between the New Deal theory of the nation spending its way to prosperity and the conservative contention that the unemployed can be put back to work only by a budget balancing policy ending investors' fear of inflation and by encouraging, instead of discouraging, private enterprise for profit.

The message, although devoid of the vitriol and name calling that have characterized many Roosevelt utterances, was viewed by the conservative Democrats and Republicans as a challenge to battle. Vice President Garner, who has emerged from the traditional obscurity of his office to take the reins as the boss of congress, was tight lipped for publication, but what he said to his intimates concerning the President's message was a harbinger of storms to come.

Alienated by Economic Views.

One of the most significant developments was the disclosure that a sizable group of Democrats in both the senate and house who have gone along with the President on every issue up to date have been alienated by his economic views in this message, particularly by his warning that congress will assume a grave responsibility if it retrenches the cost of government. These Democratic legislators indicated that they would line up with the conservatives in opposition to the President.

The only definite proposals of legislation in this message were to increase the nation's armament, to be amplified in a special message next week, and to reorganize the administrative branch of the government, a measure beaten by Democratic opposition in the last congress because it would have conferred autocratic powers on the executive.

Vaguely, in passing, Mr. Roosevelt mentioned possible legislation to solve the railroad problem and further "to protect farmers' income and consumers' purchasing power from alternate risks of crop gluts and crop shortages."

Bows to Revision Demand.

He bowed to the demand for revision of New Deal legislation, which was the mandate emanating from the November elections. Asserting that the American people generally have accepted the New Deal reforms, the President said they merely desire the removal of imperfections without impairment of the legislation.

Thus, he said, the social security act might be simplified and improved in a manner to make "better provision for our older people." He added that better care must be provided for the "medically needy."

Apparently a vague reference to the virtual certainty of radical revision of the Wagner labor relations act was Mr. Roosevelt's remark that "for the sake of employer and employé alike, we must find ways to end factional labor strife and employer-employé disputes."

President Reads Message.

The President read his 5,000 word report on "The State of the Union" to the two chambers in joint session in the hall of the house, with Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead jointly presiding on the rostrum behind him. Massed about him were

CHILE AND BRAZIL ASK ARGENTINE RAINMAKER TO MAKE THEM SOME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 4.—Some tempting offers from Chile and Brazil—which have been suffering a long dry spell—have been made to Juan Baigorri Velar, the Argentine rainmaker, it was reported today.

Baigorri [pronounced "By Gorry"] created a sensation here Saturday. Buenos Aires was limp and listless after a siege of muggy weather, and the forecast was fair and warmer.

Baigorri fiddled with his rain machine—a box resembling a radio—twisting a dial here and there.

In a few moments the skies were darkened, there were rolling blasts of thunder, terrifying flashes of lightning, and a heavy mist hung over the city. An hour or so later a drenching rain swept the area.

NOTE OR NO NOTE, WIFE UPSETS ONE CLEW TO SUICIDE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Mrs. Bernard Davis of Brooklyn, here on a visit, was eating breakfast when the telephone rang.

"Your husband has just killed himself by inhaling gas in your home," a New York policeman told her.

"He's sitting across from me inhaling coffee right now," Mrs. Davis replied. She suggested the gas victim might have been John F. Flury, a roomer in her home.

"But investigators found a suicide note signed Bernard Davis—and in your husband's handwriting," the puzzled officer said.

"What did the note say?"

"It said: 'Take care of the goldfish.'"

May Be Only Coincidence; Robert Says It's Bad Break

Hastings, Mich., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Robert Henry, a senior in the Hastings High school, had troubles enough, with his arm broken and folks getting mixed up and reversing his first and last names. Now he has another complication. A new enrollee for the second semester is Robert Henry, who transferred here from Holland, Mich. He is in the same grade. He is the same age. He has the same middle initial. And—he has a broken arm.

Arrest Beauty Shop Operator in Hit-Run Case

Parnell Mooney, an accountant, 58 years old, was crossing Addison street near his home on Janssen avenue at 2:30 o'clock last Sunday morning. An automobile, traveling west, struck him down. But the driver didn't stop.

A crowd gathered. Some one phoned for an ambulance. "Who hit him? Which way did the car go?" the spectators asked each other. One man, it seemed, had the answers.

Information Is Volunteered.

"Why, that's the car right there," he said, pointing to the dark outlines of an automobile parked half a block west of the intersection. "The driver ran away," he added, "but that's the car. I saw it hit the fellow."

The helpful onlooker continued to offer assistance.

"Say, I'd better drive that car to the police station," he said. The crowd agreed that this was a good idea. As the ambulance started for Alexian Brothers' hospital with the victim the helpful citizen drove away in the mystery car. Two witnesses jotted down the license number.

They were C. F. Kallbom of 837 Buckingham place, and Peter Panajotias of Bensenville.

Sons Start Search.

Mooney had a fractured skull. In the Mooney home at 3542 Janssen avenue, his son Arthur, an instructor at Carl Schurz High school, determined to find the missing driver. He called in his brother William, an employé of a rubber company.

They went to Town Hall station and got the license number, turned in by the spectators who had jotted it down. This led them to the home of Clarence Gunderson in Arlington Heights on Monday.

"Why, they were out here yesterday and this morning," the neighbors said, "but they left about an hour before you arrived." They told the Mooneys that the Gundersons owned a beauty shop at 4026 Irving Park road.

Denies Knowledge of Accident.

The brothers went to the beauty shop. Gunderson denied knowledge of the accident.

"Our car was stolen Saturday night from in front of my son-in-law's place at 5121 Agatite avenue," Arthur Mooney quoted him as saying. [The theft was reported to the Jefferson Park police by Gunderson at 10:30 a. m. Sunday.]

"The keys to the beauty shop were in the car and we've had to stay on guard here ever since."

Detectives learned that Gunderson had been back to the Jefferson Park station on Tuesday to say that he found the stolen car abandoned at Western and Cornelia avenues.

At the Town Hall station yesterday the witnesses, Kallbom and Panajotias, looked at him.

"That's the fellow who did all the talking at the accident," they said. "That's the man who was going to drive the car to the police station."

Gunderson made vehement denials.

After a lie test at the city crime detection laboratory, Gunderson was taken back to Town Hall and booked on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident. He was then released on bond.

The result of the lie detector test will be made known today when Gunderson is arraigned in Safety court.

Earthquake Hits Manila; Dozen Shocks Felt in West

MANILA, P. I., Jan. 3 [Thursday].—(AP)—A fairly heavy earthquake of ten seconds' duration shook Manila at 11:25 a. m. today [9:25 p. m. Chicago time, Wednesday]. There were no reports of damage or casualties. Seismologists placed the epicenter about 100 miles to the north in the China sea.

Imperial Valley Shaken.

Brawley, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Brawley and other Imperial valley communities were shaken by at least a dozen earthquakes of mild intensity today. The most severe of the series of quakes was felt at 7:10 tonight, but no damage was reported.

the legislators, members of the cabinet, and other high government officials, while among the spectators looking down from the packed galleries were the President's wife and mother, members of the diplomatic corps, and other notables.

Right at the beginning of his address Mr. Roosevelt trotted out the widely heralded war scare which his critics are attributing partly to a design to divert the country's attention from the failure of the New Deal to produce recovery and partly to a scheme to shift relief and pump priming expenditures from made work to armament production in the more popular cause of national defense.

Professes to See Storm Signals.

The President said he now finds need of further warning "of the need of putting our own house in order in the face of storm signals from across the seas." Then he proceeded to paint the picture of the menace of German, Italian, Russian, and Japanese dictatorships to religion, democracy, and international good faith.

"The defense of religion, of democracy, and of good faith among nations is all the same fight," Mr. Roosevelt asserted. "To save one, we must now make up our minds to save all."

While the United States stands ready to join with other nations in reducing armaments, said the President, the nation must modernize and amplify its defenses to insure safety from possible attack by the dictatorships.

Defends Foreign Policy.

He defended his policies of remonstrance with Germany for persecution of Jews and Catholics, and with Japan for denial of American rights in China, remarking that "words may be futile, but war is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind."

Thereupon the President proceeded to unfold his program for getting "enough capital and labor at work" to produce a national income of 80 billion dollars "within the framework of our traditional profit system." To achieve this goal, he said, business men must be reëducated in the new order of things and Wall street must accept "new standards of honesty."

CHAPERAU PUTS HIS FATE UP TO FEDERAL JUDGE

New York, Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Albert N. Chaperau, associate of Hollywood celebrities, today admitted that the facts contained in five indictments for smuggling are true. In effect, he threw himself on the mercy of Federal Judge Murray Hulbert in a claim of immunity.

Charles Sylvestor, his attorney, said Chaperau is ready to concede that he brought into the United States without duty jewelry and clothing for George Burns, the comedian, and for Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of Supreme Court Justice Edgar L. Lauer. Both Burns and Mrs. Lauer have been named in smuggling indictments and have pleaded guilty, presumably with the intention of testifying for the government.

Sylvestor insisted that Chaperau has documents from Dr. Noel Ernesto Pallais, consul general of Nicaragua, authorizing him to act as his commercial attaché, thus permitting him to bring in articles duty free. Joseph Leary Delaney, assistant United States attorney, argued, however, that Chaperau was merely a commercial agent for the consul general, and that he did not bring property into the country for himself, but for other persons.

CHICAGO BUDGET OF 57 MILLIONS SENT TO COUNCIL

A report of the finance committee, recommending a 1939 budget of $57,-33',369 for corporate purposes, was presented to the city council yesterday. A public hearing on the budget will be held Jan. 12 and final adoption is expected at a special council meeting on the 14th.

The total recommended is $497,609 less than the 1938 budget. The committee estimated appropriable revenues would be $61,033,780. Tax revenues were figured at $37,000,000; miscellaneous, including fees and licenses, at $21,069,000, and surplus, $2,964,780. For loss and cost in collecting the 1939 tax levy $3,700,000 is set up. This amount deducted from the $61,033,780 appropriable leaves $57,-333,780 net resources for next year.

HOPKINS BACKS ROPER DEFENSE OF BOAT PARTY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins went to the defense tonight of his predecessor, Daniel C. Roper, accused of using a government boat for private parties. Hopkins declared that Roper had issued orders that all guests aboard the vessel Eala, including Roper himself, must pay for their food. He added that Roper himself paid all extra expenses.

Hopkins' statement was in answer to the accusation made yesterday in a report to Congress by R. N. Elliott, acting controler general, that Roper and other commerce department officials used the "Eala" in 1934 and 1935 for private parties and that the total cost of "unauthorized" use of the vessel was $9,506.72.

Roper, in a statement issued through the commerce department, said Elliott was acting out of "political spleen." "His version of the matter is based on half truths," he said. "Had he disclosed the information in the records here, and had he perused them, he would have said that, during the Republican administration, the boats were used by commerce secretaries, assistant secretaries, and their friends and guests with the utmost frequency."

MERCURY FEELS WAY UP TO 55° IN FOG HIDDEN CITY

Rain, dense fog and high temperatures for the season prevailed in Chicago yesterday. The mercury climbed to an unofficial 55 degrees at 10 p. m., only three degrees under the record for Jan. 4, set in 1880. The fog was so dense at times that auto trafic moved at a slow pace.

Airplane travel was disrupted over a wide area for several hours. The airport weather bureau reported the mists lifting last night and several planes took off from Chicago after 8 p. m. At that time the fogs were still thick in parts of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel said the rain would continue this morning, but that it would be cloudy and colder by night.

The new Chicago park police car with a neon sign on its roof was tested yesterday in the fog and was called a success. Motorists reported they could see the letters "Police" for several hundreds yards, even under adverse conditions. The police plan is for the illuminated cars to set pace for motorists on the park drives.

UNITE TO ACCEPT ROOSEVELT DARE TO CUT EXPENSES

Anti-New Dealers Resent Spending Defense.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Conservative Democrats resented President Roosevelt's annual message today defending government spending and daring congress to assume the responsibility for any reductions. After hurried conferences with their leader, Vice President Garner, they agreed to accept the President's challenge.

The advocates of retrenchment believed the President's defiant attitude would help their cause more than it would his own by antagonizing many moderate Democrats heretofore loyal to the New Deal. The private comment of some hitherto ardent supporters of Mr. Roosevelt tended to confirm this impression. One of them, just reëlected, said: "The President's own policies got us into this mess and now he says it's up to congress to get us out."

Harrison Comments Tersely.

Although the most indignant responses to the President's attempt to put Vice President Garner and the conservative Democrats on the spot by daring them to curtail expenses were off the record, the same resentful attitude was reflected in some of the public statements.

Senator Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee and lately an advocate of less spending and lower taxes, confined his public comment to this terse remark: "The President's criticism of dictatorship to me was the high point of his message."

Senator James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], who has been demanding that congress put an end to blank check appropriations, also limited his statement to an indorsement of the President's discussion of the international situation. "It was a splendid message, particularly in his discussion of world affairs," Byrnes declared.

Pepper Statement Typical.

Only a few 100 per cent yes men acclaimed the message without reservation. Typical of their comment was this statement by Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.]: "I thought the President's address was one of the finest utterances that had ever been given by an American President."

Republican senators, like the conservative Democrats, said the President's message abandoned all pretense of a sound fiscal policy in favor of the pump priming theories of Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] said: "The Roosevelt of 1939 has now completely deserted the Roosevelt of 1933 when his first annual message bravely demanded national solvency as a basis for national recovery and, as a result, got more recovery in ninety days than ever previously known in economic history. Each annual message since then has continued to promise the prospect of a balanced budget while serially failing in its subsequent production. Now all pretense is abandoned. The President is frankly off on a spree with the spenders. The boot strap lifters have him."

Contrasts 1932 Attitude.

Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.] said: "It is unbelievable to me that any one would advance the President's new philosophy of so-called government investment. It is the old pump priming program dressed up in new language. . . . The attempt to shift all the burden of balancing the budget to congress is very different from the President's attitude in 1932, when he said: 'On my part I ask you very simply to assign to me the task of reducing the annual operating expenses of your national government'."

Most of the conservative Democrats in the house significantly refused comment on the President's speech. One of their leaders, Representative Eugene E. Cox of Georgia, pressed to make some remark, finally said:

"The President at least showed more consideration for congress as a coördinate branch of the government than before."

The enlarged Republican minority was generally critical of the message. Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin expressed regret that the President had neglected to offer "something constructive which would give hope to the 10 million unemployed."

Editorial Comment on President's Message

Editorial opinion on the President's message to congress as expressed by a representative group of newspapers throughout the country follows:

Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker News [Ind.-Rep.]—To those who hoped the President would read the warning in the recent election to change his ways, the message was disappointing indeed. It is economically unsound. In its reference to the foreign menace it may be realistic; if it is not it utilizes current world unrest to promote a cohesion behind an unsound political philosophy that would not otherwise be possible.

Boise, Idaho, Statesman [Rep.]—There is nothing to arouse hope in the American people in the congressional message of President Roosevelt; nothing to show that he learned any practical lesson from the result of the recent elections. There is much to indicate he is thinking almost entirely in third term phraseology . . . were it not for the possibility that congress may balk and show some independence, the picture would be full of despair.

Charlotte, N. C., News [Dem.]—Evidently the President hopes that the acuteness of the international situation, which is going to force this country to do a lot of things it ordinarily would balk at doing, is somehow going to right the domestic situation. He himself proposes nothing save the wish that everything turn out all right in a hurry.

Cincinnati Enquirer [Ind.]—The President gave no evidence of any change of heart as to continued prodigal spending.

Cleveland News [Rep.]—The President . . . telling us that we are off in a "race" to preserve democracy . . . reminds us further of the days when President Wilson was stoking the American war sentiment. . . . Mr. Roosevelt has conceded that some of his measures are less than perfect. Perhaps we have Mr. Garner and Mr. Bankhead to thank.

Cleveland Plain Dealer [Ind.-Dem.]—Skillfully the President links his New Deal with the safety of the republic. The Roosevelt proposal of 1932 to curb federal spending by at least 25 per cent is even more definitly relegated to ancient history . . . But a 40 billion dollar national debt does not seem a particularly impressive rampart against invasion.

Columbus, O., Dispatch [Ind.]—The one bright spot is his avowal of dislike for the dictatorial trends in government. He may convince the nation more forcibly . . . if he will voluntarily give up his own assumed dictatorial powers. . . . When he does this . . . the nation will of itself make greater and swifter strides with confidence and determination toward lasting peace, recovery, and security.

Indianapolis Star [Ind.-Rep.]—The way to raise the national income to $80,000,000,000, as the President indicated, is to get business to functioning normally and providing jobs in productive industry for those now unemployed. . . . That cannot be expected so long as there are labor boards and laws functioning on the theory that business and industry are always wrong.

Kansas City Star [Ind.-Rep.]—By and large it was a moderate and sensible address that the President made to congress yesterday. One point of disagreement, however, may be mentioned at the outset. Listeners to the broadcast could not fail to observe the outburst of applause that came, from the President's standpoint, at precisely the wrong place. It was when he spoke of the two schools of thought on national spending. His audience enthusiastically indorsed the economy policy which he mentioned first.

Los Angeles Times [Rep.]—This is a new Roosevelt and one whose somewhat chastened attitude seems to reflect the lessons of the purge that failed, the election that went wrong and the billions . . . spent without tangible return. This Roosevelt recommends, he does not command; . . . he appeals, or seems to, to reasoning legislators rather than to rubber stamps.

Nashville, Tenn., Banner [Ind.]—The message of the President to congress marks the introduction of the fourth New Deal. Its distinguishing development is the addition of a military front to the essential features of the second and third New Deal periods.

New Brunswick, N. J., Home News [Ind.-Rep.]—Mr. Roosevelt's message was, in many respects, the best of the years. Democracy should take new hope. Business and industry in the United States should be heartened and stimulated to greater coöperation by the refreshingly friendly attitude of the President.

New Haven, Conn., Journal-Courier [Ind.]—The tone of the message, as opposed to some of the content, is reassuring. More than any other man, Mr. Roosevelt can guarantee the unity for which he appeals; he need merely edit out of New Deal orations the calls of disunity. He appears to suggest that the business and constitutional system are safe from further sweeping change; that is a pledge which the last elections make rhetorical.

New Orleans States [Ind.-Dem.]—There is no promise of retrenchment in expenditures, no prospect of tax relief, or the removal of oppressive restrictions upon business. . . .

New York Daily News [Ind.]—Eventually, of course, the anti-democracies may gang up on us and we may have to fight. Which is why we are for arming this country enough to meet any emergency foreseeable by level headed naval and military men, and for keeping it everlastingly so armed. . . . with what the President said about domestic affairs . . . we are in unqualified accord. That part of the message, we thought, was an enlightening and inspiring restatement of the high aims and philosophy of the New Deal.

New York Herald Tribune [Ind.-Rep.]—We agree so heartily with President Roosevelt's eloquent defense of democracy and with his plea for rearmament that it seems to us a national tragedy that he should attempt to use these ideals and their safeguarding in what we can only consider a desperate effort to postpone the New Deal's inevitable financial collapse.

New York Times [Ind.-Dem.]—It is disheartening to find Mr. Roosevelt still championing the theory that government spending on a lavish scale is needed to produce prosperity, when so much in the record clearly shows that government is a relatively minor factor and that prosperity has been achieved many times in the history of our own nation and of other nations without the use of this inherently dangerous device. It is equally disheartening to find the President leaving entirely to congress all leadership in the matter of putting the fiscal affairs of the government in better order, when he himself so clearly foresaw, before he was converted to his present theory, the danger that liberal government would in the end be "wrecked on rocks of loose fiscal policy."

Omaha World Herald [Ind.]—The Nazi menace is real enough. It is horrible and terrible. To defend themselves . . . against its aggression the American people stand ready to go the full limit of need. . . . Beyond these purposes—to the taking up of the rôle of world policeman to protect the politics, morals, and religion of all the earth by force of arms—they have neither desire nor intention to adventure.

Reno, Nev., Evening Gazette [Rep.]—To obtain more money Mr. Roosevelt beats the drums of war. While Europe is trying to obtain peace by sane territorial arrangements, he pours oil on its smouldering fires. In his imagination he beholds a menace to America which does not exist. He asks for a degree of power that no president should seek and no congress should grant.

REDS RELENT AND AUDACIOUS FLYER GETS WIFE BACK

MOSCOW, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Bryan Grover, madcap British air pilot, got his wife back today. What diplomatic experts had failed to achieve in four years of effort, the square jawed Englishman accomplished in a few weeks by daring to make a "one man invasion" of soviet Russia in a second hand plane and after only three weeks of flying instruction.

On top of that he carried his case to the doorstep of Dictator Stalin and offered to become a soviet citizen if necessary to regain his wife.

Whether the 37 year old engineer would be allowed to take his wife out of Russia still was not certain, but he was with her tonight "somewhere in Moscow" after having been released by soviet authorities. She, too, had been released from jail, and all optimists who knew anything about the case declared the soviet government surely would not spoil everything now by separating them again. Grover was working as an oil specialist when he married the Russian girl. He left Russia later and was refused reëntry.

NEW GARY POLICE CHIEF STARTS TO REVAMP FORCE

Reorganization of the Gary police department was started yesterday by William J. Linn, new chief of police who took office Tuesday. Linn announced several demotions and new measures for strict discipline.

Linn said vice and gambling are now on the run in Gary and will be kept on the run. Large gambling resorts were reported closed and preparing to move to locations outside the city limits. Linn was named chief by Mayor E. L. Schaible, who took office Monday as a result of the Republican victory in the November election.

PRESIDENT ASKS $50,340,988 TO PAY DEFICIENCY

36½ Millions Would Go for Naval Building.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this afternoon called upon congress to appropriate 36½ million dollars in the first deficiency bill for replacement of obsolete naval vessels and for armor, armament, and ammunition.

The deficiency message, sent to Speaker William B. Bankhead, recommended appropriations totaling $50,340,988. Among these was a $191,000 appropriation for the war department for repair of sections of Forts Michie and Terry, New York, damaged by the hurricane last fall.

24 Millions for Ships.

The navy's suggested 36½ million dollar appropriation was divided into 24 millions for the replacement of vessels, other construction and machinery, and 12½ millions for armor, armament, and ammunition. The sum will enable continuance of the naval building without delay through June 30, when the fiscal year expires.

At the same time the navy department awarded two contracts totaling $690,700 for construction of a machine shop at the Mare Island navy yard, California.

The President's national defense program from next July 1 will not be revealed until he sends his special defense message to congress next week. This message will contain provisions for expansion of the army and navy to his theory of contintal rather than national defense.

The budget message which goes to congress is expected to carry a provision for the army and navy departments at the present pace of spending about 1 billion 100 million dollars a year. The special message is expected to double this outlay.

Many Expenses Increased.

Other items which the President asked congress to include in its first deficiency bill were:

Legislative establishment—house—$11,000, telephone and telegraph.

General accounting office—$150,000 for additional expenses due to relief.

Export-Import Bank—$20,000 for general expenses due to increased business.

FHA—5 millions, of which $2,750,000 is to be taken from the mutual mortgage insurance fund and $2,250,000 from RFC for increased expenses of administration.

Post office department—$30,000 for personal and property damage claims.

U. S. Employés compensation commission—2 million dollars due to increase of numbers on the relief rolls to whom must be paid disability or death compensation.

Treasury department—$3,604,400; divided into rebuilding coast guard stations and communication lines, $104,000; acquisition of site for building for bureau of census, $3,500,000.

Interior department—$1,395,043, of which 1 million dollars is for irrigation systems on Indian reservations, and $200,000 for Alaska railroad.

State department—$192,500, of which $140,000 is for contingent expenses foreign service, $42,500 for salaries for increased number foreign service clerks and general expenses.

Mount Rushmore National Memorial commission—$75,000 to continue work.

Labor department—$1,074,220, of which $950,000 is for expenses of wage-hour administration; $79,000 for children's bureau expenses, $45,220 for immigration service increased expenses.

WALKS WRONG WAY IN FOG AND FALLS INTO LAKE

When Richard Shanahan left his work last night as attendant in a Park district parking lot at Monroe street in Grant park, he became confused in the dense fog. Instead of walking west he turned east.

At the lake front Shanahan, who is 68 years old and lives at 612 West 84th street, tumbled from a pier into 15 feet of icy water. His cries for help were heard by Michael, a St. Bernard dog. Michael stood over Shanahan and began barking.

Michael's master, Barney Greenwood, caretaker at the Chicago Yacht club nearby, heard the dog and investigated. With Henry Buth, 309 Armitage avenue, a passing motorist, he dragged Shanahan to safety. At St. Luke's hospital physicians said Shanahan was in a serious condition.

CAPONE FAMILY PAYS $37,000 ON HIS $57,000 FINE

Act to Get Him Out of Alcatraz Prison.

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

John Capone, brother of Al Capone, who obtained $35,000 check to be applied on fine imposed on gangster by government. Al Capone will soon be moved from Alcatraz prison to unannounced destination.

Al Capone, the imprisoned gang leader.

The family of Al Capone paid $37,692 yesterday to square part of his account with the United States government. On Jan. 19—two weeks from today—the former gang lord will have paid off another part of the account, a ten year prison sentence for evasion of income taxes.

Therefore, on Jan. 19 Capone will be eligible for transfer from Alcatraz prison in San Francisco bay. He still has a year in jail to serve, and he still owes the government $20,000. This fine and the jail term were imposed on misdemeanor charges, which included contempt of court and failure to file income tax returns.

Fine of $30,000 Paid.

Yesterday's payment included a $30,000 fine and $7,962 court costs due as part of the felony sentence against Capone. The felony and misdemeanor sentences were imposed at the same time in 1931. His transfer from Alcatraz depends on the government's granting him time off for good behavior.

Federal officials said it is certain that Capone will not serve his jail term in the Cook county jail. It was considerd possible that he will be taken to the federal prison hospital at Springfield, Mo. Prison doctors say he is suffering from paresis, a syphilitic disease that affects both the mind and body.

The $37,962 was delivered yesterday to Edward E. Douglas, acting clerk of the District court, by Attorney Abraham Teitelbaum. The lawyer handed over a cashier's check for $35,000 and cash for the remainder, with the remark: "We had a hard time raising it."

Brother Brings in $35,000.

Teitelbaum refused to say who had advanced the money, but Frank Rathje, president of the Chicago City Bank and Trust company, upon which the check was drawn, said Capone's younger brother, John, had appeared during the morning with $35,000 in currency. None of the Capones has accounts at the bank, Rathje said.

Chicago asociates of Al Capone in his gangland days said the money was raised by members of the immediate family, despite offers from a number of outsiders. Those who contributed were Mrs. Theresa Capone, the gangster's mother; Mrs. Mae Capone, his wife, and three brothers, Ralph, Albert, and John.

"Nobody has had a look at him, but he's bound to be in terrible shape," his friends said. "His wife has visited him on the Rock [Alcatraz], but all she saw was his eyes, through two peepholes. She didn't get a look at his face or shoulders, but we know he has lost 72 pounds. That brings him down to 195."

Anxious to Leave Alcatraz.

Capone could have been kept at Alcatraz if yesterday's payment had not been made. Capone's family must agree before he can be sent to a hospital or another jail. It is believed they have already agreed, since the government can withhold the two years in time off that the prisoner has earned.

Moreover, Capone is anxious to leave Alcatraz. Reports from the prison are that he has chafed more and more at the rigid discipline there. It is known ,too, that three attempts on his life have been made by other prisoners in the last eight years.

The probable release date for Capone has been set as Oct. 19, unless prison officials decide he needs further treatment for paresis and withhold his time off allowance. By taking a pauper's oath the ex-gang chief might avoid payment of the remaining $20,000 in fines. Such an oath, however, might lead to a new investigation, and Capone has had enough of federal investigations.

"The money will be paid when due," said Attorney Teitelbaum.

EXPERT TO STUDY BALLOT MARKS IN ERASURE CHARGE

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday ordered ballots cast in the 33d and 58th precincts of the 24th ward in the primary last April studied by Mrs. Katherine Keeler, handwriting expert. The order followed a report that 300 erasures had been made on the ballots cast in the two precincts. Mrs. Keeler is expected to report her findings tomorrow. The ten election officials of the two precincts are expected to be tried for contempt of court as a result of the election disclosures.

HELPS HER MAN MAKE GOOD; NOW WIFE SUES HIM

Asks $500 Monthly from Wealthy Bottler.

Mrs. Ethelwynne Hill knew that Christopher J. Hill was capable of making good in a big way in the business world. That's why, Mrs. Hill related yesterday, she didn't accept him every time Hill proposed marriage during their two year courtship.

Christopher J. Hill.

Whenever Hill talked of marriage, Mrs. Hill said, she urged him to branch out from the beverage company for which he worked and form his own concern.

Then when he organized the Pepsi-Cola Bottling company of Chicago, Mrs. Hill declared, she agreed to become his wife. They were married a month later.

Argues Over Alimony.

Mrs. Hill, smartly dressed in a Persian lamb fur coat and off-the-face hat, trimmed with fur, was testifying before Master in Chancery William R. Swissler. The purpose was to determine how much temporary alimony Hill should pay pending the separate maintenance suit of his wife. She is 39 years old.

Had it not been for her insistence that Hill, father of two children by his first marriage, go into business for himself, Mrs. Hill said, his Pepsi-Cola Bottling company would never have been born. And Mr. Hill, she said, would still be getting only $500 a month as beverage manager for the Hydrox corporation.

That was his job in August of 1933 when they met. Mrs. Hill said she was living then in a $45 a month apartment. Soon Mr. Hill got her an $18 a week job with the Hydrox people, she said, but she continued to turn down his proposals of marriage.

New Company Formed.

"I held him off," Mrs. Hill, a dainty, blue-eyed blonde told her attorneys, Phil R. Davis and Frederick H. Smith, "because I felt he was not making enough to support us and his two children. Constantly I urged him to make something of himself.

"With his bottling connections I knew he could branch out on his own with another drink. I even introduced him to my friends. One of them helped Mr. Hill finance the new company."

It was organized in December of 1935, she said, and the next month the Hills eloped to Crown Point. Mrs. Hill said they went to live in a $125 a month duplex apartment at 900 North Michigan, gradually moving up to a $150 a month apartment at the Seneca.

"What do you believe you contributed to Pepsi-Cola other than love and enthusiasm and wifely courage?" asked Hill's attorney, Samuel Rinella.

"If it had not been for me," Mrs. Hill replied, "he would never have had the courage to start his own bottling business.

"When did you decide to marry him?"

How She Reached Decision.

"Well," answered Mrs. Hill, "after we talked so much about our Pepsi-Cola business and how we would make a little more money and live a little more graciously. And, of course, we were very much in love."

Mrs. Hill, who insists her husband's income is nearly $50,000 a year, seeks $500 a month alimony. This is the style of living to which her husband accustomed her, she said.

The fur coat, Mrs. Hill explained, is really four seasons old. And, she added, it is the only one she has, while her clothing bill still runs about $150 a month.

The Hills separated last October, when Mrs. Hill returned from a three months' trip to Arizona. She said she left to recuperate after an operation and because her husband's nagging and jealousy had shattered her nerves. Upon her return, Mrs. Hill said, she found in her husband's bureau drawer canceled checks for $2,000 to a Mrs. Hilda Davis. Attorney Rinella said Mrs. Davis, who was not identified further, would testify for Hill. The hearing was adjourned until Jan. 13.

2 PRINTERS HELD IN COUNTERFEIT BANK NOTE PLOT

Danville, Ill., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Two Danville printers, seized in a plot to manufacture and distribute bogus Canadian bank notes, were held to the federal grand jury this afternoon in $2,000 bonds each. They are Edward T. Thede, member of an old Danville family, and James L. Clendening, his partner in the National Press.

Two Danville engravers who made plates for printing the spurious notes were questioned by government secret service men, but they were not held and their names were not disclosed.

The arrest of the two printers here last night followed the seizure of Alphonse Sopchuk in Windsor, Ont., on Dec. 30. Sopchuk had $6,000 in counterfeit notes.

In the print shop, government agents found $15,000 of the spurious notes. A stack of them apparently had been thrown out a back door of the shop. Small boys found the bills and were reported to have sold some of them to townsfolk at a dollar each.

MOVIE THEATERS CLOSED IN PARIS AS TAX PROTEST

PARIS, Jan. 4.—(AP)—All moving picture theaters in Paris—approximately 300—closed at noon today to protest a new municipal tax. A nation-wide movie shutdown was threatened within two weeks if no agreement is reached.

Operators decided that Paris suburban theaters will be closed if an agreement is not reached in a week.

Owners said that the tax, averaging 9 per cent on receipts, would amount to 300,000 francs [$7,800] a year for neighborhood movies and would make profitable operation impossible.

ICKES CALLS OFF ADDRESS BEFORE RED FRONT GROUP

Dies Quiz to Have Been Topic of His Speech.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes today canceled the speech he was to have made Friday evening at a meeting of the American League for Peace and Democracy, a communist front organization.

Ickes was to have spoken on the subject of the Dies committee, which has been investigating un-American activities. In the investigation the committee delved into the communist affiliations of the league. Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party in the United States, is one of the promoters of the meeting Ickes was to have addressed.

No Explanation Given.

No explanation was given at Ickes' office for his refusal to appear before the league's congress. In answer to an inquiry, aids reported that any interpretation that suggested itself could be placed on the cancelation.

When he accepted the invitation, Ickes, one of the most vitriolic of the administration spokesmen against the work of the Dies committee, announced the title of his address as "Playing with Loaded Dies."

Ickes was exposed to the committee's heat when it disclosed his affiliation with the American Civil Liberties' union, another communist front organization. In return he sputtered against the committee's work and withdrew PWA projects from the home district of its chairman, Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.].

Hint Roosevelt Request.

It was believed that Ickes canceled his speech at the request of the White House. It was understood that President Roosevelt, who traced his administration's defeat at the November election in part to his assault on Dies and his committee, had no desire to link unmistakably one of his official family with the Red cause.

The league was formerly known as the American League Against War and Fascism. Browder was vice chairman under the old name.

TEXT OF PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE TO 76TH CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The text of President Roosevelt's annual message to congress follows:

"To the congress of the United States:

"In reporting on the state of the nation, I have felt it necessary on previous occasions to advise the congress of disturbance abroad and of the need of putting our own house in order in the face of storm signals from across the seas. As this seventy-sixth congress opens there is need for further warning.

"A war which threatened to envelop the world in flames has been averted; but it has become increasingly clear that peace is not assured.

"All about us rage undeclared wars—military and economic. All about us grow more deadly armaments—military and economic. All about us are threats of new aggression—military and economic.

Storms Abroad Challenge.

"Storms from abroad directly challenge three institutions indispensable to Americans, now as always. The first is religion. It is the source of the other two—democracy and international good faith.

"Religion, by teaching man his relationship to God, gives the individual a sense of his own dignity and teaches him to respect himself by respecting his neighbors.

"Democracy, the practice of self-government, is a covenant among free men to respect the rights and liberties of their fellows.

"International good faith, a sister of democracy, springs from the will of civilized nations of men to respect the rights and liberties of other nations of men.

"In a modern civilization, all three—religion, democracy and international good faith—complement each other.

Give Way to Force.

"Where freedom of religion has been attacked, the attack has come from sources opposed to democracy. Where democracy has been overthrown, the spirit of free worship has disappeared. And where religion and democracy have vanished, good faith and reason in international affairs have given way to strident ambition and brute force.

"An ordering of society which relegates religion, democracy and good faith among nations to the background can find no place within it for the ideals of the Prince of Peace. The United States rejects such an ordering, and retains its ancient faith.

"There comes a time in the affairs of men when they must prepare to defend not their homes alone but the tenents of faith and humanity on which their churches, their governments and their very civilization are founded. The defense of religion, of democracy and of good faith among nations is all the same fight.

Cites Americas at Peace.

"We know what might happen to us of the United States if the new philosophies of force were to encompass the other continents and invade our own. We, no more than other nations, can afford to be surrounded by the enemies of our faith and our humanity. Fortunate it is, therefore, that in this western hemisphere we have, under a common ideal of democratic government, a rich diversity of resources and of peoples functioning together in mutual respect and peace.

"That hemisphere, that peace, and that ideal we propose to do our share in protecting against storms from any quarter. Our people and our resources are pledged to secure that protection. From that determination no American flinches.

"This by no means implies that the American republics disassociate themselves from the nations of other continents—it does not mean the Americas against the rest of the world. We as one of the republics reiterate our willingness to help the cause of world peace. We stand on our historic offer to take counsel with all other nations of the world to the end that aggression among them be terminated, that the race of armaments cease and that commerce be renewed.

Weapons of Attack Swift.

"But the world has grown so small and weapons of attack so swift that no nation can be safe in its will to peace so long as any other single powerful nation refuses to settle its grievances at the council table.

"For if any government bristling with implements of war insists on policies of force, weapons of defense give the only safety.

"In our foreign relations we have learned from the past what not to do. From new wars we have learned what we must do.

"We have learned that effective timing of defense and the distant points from which attacks may be launched are completely different from what they were twenty years ago.

"We have learned that survival can not be guaranteed by arming after the attack begins—for there is new range and speed to offense.

Begins with Propaganda.

"We have learned that long before any overt military act, aggression begins with preliminaries of propaganda, subsidized penetration, the loosening of ties of good will, the stirring of prejudice and the incitement to disunion.

"We have learned that God-fearing democracies of the world which observe the sanctity of treaties and good faith in their dealings with other nations cannot safely be indifferent to international lawlessness anywhere. They cannot forever let pass, without effective protest, acts of aggression against sister nations—acts which automatically undermine all of us.

"Obviously they must proceed along practical, peaceful lines. But the mere fact that we rightly decline to intervene with arms to prevent acts of aggression does not mean that we must act as if there were no aggression at all. Words may be futile, but war is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind. There are many methods short of war, but stronger and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor governments the aggregate sentiments of our own people.

Refers to Neutrality Laws.

"At the very least, we can and should avoid any action, or any lack of action, which will encourage, assist or build up an aggressor. We have learned that when we deliberately try to legislate neutrality, our neutrality laws may operate unevenly and unfairly—may actually give aid to an aggressor and deny it to the victim. The instinct of self-preservation should warn us that we ought not to let that happen any more.

"And we have learned something else—the old, old lesson that probability of attack is mightily decreased by the assurance of an ever ready defense. Since 1931 world events of thunderous import have moved with lightning speed. During these eight years many of our people clung to the hope that the innate decency of mankind would protect the unprepared who showed their innate trust in mankind. Today we are all wiser—and sadder.

"Under modern conditions what we mean by 'adequate defense'—a policy subscribed to by all—must be divided into three elements. First we must have armed forces and defenses strong enough to ward off sudden attack against strategic positions and key facilities essential to insure sustained resistance and ultimate victory. Secondly we must have the organization and location of those key facilities so that they may be immediately utilized and rapidly expanded to meet all needs without danger of serious interruption by enemy attack.

Another Message Coming.

"In the course of a few days I shall send you a special message making recommendations for those two essentials of defense against danger which we cannot safely assume will not come.

"If these first two essentials are reasonably provided for, we must be able confidently to invoke the third element, the underlying strength of citizenship—the self-confidence, the ability, the imagination and the devotion that give the staying power to see things through.

"A strong and united nation may be destroyed if it is unprepared against sudden attack. But even a nation well armed and well organized from a strictly military standpoint may, after a period of time, meet defeat if it is unnerved by self-distrust, endangered by class prejudice, by dissension between capital and labor, by false economy, and by other unsolved social problems at home.

Makes Plea for Unity.

"In meeting the troubles of the world we must meet them as one people—with a unity born of the fact that for two generations those who have come to our shores, representing many kindreds and tongues, have been welded by common opportunity into a united patriotism. If another form of government can present a united front in its attack on democracy, the attack must be met by a united democracy. Such a democracy can and must exist in the United States.

"A dictatorship may command the full strength of a regimented nation. But the united strength of a democratic nation can be mustered only when its people, educated by modern standards to know what is going on and where they are going, have conviction that they are receiving as large a share of opportunity for development, as large a share of material success and of human dignity, as they have a right to receive.

"Our nation's program of social and economic reform is therefore a part of defense as basic as armaments themselves.

"Against the background of events in Europe, in Africa and in Asia during these recent years, the pattern of what we have accomplished since 1933 appears in even clearer focus.

Cites National Instruments.

"For the first time we have moved upon deep seated problems affecting our national strength and have forged national instruments adequate to meet them.

"Consider what the seemingly piecemeal struggles of these six years add up to in terms of realistic national preparedness.

"We are conserving and developing natural resources—land, water, power, forests.

"We are trying to provide necessary food, shelter and medical care for the health of our population.

"We are putting agriculture—our system of food and fiber supply—on a sounder basis.

"We are strengthening the weakest spot in our system of industrial supply—its long smoldering labor difficulties.

"We have cleaned up our credit system so that depositor and investor alike may more readily and willingly make their capital available for peace or war.

"We are giving to our youth new opportunities for work and education.

Points to Aids for Aged.

"We have sustained the morale of all the population by the dignified recognition of our obligations to the aged, the helpless, and the needy.

"Above all, we have made the American people conscious of their interrelationship and their interdependence. They sense a common destiny—and a common need of each other. Differences of occupation, geography, race, and religion no longer obscure the nation's fundamental unity in thought and in action.

"We have our difficulties, true—but we are a wiser and a tougher nation than we were in 1929 or 1932.

"Never have there been six years of such far-flung internal preparedness in our history. And all this has been done without any dictator's power to command, without conscription of labor or confiscation of capital, without concentration camps, and without a scratch on freedom of speech, freedom of the press, or the rest of the bill of rights.

Says Tools Are Outmoded.

"We see things now that we could not see along the way. The tools of government which we had in 1933 are outmoded. We have had to forge new tools for a new rôle of government in democracy—a rôle of new responsibility for new needs and increased responsibility for old needs, long neglected.

"Some of these tools had to be roughly shaped and still need some machining down. Many of those who fought bitterly against the forging of these new tools welcome their use today. The American people, as a whole, have accepted them. The nation looks to the congress to improve the new machinery which we have permanently installed, provided that in the process the social usefulness of the machinery is not destroyed or impaired.

"All of us agree that we should simplify and improve laws if experience and operation clearly demonstrate the need. For instance, all of us want better provision for our older people under our social security legislation. For the medically needy we must provide better care.

Deplores Labor Strife.

"Most of us agree that for the sake of employer and employé alike we must find ways to end factional labor strife and employer-employé disputes.

"Most of us recognize that none of these tools can be put to maximum effectiveness unless the executive processes of government are revamped—reorganized, if you will—into more effective combination. And even after such reorganization it will take time to develop administrative personnel and experience in order to use our new tools with a minimum of mistakes. The congress, of course, needs no further information on this.

"With this exception of legislation to provide greater government efficiency, and with the exception of legislation to ameliorate our railroad and other transportation problems, the past three congresses have met in part or in whole the pressing needs of the new order of things.

Turns to Recovery.

"We have now passed the period of internal conflict in the launching of our program of social reform. Our full energies may now be released to invigorate the processes of recovery in order to preserve our reforms, and to give every man and woman who wants to work a real job at a living wage.

"But time is of paramount importance. The deadline of danger from within and from without is not within our control. The hour glass may be in the hands of other nations. Our own hour glass tells us that we are off on a race to make democracy work, so that we may be efficient in peace and therefore secure in self-defense.

"This time element forces us to still greater efforts to attain the full employment of our labor and our capital.

"The first duty of our statesmanship today is to bring capital and man-power together.

Assails Dictatorships.

"Dictatorships do this by main force. By using main force they apparently succeed at it—for the moment. However we abhor their methods, we are compelled to admit that they have obtained substantial utilization of all their material and human resources. Like it or not, they have solved, for a time at least, the problem of idle men and idle capital.

"Can we compete with them by boldly seeking methods of putting idle men and idle capital together and, at the same time, remain within our American way of life, within the bills, of rights, and within the bounds of what is, from our point of view, civilization itself?

"We suffer from a great unemployment of capital. Many people have the idea that as a nation we are overburdened with debt and are spending more than we can afford. That is not so. Despite our federal government expenditures the entire debt of our national economic system, public and private together, is no larger today than it was in 1929, and the interest thereon is far less than it was in 1929.

Would Put Capital to Work.

"The object is to put capital—private as well as public—to work.

"We want to get enough capital and labor at work to give us a total turnover of business, a total national income, of at least eighty billion dollars a year. At that figure we shall have a substantial reduction of unemployment; and the federal revenues will be sufficient to balance the current level of cash expenditures on the basis of the existing tax structure. That figure can be attained, working within the framework of our traditional profit system.

"The factors in attaining and maintaining that amount of national income are many and complicated.

"They include more widespread understanding among business men of many changes which world conditions and technological improvements have brought to our economy over the last twenty years—changes in the interrelationship of price and volume and employment, for instance—changes of the kind in which business men are now educating themselves through opportunities like the so-called 'monopoly investigation.'

Sees Need of Farm Aid.

"They include a perfecting of our farm program to protect farmers' income and consumers' purchasing power from alternate risks of crop gluts and crop shortages.

"They include wholehearted acceptance of new standards of honesty in our financial markets.

"They include reconcilement of enormous, antagonistic interests—some of them long in litigation—in the railroad and general transportation field.

"They include the working out of new techniques—private, state and federal—to protect the public interest in and to develop wider markets for electric power.

"They include a revamping of the tax relationships between federal, state and local units of government, and consideration of relatively small tax increases to adjust inequalities without interfering with the aggregate income of the American people.

Urges Peace in Employment.

"They include the perfecting of labor organization and a universal ungrudging attitude by employers toward the labor movement, until there is a minimum of interruption of production and employment because of disputes, and acceptance by labor of the truth that the welfare of labor itself depends on increased balanced output of goods.

"To be immediately practical, while proceeding with a steady evolution in the solving of these and like problems, we must wisely use instrumentalities, like federal investment, which are immediately available to us.

"Here, as elsewhere, time is the deciding factor in our choice of remedies.

"Therefore it does not seem logical to me, at the moment we seek to increase production and consumption, for the federal government to consider a drastic curtailment of its own investments.

"The whole subject of government investing and government income is one which may be approached in two different ways.

Tells Views on Spending.

"The first calls for the elimination of enough activities of government to bring the expenses of government immediately into balance with income of government. This school of thought maintains that because our national income this year is only sixty billion dollars, ours is only a sixty billion dollar country; that government must treat it as such; and that without the help of government it may, some day, somehow, happen to become an eighty billion dollar country.

"If the congress decides to accept this point of view it will logically have to reduce the present functions or activities of government by one-third. The congress will have to accept the responsibility for such reduction; and the congress will have to determine which activities are to be reduced.

"Certain expenditures we cannot possibly reduce, such as the interest on the public debt. A few million dollars saved here or there in the normal or in curtailed work of the old departments and commissions will make no great saving in the federal budget.

Reductions Up to Congress.

"Therefore the congress would have to reduce drastically some of certain large items, such as aids to agriculture and soil conservation, veterans' pensions, flood control, highways, waterways and other public works, grants for social and health security, Civilian Conservation corps activities, relief for the unemployed, or national defense.

"The congress alone has the power to do all this, as it is the appropriating branch of the government.

"The other approach to the question of government spending takes the position that this nation ought not to be and need not be only a sixty billion dollar nation; that at this moment it has the men and the resources sufficient to make it at least an eighty billion dollar nation.

"This school of thought does not believe that it can become an eighty billion dollar nation in the near future if government cuts its operations by one-third. It is convinced that if we were to try it we would invite disaster—that we would not long remain even a sixty billion dollar nation. There are many complicated factors with which we have to deal, but we have learned that it is unsafe to make abrupt reductions at any time in our net expenditure program.

Claims Tide Has Turned.

"By our common sense action of resuming government activities last spring, we have reversed a recession and started the new rising tide of prosperity and national income which we are now just beginning to enjoy.

"If government activities are fully maintained, there is a good prospect of our becoming an eighty billion dollar country in a very short time. With such a national income, present tax laws will yield enough each year to balance each year's expenses.

"It is my conviction that down in their hearts the American public—industry, agriculture, finance—wants this congress to do whatever needs to be done to raise our national income to eighty billion dollars a year.

"Investing soundly must preclude spending wastefully. To guard against opportunist appropriations, I have on several occasions addressed the congress on the importance of permanent long-range planning. I hope, therefore, that following my recommendation of last year a permanent agency will be set up and authorized to report on the urgency and desirability of the various types of government investment.

"Investment for prosperity can be made in a democracy.

Again Attacks Dictatorships.

"I hear some people say 'This is all so complicated. There are certain advantages in a dictatorship. It gets rid of labor trouble, of unemployment, of wasted motion and of having to do your own thinking.'

"My answer is 'Yes, but it also gets rid of some other things which we Americans intend very definitly to keep—and we still intend to do our own thinking.'

"It will cost us taxes and the voluntary risk of capital to attain some of the practical advantages which other forms of government have acquired.

"Dictatorship, however, involves costs which the American people will never pay: The cost of our spiritual values. The cost of the blessed right of being able to say what we please. The cost of freedom of religion. The cost of seeing our capital confiscated. The cost of being cast into a concentration camp. The cost of being afraid to walk down the street with the wrong neighbor. The cost of having our children brought up not as free and dignified human beings, but as pawns molded and enslaved by a machine.

Holds No Price Too High.

"If the avoidance of these costs means taxes on my income; if avoiding these costs means taxes on my estate at death, I would bear those taxes willingly as the price of my breathing and my children breathing the free air of a free country, as the price of a living and not a dead world.

"Events abroad have made it increasingly clear to the American people that dangers within are less to be feared than dangers from without. If therefore a solution of this problem of idle men and idle capital is the price of preserving our liberty, no formless selfish fears can stand in our way.

"Once I prophesied that this generation of Americans had a rendezvous with destiny. That prophecy comes true. To us much is given; more is expected.

"This generation will 'nobly save or meanly lose the last best hope of earth . . . the way is plain, peaceful, generous, just—a way which if followed the world will forever applaud and God must forever bless.'"

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

NEW JAP PREMIER PLANS NO SUDDEN POLICY CHANGES

Asks Key Members of Old Cabinet to Remain.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 5 [Thursday.]—Premier Designate Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma completed a cabinet today composed of key members from Prince Fumimaro Konoe's ministry which resigned yesterday and only three new ministers.

The new ministers are Sotaro Ishiwatari, finance; Chuji Machida, agriculture; and Yonezo Maeda, railways.

Ishiwatari was vice minister of finance in the resigned cabinet. Machida is the leader of the Minseito party, one of the two major political parties of Japan and has served in a number of cabinets since 1926. He narrowly escaped assassination in the attempted insurrection in Tokio of young army men on Feb. 26, 1936.

Maeda is a leader in the Seiyukai, the second major political party, and recently served on important parliamentary committees. He headed the railway ministry once before.

Machida succeeded Count Rainei Arima in the agriculture post. With the exception of Konoe himself, the only important change in the government thus was the resignation of Seihin Ikeda as minister of finance.

Changes Bound to Come.

Hiranuma will make no sudden changes of the policies formulated by the Konoe administration, informed quarters declared. This, it was said, is particularly true in the case of foreign relations.

However, with the country beset by increasingly serious difficulties, internally as well as in foreign relations, gradual, wholesale and far reaching readjustments in the nation's financial, industrial and business activities are regarded as inevitable.

Many of these policies were planned and partly executed under the Konoe administration, though apparently not with great relish. They are expected to be pushed through by Hiranuma.

Stronger control of economy and industry is anticipated. There will be a definite shift to the right, political observers say. Some foreign conjectures of a Fascist dictatorship, however, are ridiculed here.

Financial Leaders Pleased.

Financial circles welcome the choice of Ishiwatari, as the finance chief. They warn that the government should, above all, avoid making sudden changes in the economic situation. They say that the fact that Hiranuma apointed Ikeda's right hand man indicates that he is not considering an abrupt change.

Since Ikeda formerly was identified with the vast business enterprises of the Mitsui interests, the cause of the cabinet collapse thus appeared to have been disagreement over the extent of government control over business. Ikeda had opposed extension of government control of corporation capital and investments and of munitions profits.

Leading newspapers this morning declare that the selection of Hiranuma, without any other candidates even being considered, show that he is the right man to tackle the present difficulties.

Hiranuma is 73 years old and a bachelor. He was head of a nationalist political party until he became president of the privy council in 1936. He comes of a military family, but rose not by a career of arms, but through the law and politics. He has opposed the westernization of Japan and clings to Japanese costume wherever possible.

Fighting in China Resumes.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Severe fighting on widely separated fronts was reported today after the holiday lull. The Chinese said they had broken the long deadlock along the Sui river, fifty miles south of the Yangtze river port of Kiukiang, by forcing a crossing and recapturing two towns on the north bank.

Farther to the west along the Hupeh-Hunan border they asserted they had recaptured Tawuntsun, fifteen miles west of Yochow.

Meanwhile, a Domei [Japanese] news agency dispatch from Nanking said Lieut. Gen. Otozo Yamada had arrived there to assume his new duties as commander in chief of Japanese forces in Central China.

Delayed messages indicated today that China's newest province of Sikong—or Sikang—on "the roof of the world," began functioning on schedule New Year's day when Gen. Liu Wen-hui was inaugurated governor.

SPANISH REBELS BOMB REFUGEE TRAINS; 40 SLAIN

25 Warplanes Blast Tarragona.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [near the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 4.—Two trainloads of refugees who had fled to Tarragona from the Catalonian battle front were bombed by Spanish insurgent war planes today, and at least forty persons were killed.

It was known that another thirty were wounded. Other casualties were caused elsewhere in Tarragona, an important east coast city sixty miles southwest of Barcelona. Bombs were dumped upon the city for hours by twenty-five rebel planes, which wheeled about leisurely. This was considered the worst raid behind the front since the Spanish civil war began.

Three British ships were hit by fragments from the exploding bombs and damaged, though no one aboard them was reported wounded.

Confirm Fall of Artesa.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier].—Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Spanish rebel command tonight officially announced the capture of Artesa, "gateway to Catalonia," sixty-five miles from Barcelona.

Fall of the city, which was claimed by insurgent dispatches from Burgos, insurgent military headquarters, twenty-four hours before, was in contradicted today by the government command. Insurgents did not reiterate the claim until tonight, when an official communique asserted the textile town fell before attacks of two insurgent columns which crossed the Segre river on pontoons and waded through fields flooded by diversion of water from the Urgel canal.

Reach Borjas Blancas Outskirts.

BURGOS, Spain, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A vanguard of Navarrese fighting with Gen. Francisco Franco's rebel armies reached the outskirts of Borjas Blancas, the southern end of the powerful government fortified line defending Barcelona, an insurgent announcement said tonight. Other forces in the same sector were declared to have occupied Alses as government troops abandoned Sudanell and Torres de Segre.

PRIEST DECRIES MEDDLING IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Government officials who deliver speeches criticizing the internal affairs of other nations are going outside their appointed spheres and should be condemned. This opinion was given last night by the Rev. James A. Magner, professor at the Quigley Preparatory seminary, in an address to a Catholic action group in the Ridge park fieldhouse at 96th street and Longwood drive.

"Each country has a right to its own government," he said, "and each government has enough to do running its own internal affairs. The only time criticism of foreign nations is justified is when those nations try to project their peculiar ideas abroad."

MOSCOW ORDERS HITLER EMBASSY TO FIRE RUSSIANS

Strained Relations Are Marked by New Decrees.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 4.—Relations between the soviet Russian government and Germany have become extremely strained.

Lavrenti Respi Pavlovich Berijev, the new GPU [secret police] commissar, informed the German embassy in Moscow that beginning Feb. 1 Germany must discharge all soviet citizens in its employ and engage Germans. Menials such as janitors, doormen, chauffeurs, and cooks are included in the demand.

Another decree by Berijev commanded all government institutions to present to the GPU a list of all Germans residing in Russia who are liable to immediate expulsion.

Cards Reveal Germans.

The list must be completed before Jan. 15 and the latest decree, under which working cards are being issued to all jobholders in Russia, is being utilized to discover the whereabouts of many Germans, employed as specialists in soviet undertakings, who have changed their employment recently.

The Moscow diplomatic corps regards the new measures as part of the preparation for war, which the soviet government fears this spring. Similar measures are being applied to Japanese and other foreigners living in Siberian districts. Moscow military circles fear that the soviet forces will be confronted by a simultaneous attack across both the eastern and western frontiers.

The Germans have not concealed their preparations to organize an army of 300,000 Ukrainians, White Russians, Russians, and other adventurers for possible invasion of the soviet Ukraine next spring, when another famine is expected to hamper the effectiveness of the Red forces. This has caused much anxiety in Moscow.

Reds Fearful of Japan.

Japanese activities lead Russia to believe a conflict is imminent, and another decree has ordered the investigation of the control of all Red arsenals—especially stores, provisions, and motor fuels—in the far east.

Anxiety in Moscow was intensified by the discovery of another plot to overthrow Dictator Josef Stalin's régime. The plot originated among officers of the Leningrad garrisons, eighty of whom were arrested.

A curious feature of the plot was its religious character. All those arrested were said to be devout Christians conspiring to overthrow the alleged Jewish bolshevik régime.

Berijev, the newest addition to the council of people's commissars, like many other recent protégés of the Kaganovich family, is Jewish. The increasingly Jewish character of the bolshevik régime is said to explain its growing anti-German measures.

CITY SPURNS GIFT OF 51 LOTS; JOLTS A TAX HEADACHE

In 1934 Sterritt Graham Nelson, an accountant with offices at 7 South Dearborn street, deeded fifty-one vacant lots to the city. But the city won't accept them. As a result, Nelson said yesterday, he probably will have to talk to the internal revenue agents again about his 1934 income tax.

Nelson deeded the lots to the city to make a deduction of what he had paid for them from his income tax return. The deed gave the consideration as his release from all general taxes and special assessments on the property. The city found it had the lots when a woman tried to purchase one last month. The lots are in various parts of the south side.

City Controler R. B. Upham got an opinion from Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes that the city was not bound to accept the property, and an ordinance renouncing title will be introduced in the city council. Tax liens on the properties, to many of which Nelson held only tax titles, are about equal to their value.

Arrow indicates Camp Ain-Tounine, where Premier Daladier of France reviewed desert troops yesterday. The camp is in the region of the Mareth fortifications, which are known as "the Maginot line of the desert." Daladier motored to Ben Gardane, a few miles from Italy's Libya.

LOVE TOO SWEET FOR WORDS ENDS IN A PAWNSHOP

Love's old sweet song was even sweeter when sung by Morris Sugar. When she accepted his engagement ring, and eventually a wedding ring to go with it, Miss Lillian Hockom never thought he might some day take them back and pawn them.

But he did, according to her divorce suit filed in Superior court yesterday. Moreover, she charged, he sold the ring she was given when she was graduated from grammar school, and some linen he found in her mother's home. Sugar began throwing plates at her last March, she charged, and two weeks before Christmas he struck her.

Mrs. Sugar, 27 years old, lives at 1522 North Rockwell street. Her attorney, Harold Rivkin, said she weighed 110 pounds when she was married, but that she has lost thirty pounds. She asks custody of the three children. Sugar, 34, lives at 2640 Evergreen avenue.

Charles Butterworth, Film Comedian, Sued for Divorce

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Charles Butterworth, screen and radio comedian, today was sued for divorce by Ethel Butterworth on grounds of cruelty. She is the former wife of Eddie Sutherland, movie director. The Butterworths were married Dec. 7, 1932, and separated Feb. 20, 1937, her complaint said.

ROOSEVELT GIVES IL DUCE SOLUTION OF JEWS' PLIGHT

Envoy Offers Mussolini Plan in Interview.

ROME, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Italian government today disclosed that President Roosevelt had sent to Premier Mussolini proposals for a solution of the European Jewish problem, but did not say what the proposals were.

United States Ambassador William Phillips, who returned to Rome shortly before Christmas after conferring with President Roosevelt, delivered the proposals to Il Duce last night at a lengthy conference in the presence of Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

May Apply to Refugees.

An official communique, issued twenty-four hours after the conference, gave the first official hint of the nature of the talk. It said:

"Il Duce received, in the presence of Count Ciano, American Ambassador Phillips, who was the bearer of a message from President Roosevelt concerning a European Semitic question and possible solutions of a general character."

Diplomatic circles said it was quite probable that the President's proposals dealt with the problem of caring for thousands of Jewish refugees seeking to escape from the anti-Semitic campaigns in Italy, Germany, and other European countries.

Jews Jam Consulates.

Facilities of American consulates in Italy have been taxed in recent months with applications of Jews seeking admission to the United States. Many of the applicants are refugees from Austria and Germany who must leave in the next two months under a law expelling alien Jews.

The one hour talk yesterday and the rarity of such a visit to the premier earlier had caused belief in diplomatic circles that Ambassador Phillips had passed along President Roosevelt's views on foreign policy and a particular hope that the Rome-Berlin axis would abstain from disturbing the peace of Europe.

HANGS HIMSELF IN ATTIC.

The body of Joseph Hruska, 47 years old, was found hanging yesterday in the attic of his home at 5244 South Knox avenue.

"I use REM whenever I've a cough. I'm never without it at home. I've found it a first-class cough remedy."

Mr. Louis Vasilion
5244 Irving Park Blvd., Chicago

Here's the point:

Coughs come without notice... that's why many people, like Mr. Vasilion, keep a bottle of REM on hand in case of need. And it's a mighty good idea! There are definite reasons why REM gives such good results:

(1) REM is made specifically for coughs resulting from colds.

(2) REM is a real cough medicine, not just a "tickle stopper."

(3) REM is thorough, because it works two ways . . . not only in the throat, but also systemically. That's what makes it so very much more effective.

So if you have a cough resulting from a cold, don't fool around with it! Go after it with a real cough medicine like REM.

BUT THESE UNWITHERED—

By CALEB

THE HECTIC arrival, pause and departure of the recent Holidays were a heavenly headache. While the Thanksgiving-Christmas-New Year's season lasted, life was ennobled, illumined; definitely lifted out of the common into the uncommon.

Breathing the gay, quickened atmosphere of those weeks, we saw that the drab surface of everyday things obligingly dissolved—that a shining new surface disclosed itself underneath. People themselves were no longer "ordinary," as at other times of the year, but important. Tasks were easier to discharge; duties less burdensome. Very really and literally, it was a "more blessed to give than to receive" time for us all.

And now that the holly-wreaths have browned—the iridescent trees turned to forgotten heaps in alleyways—the Christmas cards been crumpled away in drawers or closet nooks . . . and a whole new year of endeavor is waiting in the offing . . . it is interesting to speculate on just how much the majority of us will keep as salvage from it all.

A friend of the writer's has set down his own post-Holiday ticket in these terms: "As for me, I have resolved that the best features of those happy yesterdays are going to stay mine all through 1939. There is a magnificent tree I saw in your store. I can see it now, the instant I think of it. And so, to me it will never become withered; I shall have treated it with that perfect immortalizer, Memory. And the carol-music I heard, the radiant faces I observed, the friendliness I found in others, the instinctive revelations of brotherhood I glimpsed on all sides . . . these, too, I shall not toss away, but keep straight through to this present year's end."

Amen to such a wise resolution! And if it could, by some magic contagion, be universalized, no acute economist would need to prophesy the wonders certain to ensue. Nineteen Thirty-Nine would stand out in history as a "miracle year"! But human nature being the so-human thing it is, let us not be extravagant in our hopes on this score. Rather, why shouldn't we quietly do as this friend of the writer's is doing: appropriate enough Holiday legacies which never wither to make 1939 something of a Miracle Year for ourselves? No one questions it can be done. But if it IS done, it will not be as a matter of course. Salvage values call for the word "Christmas" to be prefixed to every day of everyday living—and isn't it abundantly worth trying to do?

POLISH MINISTER TO HEAR HITLER'S AIMS IN UKRAINE

Leaders Also to Discuss Quarrel Over Jews.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The agitation of Polish Ukrainians for self-government and the problem of Polish Jews in Germany are expected to be discussed tomorrow by Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Foreign Minister Col. Josef Beck of Poland. The two will confer in Hitler's home above Berchtesgaden in the Bavarian Alps.

The officially-inspected news service Dienst aus Deutschland said the coming conference "reveals the mutual wish to continue the neighborliness" of Germany and Poland and hinted that the Ukranian issue might arise.

Dovetail Their Policies.

Germany and Poland, the service remarked, "desire first and foremost to dovetail the tendencies of their policies into certain eastern European problems in which they are mutually interested and toward the solution of which they wish to assume an identical attitude."

[Last month a movement was started in Poland for autonomy for a large section of southeastern Poland inhabited largely by Ukrainians. Indications also were apparent in Germany of an interest in Ukrainian self-government.]

German quarters insisted again tonight that the emigration of German Jews must be linked to methods of increasing German exports.

On the eve of the visit of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, to Reichsbank President Dr. Hjalmar Schacht—during which proposals for getting Jews out of Germany are to be discussed—these sources said foreign efforts to persuade Germany not to use Jews as a means of boosting imports had made no impression here.

Suggest Three Way Deal.

The British banker is to be the godfather at the christening of Dr. Schacht's grandson, the child of Schacht's daughter, Inge von Scherpenberg.

The Dienst aus Deutschland said the question of trade and Jews would be discussed by the two financier-friends. A plan for a triangular goods exchange among the United States, Germany, and Great Britain was suggested by the news service as a "means of solving the Jewish problem."

A London dispatch said Norman would make an effort to prevent a British-German trade war. The dispatch added Schacht was worried about Germany's adverse trade balance, which last year amounted to about 200,000,000 marks [$80,000,000].

If Norman establishes a financial basis for emigration negotiations, representatives of an inter-governmental refugee committee, including the American director George Rublee, may go to Berlin next week for conferences.

JAILED FOR STABBING.

Ralph Guy, 1964 Lincoln avenue, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell yesterday by Municipal Judge Leon Edelman for stabbing another man during a quarrel.

Film Actor to Wed

Wayne Morris and Bubbles Salmon Schinasi, cigaret heiress, as they applied for a license to wed in Los Angeles yesterday.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Engagement of Wayne Morris, film actor, and Miss Bubbles Schinasi, tobacco heiress, reached the black and white stage today when the couple applied for a marriage license at the county clerk's office.

Morris, 24 years old, and Miss Schinasi, 18, were accompanied to the license bureau by their friend, Municipal Judge Joseph Marchetti, who will perform the ceremony next Saturday evening at the Victor Hugo café in Beverly Hills.

The young couple met in the east only three months ago while Morris was on a personal appearance tour. Miss Schinasi is the daughter of the late Leon Schinasi, importer of Turkish tobacco.

U. S. IS INSOLENT, SHAMELESS AND SILLY, NAZIS SAY

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Das Schwarze Korps, official organ of the black-uniformed Schutzstaffel Guards, bitterly attacked West Virginia students and the magazine Life today for making fun of Reichsfuehrer Hitler in connection with the "Hitler party" pictured in a recent issue of Life.

A full page editorial was captioned in huge letters "USA," but to each of these were added other letters in small type, which made the caption read "Universchaemt" [insolent], "Schamlos" [shameless], and "Albern" [silly].

Das Schwarze Korps said: "If we were not such barbarians who resolutely decline to imitate the kultur of others, the students of Heidelberg university would have to put on a beer stunt at which everybody would have to appear in the mask of President Roosevelt. [The West Virginia students all wore Hitler mustaches at a party.]

"If the mass imitation of that noble head should present difficulties, there still would remain the possibility of troubling the inmates of the monkey reservation of the Berlin zoo because then the mask moulders would not have the least difficulty."

ASSEMBLY SITS ITSELF DOWN TO 6 MONTHS' GRIND

New G. O. P. Majority Rules House with a Bang.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on Back Page.)

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—With something less than clockwork precision, the Illinois legislature organized and started its 61st biennial session today. Both houses elected officers, a few bills were introduced and the six months' grind began.

It was no ordinary opening for the Republicans, who for the first time in six years found themselves in control of the house of representatives.

Handling their 79 votes as a unit, the G. O. P. members placed Hugh W. Cross of Jerseyville in the speaker's chair. Their Democratic colleagues elected Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago as their floor leader. The Democrats had only 74 votes.

Benson Leads Party in Senate.

In the senate Arnold P. Benson of Batavia was chosen Republican floor leader and two Chicago Democrats reassumed leadership on the majority side. They are George M. Maypole, president pro tempore, and Harold G. Ward, floor leader.

It was a day for young men. Speaker Cross and Senate Republican Leader Benson each are 42. Adamowski, who started his third term as Democratic house leader, is only 32.

Since the Republicans had been in the minority for three sessions, their organization of the house moved a bit stiffly. The machinery seemed rusty, but the G. O. P. left no doubt as to who was boss.

The new Republican power was applied with relish. It was applied during a dispute over the seating of a Republican, Fred A. Reavill of Flat Rock, whose election is contested by F. Wood Lewis of Robinson, a Democrat.

Seat Contest Voted Down.

The house credentials committee—composed of six Republicans and three Democrats—was requested by Lewis to examine evidences of alleged fraud in the Lawrenceville district last November 8, when Reavill was declared elected over Lewis.

The committee held, by a vote of 6 to 3, that it could do nothing more than pass upon the validity of credentials presented to it—and Reavill had his certificate of election. The Democrats presented a minority report advocating that Reavill be kept from his seat until the election returns are examined.

When this minority report was presented on the floor of the house the Republicans rejected it loudly. Speaker Cross whacked his gavel with a will. Democratic demands for a roll call were ignored.

When Adamowski finally managed to make himself heard, he challenged:

"All right, you Republicans, if you're going to shut off debate, we'd as well find it out before the steam roller gets into action.

Democrat Promises Fight.

"If you want fight you'll get it from seventy-four united Democratic members. We'll get in your hair every day of the session."

This brought a veteran Republican, John A. Bingham of Galena, out of his chair.

"We've learned a lot in the last six years," he told Adamowski. "This state still has a Democratic administration and if you Democrats want your appropriation bills passed and the rest of your legislation approved, you'd better speak softly.

"You say you'll get in our hair? All right, come ahead!"

Then Speaker Cross acceded to the demand for a roll call and the Republicans trounced the Democrats by a vote of 78 to 68. Reavill retained his seat and the Lewis contest will have to be brought before the elections committee in the regular order later in the session.

REPORT BERWYN FUND SHORTAGE TO PROSECUTOR

Copies of the audit which revealed a new shortage of $6,399 in the Berwyn special assessment fund have been turned over to the state's attorney's office, City Clerk Emil Vacin said yesterday. The shortage covers the years 1928 through 1931.

During that period Byron C. Thorpe and the late Frank Novotny held the office of mayor. Olaf K. Jorgensen and John H. Hyman held the office of treasurer, and Emil Straka and Albert Novotny, controler. The city attorney has been ordered to seek the return of the money from Novotny's estate and the five others.

The audit was begun last summer after a shortage of $3,726 was discovered in the fund. This resulted in an embezzlement indictment against Ernest W. Mau, city treasurer and former controler, and Matthew Berg, former treasurer.

Holdup Victim Shouts for Police; Seize Two

Two robbers were captured by a Fillmore street police squad last night as they fled after holding up Jack Lazarus in front of his home at 3534 West 12th place. They said they were Joseph Marrano, 18 years old, 4106 Congress street, and Ralph Hinton, 20, of 701 South Central Park avenue. Hinton carried a nickel plated revolver and $8 and a watch obtained from Lazarus. The victim's shouts attracted Policemen Edward Fiala and Peter Sienkiewicz, who were cruising in the neighborhood.

PAROLE REFORM GETS HEAD START IN STATE SENATE

Relief and 3% Sales Tax Bills Also Offered.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Parole reform and bills to maintain present relief expenditures led the rush of proposed legislation as the 61st general assembly went into action today. In the senate, Harold G. Ward of Chicago, reëlected floor leader of the Democratic majority, introduced the first four bills to accomplish these ends.

The parole bill is No. 4. Widely acclaimed as a practical approach to the solution of parole scandals, it is a copy of the bill passed at the last session, but vetoed by Gov. Henry Horner. It provides that courts must fix a minimum as well as a maximum sentence for criminals.

Judge to Fix Penalty.

Leaders of the bar and bench, as well as many others making a study of the subject, long have argued that the judge who hears the evidence in a case is best qualified to determine the penalty.

A majority of the members in both senate and house have recorded themselves in favor of the reintroduced Ward-Schnackenberg bill. Because of new light shed on parole evils in the eighteen months since it was vetoed, it is believed the bill will become law this time.

Arrests of parolees for crimes ranging from rape to robbery have become so numerous that citizens throughout the state have demanded some remedy. The parole reform bill was referred to the committee on judiciary.

Would Renew Relief Tax.

Three bills on relief and sales tax, if passed, will preserve the state's status quo on relief spending. Termed emergency measures by Senator Ward, they were permitted to go directly to second reading.

The first bill extends the 3 per cent sales tax rate to July 1. Unless the bill is passed, the tax will revert to 2 per cent on Feb. 15.

Under the second and third bills of this group, relief appropriations of $900,000 a month would be continued for five months after Feb. 1. This would maintain the present state relief grants to local units at a total of $3,900,000 a month. The new Republican majority in the house may balk at these expenditures, it was reported.

Another attempt to have taxes in Cook county pre-adjudicated was started by Senator Richard J. Daley [D., Chicago]. His bill is drawn to overcome objections by the courts to one passed at the last session. Daley's measure sets up a time schedule for notifying property owners of opportunities to object to their taxes. It is sponsored by tax collection agencies and many civic groups.

$30 Monthly Age Pensions.

A bill to give old age assistance of $30 a month instead of the present average of $17.50 was introduced by Senator Joseph E. Heckenkamp, Democrat of Quincy. It also liberalizes requirements to get state-federal aid.

Other senate bills propose changes in boundaries of ten Circuit court judicial districts, the creation of two new districts, and giving county fairs authority to hold racing meets and operate pari-mutuel betting machines.

In the house, ten bills and several resolutions were introduced. Few of them appeared to have organized support. One would place women on juries.

Arnold L. Lund [R., Riverside], brought in three bills: repeal the sales tax, remove the sales tax from food, and provide personal property tax exemption for persons whose belongings are valued at less than $1,000.

The familiar resolution for the calling of a constitutional convention was brought in by Robert M. Woodward [R., Chicago]. It was placed on the speaker's table.

On June 7 at 9:30 p. m. they will cross the international boundary at Niagara Falls, returning to Canada on June 12. After leaving Halifax they will visit Newfoundland on June 17.

Bars Trip for Quints

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The king and queen of England will have to come to the Dionne quintuplets if they wish to see the five babies—the quintuplets will not go to them.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe today said he would not permit the babies to be taken to Sudbury, which is 90 miles away, to greet King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth on their tour of Canada in the spring. He said he feared that the trip might endanger the health of the quintuplets.

"I don't blame the king and queen for not coming to Callander," said Dr. Dafoe. "They have to do what they are told. But I do blame Ottawa. I don't think it will please any one in Canada for the babies to be left off the king's itinerary."

AUSTRALIA PLANS TO SLASH KENT'S GOVERNOR FUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 4.—A bleak life lies ahead for the duke and duchess of Kent when they go to Australia next fall to fulfil the duke's appointment as governor general.

The frugal Australians, it was learned tonight, will decrease the funds usually appropriated for the governor general's maintenance and entertainment. In Melbourne, the capital of Victoria and headquarters for Australia's social life, the Kents will be expected to share quarters with the state governor in an old house so small that it will be impossible for the royal couple to give the parties to which they are accustomed.

Los Gatos, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Mrs. William Stix, sister of the violinist, Yehudi Menuhin, was at the family home here today, but her mother said she couldn't say anything when asked about reports her daughter and Stix, a labor board attorney at Washington, D. C., had separated.

BASE RUNNER HITS SOMETHING AT 3D; GETS $500 AWARD

Because the neighbors think he's slipping as a softball player at 21, Nicholas Tassone asked $25,000 damages yesterday of a third baseman on a rival team. But the jurors in Circuit court decided yesterday that his reputation is still worth $24,500 more than he thinks. They awarded him a $500 verdict against Joseph Guarino, also 21, of 2615 South Union avenue.

Joseph was playing third base on the diamond at 25th street and Lowe avenue, where Nicholas values his reputation at $25,000, the night Nicholas knocked the three bagger. Nicholas was running for third base, he told the jurors, when something hit him. He thought it was Joseph's fist and Joseph thought it was the slab used for the base.

Anyway, Nicholas testified, people living near his home at 723 oest 25th place have never thought he was as good a player since whatever it was hit him. He doesn't himself. Sometimes he can't tell whether the pitcher's throwing two balls or one, and he blames it on the encounter at third base.

EARL OF LINCOLN SUES TO DIVORCE AMERICAN WIFE

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The earl of Lincoln, son and heir of the eighth duke of Newcastle, filed a petition for a divorce today from his American born wife, the former Mrs. Jean Banks Gimbernat, whom he married in a surprise ceremony in New York on March 23, 1931. The countess had been divorced in Reno on Feb. 2, 1931, from Jules Raymond Gimbernat Jr.

The earl, who performed as a trap drummer in a London west end night club in 1930, is the brother of the former Lady Doria Hope, who surprised society by working in a New York department store in 1928. She married Frederick B. Childe in London in 1930.

The earl's father in 1893 inherited the famous Hope diamond, which he sold in 1902. While he was Lord Francis Hope he married the late May Yohe, American actress, in 1894. He divorced her in 1902, and two years later married Mrs. Olive Owen, who became the mother of the present earl of Lincoln. He was born on April 8, 1907.

EX-VALPARAISO U. PRESIDENT GIVES UP IN FRAUD CASE

Henry Kinzie Brown, former president of Valparaiso university in Indiana, surrendered yesterday and entered a plea of not guilty to charges of taking $30,000 from Mrs. Leona J. Cram, 5512 Everett avenue. Brown had been in Detroit several weeks, fighting extradition. He was released on $5,000 bond by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in the Criminal court.

After posting bail he was photographed and finger printed at the bureau of identification, operated in connection with the Felony court. He is charged with embezzling funds entrusted to him for investment by Mrs. Cram, a widow.

DOG OWNERS: CITY WANTS TO KNOW HOW DOGS GET AIR

Chicago dog owners who have ideas on how their pets should be aired will have a chance to express themselves next Tuesday in the city hall. The city council judiciary committee yesterday ordered a public hearing on that date for a proposed ordinance.

Sponsored by Ald. Z. H. Kadow [33d], the measure provides that dog owners should lead their pets to the curb when taking them for a walk. Failure to do so calls for a fine of $5 to $25.

UNCOVERING THE NEW DEAL.

The two committees which remained at work after the adjournment of the 75th congress have made reports to the 76th. One is the Sheppard committee on campaign expenditures and the other is the Dies committee on un-American activities. Both Senator Sheppard and Representative Dies are Democrats and, of course, the majority in each committee was Democratic.

The work of the two investigations touched two New Deal political activities of major consequence. One was the political abuses of relief appropriations for vote getting. The other was the penetration of governmental agencies and of labor and political organizations by American communists and their sympathizers.

The Sheppard committee reports that in its opinion relief funds in many instances were diverted to political ends and that the Works Progress administration was guilty of permitting and abetting this abuse of federal spending intended for the aid of destitution. It became notorious during the campaign that the New Deal, in spite of its pretensions, had adopted a low moral view of its obligations and was indifferent to the scandal of subsidy and coercion, chancing everything upon the success of the vote getting. The tactics had won in other New Deal elections, but they failed last November, thereby exposing the persons responsible to an accounting which the present congress, impressed by the election returns, is in a mood to order.

The Dies committee has had a tough experience with the New Deal because it was recognized as a dangerous opponent of the revolutionaries who have been molding the present federal administration into the form required for a social and economic recasting of the United States. The committee not only was refused the assistance of federal departments which should have aided it and was given an appropriation insufficient for its needs, but it was subjected to ridicule and abuse in an attempt to discredit its witnesses and their testimony. Nevertheless it succeeded in giving the people a chance to see how the communists and their sympathizers had been able to make astonishing advances in the government.

The committee dealt also with Fascist and Nazi activities which, however offensive, were not found intrenched and supported by authority as the communists are. The report from the committee to congress is only a preliminary one, and Mr. Dies will ask for sufficient funds to continue the work. The preliminary report is justly critical of the department of labor and the labor relations board. It is probable that Mme. Perkins will have to explain her department's protection of aliens who have been permitted to engage in subversive operations. There is a proposal for impeachment.

Both these committees have done valuable work in exposing abuses and in making recommendations for correction. The present administration has enjoyed an immunity which has masked a great deal of its real character. With better informed, more enlightened public opinion it will be unable to continue to conceal its designs and purposes behind pretensions of superior humanity and good will.

THE BAD MAN OF THE MOVIES.

Under the Italian state monopoly of the importation of foreign moving pictures it is expected that Italy will be closed to Hollywood. The American pictures are well liked by the Italians, but the Fascists must reduce importations of all kinds to meet their exchange difficulties. Consequently they will try for moving picture self-sufficiency with the products of their own studios. The people won't get as good entertainment. Hollywood opulence cannot be even imitated by foreign producers because they haven't got the money. Part of the life of illusion which the moving picture creates relies upon the magnificence of décor, even when it is the magnificence of vulgarity. Hollywood's millions have created another world for the peoples of many lands.

If American pictures cannot be shown in Italy, Hollywood would be able, or should be, to give a little spice of variety occasionally in the cast of characters. At present there is only one type of bad man, of really bad man, which can be used. The character you do not like must be an American. If he or she is of any other nationality there are box office troubles in the foreign market. This formula is imposed on Hollywood not only by its own self-interest but by the specific objections of foreign governments. Censorship will stop an American film if turpitude in the picture is personified by a national of another country. Such dramatization is regarded as a criticism of national traits.

Americans do not object to furnishing the villains and consequently it is American life which goes abroad in the horrid parts. The English might not object so much to an occasional bad man of the bulldog breed so far as exhibition at home is concerned, but it is supposed not to do the empire any good to have East Indian masses see the ruling classes in an unpleasant light. There are, of course, no bad Germans and could not be any bad Italians. The French ought to be open minded on the subject, but it is better if the character is an American because France, also, has an empire and the aborigine ought not to see the overlord up to tricks that do him no credit.

There may be a kick-back in this phony representation of life because gradually the subject people might get the erroneous idea the only really tough country in the world, and in a world which is certainly trying to be tough, was the United States. Our acceptance of the picture monopoly of bad hombres might lead to the idea that Americans are the roughest customers in the world and you'd better look out for them. Says who?

A MEGALOMANIAC PLAN.

THE TRIBUNE has urged for a long time the betterment of our national defenses in the matter of naval bases and, since the rapid advance in aviation, in the matter of air bases. But it cannot see sound policy in the program presented by a special board of naval officers to congress through the secretary of the navy. It is not based upon the conception of a national military policy which expresses the American people's determination to keep out of far flung responsibilities. It seems in fact to ignore definite policy, as in the proposals for a main fleet base at Guam to provide facilities for the defense of the Philippines. When was it decided, and by whom, to retain that duty or responsibility, reversing the policy of withdrawal from the islands declared repeatedly by the United States government and now being effectuated under acts of congress with general approval by the American people?

The scope of the program indicates the prevailing megalomania in Washington. Any program for developing naval and air bases should strictly conform to the nation's policy. If we are to enter upon an ambitious career of expansion or are to undertake to police the conduct of other nations, the program proposed is logical. If we are not suffering from that madness and do not intend to have our policy and conduct directed by inflated official egoism, it had better be brought promptly within the limits of our actual needs.

It is consistent with our national policy, as that policy is an expression of the American people's desire for peace and security from assault, to provide for certain improvements of our naval and military establishments, to fully equip and man them for the fulfillment of their functions in conformity to our national purposes. But this should not be perverted and abused for political purpose or for personal ambition. It is a major duty of the congress to prevent this.

A DESERVED TRIBUTE.

In honoring Charles R. Walgreen for his patriotic service in donating half a million dollars for the establishment and maintenance of a special foundation for the study of American institutions at the University of Chicago the Police post of the American Legion has honored itself as well as Mr. Walgreen.

The infiltration of radical social, political, and economic ideas from foreign sources has not in recent years met as vigorous a challenge from the American intelligentsia as it should have inspired. In spite of efforts to belittle the evidence, there have been manifestations which ought not to be ignored of this invasion in our schools and colleges. Any protest against this has been sneered at, and it is high time to make the defense of American principles and institutions more effective.

Mr. Walgreen was well advised in making a generous contribution for this purpose and deserves public recognition and gratitude for what should prove to be a valuable public service.

The spirit he has shown has been admirable. It is well expressed in his remarks in receiving the tribute presented him by the Police post.

"We believe," he said, "that democracy and freedom are inseparable. A nation which is not free to examine itself is no longer democratic. We think our way of life is best, but not perfect, and we want to improve ourselves. The purpose of the foundation is to find out where we stand as a nation, and how we got there. I believe such study is the American way to build an even greater nation."

TWELVE YEARS FOR NOTHING.

Alexander Ripan, 46 year old Michigan citizen who served twelve years in prison at Jackson, has been released and has returned to his shoe shop in East Chicago. Ripan was convicted in 1920 of the murder of a neighbor. He escaped nine years later, but was sent back to continue serving his sentence. Then it was discovered, according to ballistic experts, that he had not fired the shot and was an innocent man who had been unfortunate in the courts of justice. The authorities are convinced that this theory is correct and the accused is at last free.

If the proof of his innocence is convincing and without flaw then society must admit that it did as grave an injustice as could be done a human being. We don't like to think that this can happen often and it probably doesn't. Apparently, however, there are no suitable amends to be made. If twelve years of a man's life have been taken as punishment for a thing he didn't do, something more than a restoration of liberty and reputation would seem to be due the victim. He may feel that he is lucky to have had the injustice discovered and fortunate to be free again, but society owes him something more than that. It owes him a reparation which would make the remainder of his life more enjoyable, some compensation which he could use to forget the unpleasant experience forced upon him. He cannot compel the state to do him this justice. Unless it acts of its own free will there is an injury without a remedy.

Editorial of the Day

TOWN AND CITY.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

There is no more snobbery in small towns than in cities, says a man who has lived in both. There merely seems to be. That is because in a town you can't avoid the people you dislike, and you can't give a party without every one knowing who was invited. You can't mingle with one social set one night and another the next. Your private affairs are not private. Everybody knows about your friends, your visitors, your way of life.

City people are the same kind of people, but the more people there are in a community the more privacy. You are freer in the city. You can do things without having them advertised. You can find and associate with the people you like best, and stay away from the others, and nobody knows or cares, and there are no hard feelings about it. The snobbery is about the same in either case.

THE "8 BALL" MYSTERY.

The origin of the current slang expression, "Behind the 8 ball," denoting a difficult situation, a hopeless predicament, or bad luck in general, may now be told. This problem, over which the nonpool-playing population has been fretting for years, was submitted on Dec. 31. On the first mail opening day thereafter, the Linemaster received twenty-two answers, most of them in agreement and therefore probably correct.

The clearest and promptest solution came from Cos of the Proof Room, who writes:

* * *

"One of the variations of rotation pool is 'High-low'—a game in which one player attempts to pocket the 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 balls; his opponent the 15, 14, 13, 12, 11, 10, and 9, in that order, before pocketing the 8 or 'game' ball. If a player pockets the 8 ball before running his series in sequence, he loses the game.

"Inasmuch as a player must strike an object ball in his turn at the table or else forfeit a point, any position of the cue ball directly behind No. 8 is a 'bad lie.' Striking the 8 ball might send it into a pocket, thus forfeiting the game.

"'High-low' is a dub's game. The last time I played it in the neighborhood poolery many of the boys were clamoring for a change in the rules allowing a cue length lift from that well nigh unplayable lie—behind the 8 ball."

* * *

This game is also called "Eight Ball," "Spots and Stripes," "Crazy Eight," and "Black Ball." Most of the explainers go farther than Cos in describing the menace of the 8 ball, stating that if it is struck out of its turn by the cue ball, the player loses. The contributors who testified to this explanation called themselves: Arby, Old Timer II., Vern, the Gentleman from Wenona, Charles Morin, Second Guesser, South Side Willie, U-Higher, Zarathustra, Leslie, Molly the Grocer, Ol' Doc Mitch, the Bienfait Kid, and Old Man Stone.

A PSALM OF THE NEW YEAR.

As a wise man that walketh towards the Sun,
So should he be that beginneth a new year,
For then the shadows are all behind him
And the way before him is a path of light!

The lookouts are ever on the prow of the ship,
They scan the great deep with keen eyes,
They never look backward along the wake
But their gaze is set on the sea before them!

The year is a carillon of twelve chimes,
And now is the opening number thereof;
As the Dawn is the overture of the new day
It giveth the key to the whole song!

Springtime is a strain of sweet flutes
And the Summer is a choral of flowers;
Autumn is an organ with pipes of gold
And Winter a grand recessional!

May all hearts beat as the gentle rain
And all souls sing the songs of happy brooks!
May all lips speak the words of praise
And may the whole world be at peace!

A Poetic Policeman.

Signs seem to indicate a greater amity within the British empire. We wandered into a corner cigar store recently to hear a strapping policeman declaim:

O my Luve's like a red, red rose
That's newly sprung in June;
O my Luve's like the melodie
That's sweetly play'd in tune!"

"Mind ye," he bellowed, clapping a hamlike fist into his open palm with immense vigor, "mind ye, Ol'm Irish—wan hunnerd per cint Irish. And d'ye know who writ that? Bobby Burns, and Bobby Burns was naught but a Scotchman! But Ol'm tellin' ye, nevertheless, Bobby Burns was a great man, a great poet—even tho' he did drink too much!" The Bellman.

A CHAT WITH CONSCIENCE.

Yes, Conscience, you just watch me tread
The high path this year;
For past sins I have atoned
With prayer and bitter tear.

I said the same a year ago?
But Conscience, you know now
I'm wiser and will find true grace—
If you but show me how.

You say this you have always shown
Since even Calvary?
Now stop your croaking, Conscience!
Can't you encourage me?

A Game for Dictionary Swallowers.

Now that the possibilities of words ending in d-o-u-s have been exhausted, I suggest as another game the finding of words containing all the vowels—each word to contain the five vowels in their proper order— a e i o u—each vowel to occur only once.

Of such words I submit three: Abstemious, arsenious, and facetious.

SOME ANNOYING SKIN AILMENTS.

NEXT to headache and constipation, trouble with the skin is mankind's chief besetment. The reason is that the surface of the body is exposed constantly to all sorts of irritants and infections. Bacteria may be planted by only a tiny injury and a relatively minor break in hygiene may invite a fungus to grow. Because of their unsightliness, lesions of the epidermis are shunned by every one and whenever they materialize there ensues a great "how do you do" until healing takes place.

One of the most prevalent disorders—ringworm—is caused by a fungus—originally thought to be a worm. The blemishes may appear on the face, scalp, or hands, although preferred sites are between the toes [athlete's foot] and about the finger nails. The organism which is responsible is a colorless, parasitic plant which will flourish despite repeated washings and it is so widespread that it may be found in almost every home—certainly in every public building. Showers and locker rooms are favorite hangouts.

Of the long list of remedies, iodine and sulphur hold a prominent place and a popular "cure"—one that may be applied in powder form or dissolved in water—is "hypo," known to photographers as hyposulphite of soda. The affected parts, particularly the feet, may be soaked in a strong solution. Potassium permanganate is recommended, also, as is a powder composed of tannic acid and zinc oxide. Occasionally—with a long standing infection—mild doses of X-rays will be demanded.

But once rid of the "varmint" reinfection is easy and the important thing is to make certain that clothing cannot harbor the fungus "threads." This means that socks must be sterilized in some manner and, thereafter, the strictest rules of cleanliness must be followed. Should the parasite gain access to the scalp or the bearded region of the face, expert treatment will be required.

Another stubborn malady is characterized by the whitish scales of psoriasis. A tiny, red, raised area may be seen first of all, whereupon—within a day or so—the center may become pearly white, the scaling spreading outward in all directions. Flakes of dead skin may be removed with soap and warm water or, if they are extensive, an oatmeal bath may be utilized. Sulphur ointment [5 per cent] is then rubbed in.

Inasmuch as this difficulty is probably of nutritional origin we must look to the conduct of the digestive tract for permanent relief. Many cases have responded satisfactorily to a diet practically free from fat. If one is thin and undernourished this plan may not be suitable, but with those who are obese or of normal weight there is no objection to a trial for a reasonable length of time. The most painstaking investigation has failed to disclose a causative bacillus. However, the disease is known to be hereditary, manifesting itself usually in the early adult period and persisting intermittently throughout life. Fatigue increases the number and extent of the lesions while rest and sunshine may bring about their disappearance. We may look to a substantial rise during the winter months in both ringworm and psoriasis as less outdoor activity and sunshine typify the season.

Another common schoolroom affliction—scabies—is traceable to the itch mite. This may be spread from patient to patient through contact, and it is frequently observed as reddish, itchy streaks or tracks occurring between the fingers and elsewhere on the body beneath constricting bands of clothing. Most cases are complicated by infection because the victim will scratch and thus introduce other bacteria from the finger nails.

The prescription most often employed is sulphur ointment [5 per cent] as no self-respecting mite can stand much of this medicament. Great care must be taken to avoid reinfection by sterilizing the underclothing, and all articles of wearing apparel that touch the skin must be free from infestation. One disadvantage lies in the fact that sulphur may prove irritating and some substitute may be needed if a true inflammation of the cuticle results. Every child with persistent itching should be examined for scabies.

BETTER SOON.

F. B. M. writes: I have been advised by my physician that my tonsils contain pus. Should I have an operation immediately or is it all right to wait until next summer?

REPLY.

If there is pus in the tonsils it is better to have them out soon. Delay may permit some damage to vital organs.

PITUITARY GLAND.

THE INCOME TAX AND AFTER.

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 31.—I call attention to a prophecy made in February, 1913:

"The adoption by congress of the sixteenth amendment as a part of the basic law of our land will result in the eventual downfall of our form of government and, if granted a longevity of three score and ten, I expect to witness the chaos."

That the sixteenth amendment, so-called, is a misnomer, that it is revocatory and not amendatory, that it subjects our body politic to the caprice of an ever changing congress, unfettered by basic restriction, to lay and collect taxes on incomes from whatever source derived, is the premise on which this prophecy was based.

Unless this unlimited power to lay and collect taxes be restricted, or pegged, each incoming congress will be tempted to avail itself of funds thus easily secured. Our thirty-nine billion dollar debt, our continued depression, as well as our feeling of doubt about our future welfare, are but the surface manifestations of a fundamental disturbance that occurred in our basic government twenty-five years ago.

Surely those who desire to perpetuate our form of government as originally adopted, and we of this generation, who are responsible for the sixteenth amendment, should have the courage to frankly admit the error and accept as a moral obligation the duty of exerting all the direct and indirect influence we have on our congressmen and senators to vote for the Celler resolution.

SELFISH WHISTLERS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—Somebody wrote in to your column about the person who whistled at work, thereby annoying others.

Somebody else answered and said the person who whistled was expressing his own joy in working, etc., etc.

Anybody who whistles while other employés are trying to concentrate is just plain selfish. It isn't joy, it's just complete lack of consideration for the rest of his fellow beings.

How about the driver who hogs the middle of the road? No doubt he is cheerful, too. Completely selfish people are almost always cheerful; nothing has the power to pierce the armor with which they clothe their ego.

TO AN UNKNOWN GOOD FELLOW.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—To say "thank you" to the folks who made our Christmas the lovely day it was sounds futile.

My husband is out of work. There are five children; ages, 10 years, 9 years, 7½ years, 4½ years, and 3½ years. I had told them Santa was going to fly over our roof. But I was wrong. A knock at our door, and in marched several Santas. When I saw the things I cried like heck. Mister, you'll never know what those things meant. Toys and food that we could never afford, each one appropriate for each child. May God in heaven bless you a thousand times over. And that comes straight from the toes up.

I thought when my baby girl came back from shaking hands with St. Peter [thanks to the doctors at Cook County contagious hospital] that I was doubly blessed, and then those angels in street clothes came to see us.

Well, anyway, I know one thing I'll do if I ever do get rich.

OIL IS WHERE YOU WANT IT.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—I was interested in A. L. Smithsen's article, "Oil Prospecting in Illinois," published recently in the Voice of the People.

Why is the drilling restricted to the southern section of the state? A state so filled with oil without a doubt has an abundance of it in the northern and western sections.

Our sister state across the lake has oil fields in a direct line with northern Illinois.

Some of the moneyed men of Chicago no doubt could add to their income if they started an investigation within a radius of thirty miles north or west of Chicago. There seems to be a small chance of loss, inasmuch as our state is the richest in oil of any in the Union.

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—As a result of hearing so much unfavorable comment on the Tribune editorials, I am scrutinizing them daily.

The subjects discussed in today's TRIBUNE are of first importance. On that score I give you 100 per cent. They appear under five heads: "Cut the Taxes in Half," "Triumphant Democracy," "Congress and Recovery," "Easy Spelling," and "A Word for the Trustee."

What was said about these important topics today could not have been better said if I had said it myself. But, of course, I am not a litterateur, as any one can see. They are O. K. by me, but I am a bohemian. HAMILTON C. BROWN.

WPA ART PROJECTS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—There are many hundreds of people in Chicago who were impressed by the WPA art show at the Art institute, amused by the novel presentation of "The Mikado" by the Negro unit of the Federal theater, inspired by the Illinois symphony concerts. There are many parents who are grateful to art projects for their children's art instruction at community centers, and for the revitalization of Chicago settlement houses. And we all can view with civic pride the murals adorning public buildings, the fine sculpture, and other beautiful decorations made possible by the WPA federal art project. The threatened cut of one out of every four of these WPA employés, most of whom are certified on relief and completely dependent upon their small salary, hangs like an evil cloud upon the new year's horizon. They await the first of January with fear and foreboding, for if this cut goes through, the very foundation of their existence will be cut from under their feet. MARGARET RUST SCHUCKER.

A CONTRACTOR'S MONOPOLY.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—I have been an electrician for eighteen years, and have graduated from a nationally known electrical school. At present I am employed by an electrical concern as chief electrician, but it appears to me that the electrical permit department has a monopoly on all the electrical work in the city of Chicago and dictates as to who should do the work.

I have applied for a permit to replace my own fuse box and have been refused because I am not a licensed contractor. I know this city's requirements on electrical wiring, and if the public is willing to pay the city inspector for a permit, it should be the inspector's right to condemn the work [after, and not before, the work is done]. J. W.

AGAINST COMPULSION.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 22.—I am paying into Social Security, but I am doing it because I am compelled to by law. I think that no state or federal government should compel the American people to take out insurance of any kind. I think that this is each individual's personal affair. If the state or federal government wishes to offer the public an old age pension plan it should not be compulsory; they should be allowed to join of their own free will.

If our government can void their promise to pay in gold to 120 million people, my guess is that the benefits received by those now paying in to Social Security will be of no great assistance to them because it will be controled by corrupt politics. The American people will eventually get what the people did in Russia and Germany. JOHN S. HOLMES.

WHY POETS ARE SAD.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—A TRIBUNE editorial wonders why poets are congenitally sorrowful, although there are innumerable aspects of life which are happy and joyful. Poets are well aware of these delightful ways of nature and man. Their sorrow comes from their awareness of this beauty and the lack of sensitiveness to it which results in all the harshness and inhumanity in the actions of the thoughtless. E. C.

SECURITY FOR LOAN

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please tell me [1] if a bank, through which a loan has been made, gives a note holder a copy of the trust deed instead of the original and keeps the original and [2] two notes, [3] whether or not the foreclosure made under the copy of the trust deed is legal in Missouri. L. A.

1. This method of doing business facilitates the issuing of duplicate forged notes on the same trust deed security. Ordinarily it is advisable for the lender to insist on holding the trust deed as well as the notes, or to insist on identification of the notes such as to guard against the type of fraud above suggested.
2. We assume that you mean that the trust deed describes notes in a series rather than that there are duplicates.
3. If the court in which the foreclosure proceedings are instituted is satisfied, it seems probable the decree will stand. In general, the rights of the parties would depend largely on the wording of the papers.

In the same case could the wife claim a bank account that was in his name only? 4. Would property that was recorded in his name only be handled the same as question 2? 5. Would his mother or sisters have any more claim to his automobile, bank account, and property than his wife? W. J. M.

1. Yes, if she is his only heir.
2. The necessity for probate would depend on what other assets are in the estate, on whether the assets can be reduced to possession, and on other facts that are not before us.
3. The bank official could insist on probate. The best way to ascertain whether they are willing to waive it, would be to take the matter up with them.
4. Probate would be necessary in order to produce a readily salable title to the real estate.
5. No.

MAYOR RETURNS FROM EAST AFTER VISITING HORNER

Importance Attached to Miami Meeting.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Kelly, upon his return to Chicago yesterday, refused to talk about his half hour conference with Gov. Horner at Miami Beach, Fla., during his visit there last week.

The mayor came home directly from Washington, where on Tuesday he witnessed the opening of congress. Although he spent only a few days in Florida, the color of his face was a cross between a tan and a sunburn, and he was in excellent spirits except when efforts were made to question him about the governor. Then he showed he was disturbed over Horner's long illness.

Governor Is Improving.

"The governor is improving," he said, "but, of course, I didn't consider discussing politics with him except in a general way."

However, importance was attached to that half hour's conversation in Miami because it was after that meeting, it has been learned, that the secret orders for strict neutrality in the mayoral contest were issued to the Horner organization by James M. Slattery and Charles K. Schwartz, the two Chicagoans among the four men designated by the governor as his representatives during his illness.

Main Command Not Altered.

Twenty-four hours after the contents of those orders became public, Schwartz gave out at Springfield yesterday afternoon a brief statement on the subject which did not alter the main command concerning neutrality.

"On inquiries from the state department heads," it read, "they were orally advised that until the mayoralty campaign has been discussed with the governor no definite information would be available to them, at present, on the subject."

The first day of petition filing at the city clerk's office produced no startling surprises. As had been expected Courtney was given first place in the mayoralty list for the Democratic ballot, with Kelly second. On the Republican side Dwight H. Green, backed by the regular party organization, was awarded the top place.

Nance, Chapman on Top.

The regular Republican candidates for city treasurer and city clerk, Clement A. Nance and John W. Chapman, won first places, with Eugene Clyde Weafer, a newcomer, 30 years old, filing second behind Chapman.

Courtney's running mates, Horace G. Lindheimer for clerk, and Stanley A. Halick for treasurer, were the only Democrats to file for those offices.

Two other mayoralty petitions were presented. James Fred Robertson, a south side real estate agent, who ran for alderman in 1931, for congressman at large in 1934 and for mayor in 1935, added his name to the Democratic list. Four years ago he received 15,663 votes. William Hale Thompson also filed for the Republican nomination.

Dr. Frank Wright, his physician, said the judge will remain in the hospital several days for observation. He has been on the federal bench since 1915.

G.O.P. CONDEMNS PLAN TO DIVIDE JUDICIAL DISTRICT

Lake county's Republican organization yesterday adopted resolutions condemning as wasteful of tax funds the proposal that the 17th judicial district be split in two.

At present the district, composed of Lake, McHenry, Boone, and Winnebago counties, has three circuit judges. Under the proposed plan, which is to be urged on the state legislature, Lake and McHenry counties would form one district and Winnebago and Boone the other. Each district would have three judges.

The Republican county executive committee, meeting at Waukegan, pointed out that three more judges would cost the taxpayers $24,000 a year in salaries, and that three additional court reporters would cost $9,750. There is no need for the change, the committeemen said, as there is no congestion of cases on the dockets.

Three Autoists Get Jail Terms in Safety Court

Judge Jay A. Schiller in Safety court yesterday sent three motorists to the county jail for drunken and reckless driving. Frank Svoboda, 9016 Dobson avenue, got thirty days for drunken driving. Svoboda served 20 days last spring on a similar charge. Raymond Hall, 2106 South La Salle street, got five days for drunken driving, and Gerhard Seaberg, 1707 Winnemac avenue, five days for reckless driving.

WORKERS' RALLY TO OPEN GREEN'S 43D WARD DRIVE

Candidate Will Speak at New Headquarters.

Dwight H. Green, regular Republican candidate for mayor, will open another ward headquarters tonight at 727 North avenue in the 43d ward. He will address precinct workers, organized by Ward Committeeman James B. Waller.

Green expects to visit every ward in the city for the opening of headquarters for his workers. He will speak tomorrow evening at 2236 Lake street, where Committeeman Joseph Porcaro will rally workers in the 28th ward.

The formal opening of the city-wide campaign will take place Monday evening, which also is the candidate's 42d birthday. He will outline his platform in a radio address over station WMAQ at 9:30 p. m.

The birthday also will be celebrated by the formal opening of the Green for mayor headquarters in the La Salle hotel. Open house will be held throughout the day in the various departments of the organization, which fill several suites in the hotel.

Petitions indorsing Green's candidacy continued to pour into his headquarters yesterday. The formal petition filed with the city clerk, assuring him first place on the Republican ballot, bore 25,000 signatures.

Another 25,000 signatures were being sorted during the day, while thousands of other names continued to arrive. Many of these were sent in by members of the Committee of Ten Thousand, a working group of independent voters who have volunteered their support to Green.

COUNCIL IS ASKED TO FORM TRAFIC PATROL DIVISION

Reorganization of the police department to form a trafic patrol to reduce accidents and curb crime was asked yesterday in a resolution introduced in the city council by Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th]. Personnel for the new division, under his plan, would be taken from other divisions and would not require added expense.

A similar plan, offered before the finance committee during the 1939 budget sessions, was tabled. Officials were told then, however, that it would entail hiring extra policemen, and they said the city could not afford this expense. Members of the police committee were directed to consider the new proposal.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was erroneously stated Monday that Attorney Howard D. Moses, 4730 Ellis avenue, had been arrested on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident following the injury of a pedestrian by his automobile. The error was caused by misinformation given the City News bureau by police. Attorney Moses had made a report to police immediately after taking the accident victim to a hospital, but his report was not entered on records by the sergeant on duty at the Englewood station.

C. E. Brewster Is Killed in Auto Crash in Florida

Bay Shore, N. Y., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Carleton E. Brewster, 66 years old, died today in an automobile accident near New Smyrna, Fla., four days after the death of his brother, Eugene V. Brewster, the magazine publisher.

TOURIST SLAIN IN LOS ANGELES; SLUGGER SOUGHT

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP)—James Peters, president of the Surety Mortgage company of Portland, Ore., was killed in a fist fight with an unidentified assailant in a downtown parking lot early today. The slugger escaped.

Peters' stepson, George Phillips, secretary of the mortgage company, told police he was attacked by the man and Peters, 57 years old, was injured fatally when he came to his aid.

Phillips said the family started on the rounds of Hollywood night clubs after midnight. They parked in a lot downtown, where a stranger attempted to slug him when he resented a remark made to his stepsister, Betty Peters, 15 years old.

RECOVER SQUAD CAR STOLEN BY FLEEING THIEVES

The Du Page county sheriff's squad car stolen Monday night while Deputy Edward Lange was hunting two men who had stolen another automobile was recovered yesterday in Bellwood. The machine had been taken from Roosevelt road, near the Du Page river, after Lange parked it and entered another squad car to search the vicinity. The men he was hunting had just abandoned an automobile stolen in Iowa.

When he went to Bellwood after the county's auto yesterday, Lange was told that within a few minutes after it had been parked there, a third car was stolen from in front of a house two blocks south, in the suburb.

"A relay," said the deputy, and went back to Du Page county.

It Takes Year, but Stolen Fur Warms Thief's Heart

A package addressed to the Chicago police department was received at Central station yesterday. When Sergt. Thomas Meagher opened it a fur neck piece fell out. Also enclosed was a note saying the fur had been stolen from 204 Madison street between September and December of 1937. Sergt. Meagher decided it took more than a year for a guilty conscience to act upon the thief.

When You Have Cold Troubles
Do What 3 out of 5 Mothers Do

Here are 4 Proved Ways
They Use to Relieve Discomforts of Colds

1 Head-Cold Sniffles and Misery. Melt a spoonful of Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water, then inhale the steaming vapors. These medicated vapors loosen phlegm, clear air-passages, make breathing easier. Then, at bedtime, massage throat and chest with VapoRub; leave bed-covering loose around neck so the medicated vapors, released by body heat, can be inhaled freely during the night. VapoRub's direct action brings comfort—relieves local congestion—helps you relax into restful sleep. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

2 Coughing or Sore Throat due to the cold. Use steam treatment outlined above. Also put a small lump of VapoRub on the tongue. It melts, trickles slowly down—bathes the throat with soothing medication which brings comforting relief to the irritated membranes and checks tendency to cough.

3 Night Coughs due to colds—especially of children—can often be prevented by massaging VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime.

4 Chest Colds. Thoroughly massage VapoRub on throat, chest and back. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub goes right to work—two ways at once: (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct on the irritated air-passages as its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath. This direct double action loosens phlegm—eases coughing—clears the air-passages—eases muscular soreness or tightness—relieves local congestion.

Children's Colds are always a problem to mothers. Neglect is dangerous, because it often paves the way for more serious trouble. But constant internal dosing is risky, too. It often upsets a delicate little stomach, lowers resistance just when it is most needed to overcome the cold and ward off complications . . . It is for these reasons that most mothers depend on VapoRub to relieve the misery of their children's colds. With VapoRub there's no needless dosing, no risk of stomach upsets. It can be used freely; as often as needed, on even the youngest child.

Many Other Ways in which VapoRub can help you are described in the medically-approved directions folder that comes in each VapoRub package.

ONLY VAPORUB GIVES YOU THIS DOUBLE PROOF:

Proved by Everyday Use in More Homes Than All Other Medications of Its Kind

EXPOSES SCHEME THAT UNCOVERED DRUG SWINDLER

Lawyer Asked Receiver to Aid Friend.

New York, Jan. 4.—[Special.]—A total stranger to McKesson & Robbins, Inc., was handed 2,000 shares of the drug firm's stock and requested to file in federal court a receivership petition about a situation of which he knew nothing, it was disclosed today at an inquiry into the affairs of the looted corporation before Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall.

The execution of this unusual procedure, all on the same day a month ago, brought federal, state, and city investigations. It brought the discovery that F. Donald Coster-Musica, president of the corporation, was an ex-convict and notorious swindler, who had gained control of the firm and given three of his masquerading brothers posts of trust.

Mayor Named Receiver.

Vincent W. Dennis, corporation counsel of Hartford, Conn., testified that he petitioned the drug firm into receivership at the request of Mayor Thomas J. Spellacy of Hartford. The mayor, one of the stockholders of the company, was made a temporary receiver by the federal court's action.

Dennis said the receivership petition was drawn by W. G. Lundborg, a Hartford lawyer, and was based upon information supplied by Mayor Spellacy. Dennis said he did not pay anything for the stock given to him to qualify him legally to file the petition, nor anything to Lundborg for his services.

The corporation counsel said ne knew nothing of the firm's financial structure nor anything of the allegation in the petition that the firm had listed fictitious assets of 10 million dollars in its crude drug department.

18 Million Dollars Short.

McCall said investigations already have shown assets of the company were over reported by about 18 millions and observed that the petition's reference to the fictitious assets probably was true.

"We are making every effort to learn how anybody had knowledge of that," McCall said.

He asked Dennis if he had known Coster-Musica, who committed suicide in his Fairfield, Conn., home Dec. 16 when his identity was revealed. Dennis said he never had known the man. He added, in reponse to another question, that he had no reason to believe that the 2,000 shares of stock given to him had been owned by Coster-Musica.

Denies Interest in Drugs.

The witness said he had no interest in, nor knowledge of, the drug firm prior to Dec. 5 when he saw the petition, the day before it was filed. Mayor Spellacy told him, he said, that a responsible complainant was necessary to bring the action to safeguard the interests of stockholders.

Dennis said he was surprised when he learned the tenor of the petition. He couldn't say why the mayor hadn't offered the petition himself.

'AUTO UNION AID LOSES HIS STATE POST IN MICHIGAN

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The new Republican governor, Frank D. Fitzgerald, today dismissed from the emergency welfare relief commission, Richard T. Frankensteen, an appointee of the former New Deal Democrat governor, Frank Murphy.

Frankensteen, a vice president of the United Automobile Workers of America, was reinstated in that position recently by John L. Lewis after Homer Martin, U. A. W. president, had charged Frankensteen with communistic sympathies and had removed him from the job of assistant president.

After Fitzgerald's election Frankensteen refused to tender his resignation from the welfare board, declaring that the new governor would "have to fire me and then explain his action to labor." Ignoring this defiance, Fitzgerald named Carlton H. Runciman, Lowell, a former commission member, to Frankensteen's place, also designating the new appointee as chairman. Other members of the commission have resigned.

The Sixtieth Michigan legislature convened today.

'ASK CENTRALIZED UNIT TO AID BACK TAX COLLECTIONS

The organization of a central bureau to coördinate the activities of Cook county taxing officials in collecting back taxes was proposed to county commissioners yesterday. The suggestion was made by the citizens' committee on tax collections before a meeting of the legislative committee of the county board. Graham Aldis, chairman, and George O. Fairweather, secretary of the citizens' committee, offered the proposal.

The committee also recommended a law compelling the county treasurer to turn over to the county board a list of all real estate properties on which taxes are owing for ten years [for five years after 1941]. The law would provide for sale of the properties to satisfy claims. The commissioners took the suggestions under consideration.

ORDER PLANS FOR 3 NEW UNITS AT COUNTY HOSPITAL

The county board yesterday instructed Architect Eric Hall to prepare plans and specifications for three new units of County hospital, to cost an estimated three million dollars. The necessity for the new buildings has been stressed by the medical staf and by Dr. Irving S. Cutter, chairman of the board's special hospital committee.

Whether they will be constructed depends largely on whether a Public Works administration grant for part of the cost can be obtained.

The buildings recommended are a convalescent unit with 500 beds, a maternity unit with 400 beds, and contagious disease hospital with 354 beds, the last to replace the present dilapidated structure. Dr. Karl A. Meyer, head of the medical staf, said 800 to 1,000 applications for admittance to the hospital are received daily and that only 200 to 300 can be received.

Three So-So Movies Pass in Review Today

"TARNISHED ANGEL."
Produced by RKO-Radio.
Directed by Leslie Goodwins.
Presented at the Oriental theater.

THE CAST.

Connie Vinson	Sally Eilers
Paul Montgomery	Lee Bowman
Violet McMaster	Ann Miller
Mrs. Stockton	Alma Kruger
Eddie Fox	Paul Guilfoyle
Detective Cramer	Jonathan Hale
Dan Bennett	Jack Arnold
Reginald Roland	Cecil Kellaway
Jane Thompson	Janet Dempsey
Reverend Summers	Hamilton MacFadden

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

KIND: Drama of the night clubs.

ACTING: Mediocre. Sally Eilers doesn't seem at home in her rôle as "Sister Connie," a fake evangelist, and Lee Bowman, as a playboy suitor, has done much better in other pictures.

DIRECTION: Nothing to shout about.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS, COSTUMES, ETC.: O. K.

DIALOG: A few laughs, here and there.

STORY: A night club hostess is hounded by the police after the club is raided and she cleverly enables the crooked manager to escape. When she finds herself running low on money and unable to find a job, she becomes a fake revivalist and by trickery goes from town to town supposedly healing the sick. Finale exudes repentance, reformation and forgiveness.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Not much response from yesterday's onlookers.

"FRIENDS."
Produced by Lenfilm.
Directed by L. Arnshtam.
Presented at the Sonotone theater.

THE CAST.

Alexei	B. Babochkin
His Wife	I. Zarubina
Beta, an Osset	N. Cherkassov
Mussa, an Ingushet	S. Kayukov
Umar, a Kabardan	K. Daushvili
Mussa's Mother	S. Birman
Prince Anzorov	I. Nazarov
Mussa's sister, Aishet	Y. Predtechenskaya
Nazarka, a Cossack	A. Borissov

KIND: Soviet propaganda.

ACTING: Too strenuous with the exception of Alexei's characterization of a happy-go-lucky leader of the bolsheviks.

DIRECTION: All right.

PHOTOGRAPHY, SETS, COSTUMES, ETC.: Satisfactory. There are some beautiful shots of Caucasus mountains.

DIALOG: Russian, with English titles.

STORY: Alexei [played by B. Babochkin, star of "Chapayev"] is the soviet leader who goes to the Caucasus mountains, before the October revolution, to make peace among the feuding tribes and to unite them against the czar. The most exciting scene is the battle in the mountain pass between the "Whites" and the "Reds."

AUDIENCE APPEAL: The Sonotone audience, of which the writer was one, was most appreciative for one hour and forty-five minutes.

"THE STORY OF A CHEAT."
("Le Roman d'un Tricheur.")
A Cineas-Paris production.
Written and directed by Sacha Guitry.
Distributed by Gallic Films, Inc.

THE CAST.

The Cheat [as a boy]	Serge Grave
The Cheat [as a young man]	Pierre Assy
The Cheat	Sacha Guitry
The Uncle	Pierre Labry
The Aunt	Pauline Carton
The Countess	Marguerite Moreno
The Chanteuse	Frebel
The Waiter	Henry Pfeifer
The Wife	Jacqueline Delubac
The Jewel Thief	Rosine Derean
The Gambler	Gaston Dupray

KIND: Chronicles the adventurous life of a gay French rover who lives by his wits.

ACTING: Casual and deft.

DIRECTION: Ditto.

DIALOG: The chronicler writes his story at a table in a little restaurant, telling it in French to the audience as the picture unreels. Explanatory English titles by John Erskine are clever and often most amusing.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Not so hot.

SETS, SCENERY, COSTUMES, ETC.: Interesting.

STORY: The action takes place in Paris, Monaco, Monte Carlo, etc. The hero as a small boy is saved from death by the theft of eight sous. Because he has stolen he is deprived of his share of the family dinner of mushrooms—which turn out to be toadstools. Eleven die—he alone remains to carry on—and he does—as page, an elevator boy, as croupier. He is saved from death in the world war by a man—who later saves him from himself. . . .

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Only for sophisticates who like their stories long and somewhat involved in the telling and their humor sharp, unexpected—and not too obvious.

See you soon.

Practicality Note.

True story, but we hesitate to print it. A Chicago widow was married recently. After a visit to the dentist she decided on a use to which she could put the gold wedding ring of her first marriage. She has had it made into a gold tooth.

Incidental Info.

When illicit supplies of alcohol are taken by government men in the Chicago area they are used, if they test more than 160 proof, in the radiators of postal trucks. It is adulterated, of course, so that the postal drivers will not be tempted to turn the petcock at the bottom of the radiator and mix a Tom and Jerry on the run.

Conjugal Felicitations.

Eros shouldered Dionysus out of the way at midnight New Year's eve. Although there were toasts to the New Year, there were many marital salutations, too. We saw Bartlett Cormack, who scripted The Beachcomber, motion to his lovely wife, Adelaide Bledsoe Cormack, to meet him under the mistletoe at a party in a friend's house. . . . Herbie Kay dropped his baton in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman and hung on to a telephone until he and Wife Dorothy Lamour were connected, and Gail Page, radio beauty turned movie star, was holding Husband Fred Tritchler's hand at the Frank Bering's party. Paul McGrath, in white tie and tails, turned to kiss his dark-eyed wife promptly at midnight in Gertrude Lawrence's mistletoe-hung dressing room at the Harris. And the Lunts probably were kissing in that train taking them to Genesee Depot, Wis., for New Year's.

Mrs. Garble.

Then there was the woman Carolyn Joseph heard on the "L" saying there was one play she certainly wouldn't miss when it comes to Chicago, "Kiss the Boys from Syracuse Good-by."

The Housewife

A clever invention used by famous pastry chefs for years is now available to housewives. It consists of two items: a square of specially treated duck [cloth] which you clamp to the kitchen table, cornerwise, and into which you rub flour until it becomes like felt in texture, and a knitted sleeve for your rolling pin. Into this, too, you rub flour.

By using this pastry duck you are sure of avoiding floury pie crusts and pastry, for just enough is used and no more. Also you need never worry about sticky, messy pastry boards, or a rolling pin that is hard to clean. This device makes a housewife's pie baking job pleasanter and considerably easier. EDITH WEIGLE.

'Susan and God' Fans to Fight Grief at Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE fifty or sixty who say they are desolated by the departure of the "Susan and God" company received invitations yesterday to a Dutch treat party Saturday night, a sort of consolation party. "To the Victims Belong the Spoils" is the title of the clever rimes Peggy and Bob Harvey, the originators of the party, wrote as invitations. They sent them to the forlorn swains and bereft maidens who spent much time with the attractive women and charming men of the company that left Chicago last week after a twelve week engagement.

Never, it seems to me, has a cast of actors taken a city so completely by storm as Gertrude Lawrence and her confrères did. And it wasn't just single men and women who "fell" for the actors, for there are some couples on the list of victims. In fact, Miss Lawrence was as popular with women as with men, which is saying quite a good deal.

Guests Will Meet at Ambassador East.

The invitations ask that the guests assemble at 7:30 o'clock in the Pump room of the Ambassador East hotel, where Miss Lawrence, Edith Atwater, Natalie Schafer, Eleanor Audley, and Nancy Coleman, and the men of the cast had supper on many of the nights they were here. The invitations suggest that the guests come bandaged, but it is hoped that the "raw meat, celery, and oysters" that are served and the entertainment that will be offered will do away with bandages and gloom before the evening is ended.

Some of those who are invited to the party—we refrain from mentioning which member of the cast that is playing in Detroit this week is responsible for each one's invitation—are Seymour Blair, Gilmer Black, Ralph Hines, Bob Doyle, Mrs. Waldo Logan, Mrs. Logan Terbell; Astrid, the lovely model; Ed Gorey and his wife, Corinna Mura; Jimmy Hemphill, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Armour, Mr. and Mrs. J. Waller Rogers, Miss Ethel Husband, Miss Eleonore Thompson, the Otis Chatfield-Taylors, George Bent, the John C. Murphys, Miss Judy Butler, the John Roots, Mrs. Ruth Bailey, Prentiss Andrews, the senior and junior Byron Harveys, the George Senseneys, "Squirrel" Ashcraft and his wife, and, of course, Jerry Freshman and "Ernie" Byfield.

Charles G. Osborne Takes English Bride.

Chicago friends were interested to receive announcements yesterday from England that read "Charles Glidden Osborne and Mrs. Gladys Marguerite Thomson announce their marriage on Saturday, Dec. 3, 1938, at High Wycombe, Buckinghamshire. At home at Highfields, Marlow, Bucks, after March 1."

No one here knows the bride, but the bridegroom is well known in Chicago, for he and his first wife lived here for a time, and his second wife was May Peabody Stillwell of this city.

May Osborne died in her English home about three years ago. She and Mr. Osborne never lived in Chicago. They went to England immediately after their marriage in Watch Hill in the summer of 1923. Her eldest daughter, May Henderson Stillwell, returned to Chicago after an eleven year absence in the spring of 1934 and spent some time with her mother's brother, Stuyvesant Peabody, and his family, and with her father, Addison Stillwell. She later returned to England and was married in October of 1936 to Lawrence Gardner. Eleanor and Frances Stillwell live at Highfields with their stepfather and their half sister, Mahmea Osborne.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

One secret of a lasting makeup is the use of a tonic after cleansing cream. If it's a good tonic it removes every trace of cream and leaves the skin surface moist but completely free of the greasiness that mars so many makeups.

The world is full of women whose skin is really dry, but who find that it often displays some irritating symptoms of oiliness after powder has been applied an hour or so. The nose, in particular, gets more oily and shiny in appearance than it normally should.

These are the women who will be most appreciative of a "cleansing tonic" one of the beauty houses has in its very fine line. It's to be used after cleansing with cream. The purpose of it is to help the cream in its cleansing job and especially to remove the last vestiges of grease.

Most women cream their faces before they powder. They think they have all the cream off, but even careful removal with tissues won't erase it all. Some will ooze back after a bit—usually at the most inconvenient time, when you're all powdered and rouged and ready to go.

This cleansing lotion, to be applied with the finger tips or a piece of cotton, eliminates all danger of the "oozing back" process — without being the least bit drying. It feels cool and clean against the skin and tops off the cleansing job beautifully. But the best part of using this is the knowledge it gives you that no excess oil or cream will mar your makeup.

This same cleansing lotion can be used at night before you apply lubricating cream, which should never be filmed over a half cleansed skin. The hasty daytime makeups, when you give yourself a quick freshening up, are made much more successful when this cleansing tonic is used before powdering. It really contributes to a lasting makeup.

Knitted Clothes Are Starred in Sun Wardrobes

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sunburnt sirens enjoying a midwinter vacation down where it's warm and green are getting the fashion breaks. Superclothes in all the loveliest of pastels and prints; classic slacks and new lounging apparel together with beach outfits are so tempting even Spartan souls are listening to the lure of the travel folders. Some of the star attractions are the knitted finds. We've sleuthed the town and found the prize winning assortments.

Knitted dresses, made with all the suavity of a perfectly designed satin or intricately fashioned crêpe ought to satisfy the most pernickety shopper. These are knitted clothes with grace and great distinction. They are sag proof and stretch proof. Wear them and send them to the cleaners as many times as needed; they stay in line after weeks of wear.

Details are especially good. Decorative designs are achieved with details of trick knitting, drop stitching, purling and such. Sleeves are elbow length, and you can choose from either one or two piece affairs.

A lot of the best finds come with matching hats. Not the shapeless berets or dull wrap-around turbans, but snappy, slightly stiffened pill boxes and draped numbers with a scarf arrangement that can be worn a half dozen different ways.

Colors are extraordinary . . . one of the most flattering gray shades we've ever shopped, a powdery chartreuse, baby blues, pinks and some off-white tones make knockout collections. See the knitted swim suits, the clever stone gray knitted shorts with a zipper, the same stone gray knitted finds in extremely short flared skirts. Unquestionably the best knits of any showing, these are the newest and best ever unpacked.

The film, prepared by Warner Brothers, is a technicolor. It is superimposed with the words of the "Star Spangled Banner," and as it is shown the national anthem is played. Chicago audiences, it has been found, stand and sing heartily as it is unreeled.

Flares Urge Passage of Equal Rights Amendment

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Flares were lit tonight in the urns topping the double flight of steps leading up to the doorway of the century old house which is the Capitol hill headquarters of the National Woman's party. They will burn until the passage by congress of the equal rights amendment which is pending in both houses. Bills providing for the proposed constitutional amendment were reintroduced yesterday.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Listen, Kids.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 4.—The most thrilling game of Rose Bowl history was made possible by a Duke university team that was held on the short end of 2½ to 1 odds. . . . The game should prove to you youngsters that odds are always multiplied out of all proportion to fact.

So don't ever be discouraged by the apparent odds because, likely as not, it is an even money bet every time. . . . If you'll study and learn how, consolidate that knowledge by practice, confirm it by experience, and trim it with courage, you're even money against the world.

History, you know, always has been made by the short-enders, not by the favorites. . . . Napoleon was 2½ to 1 against Wellington at Waterloo, but the short-ender won. . . . Malaria was at least 2½ to 1 against Gorgas at the Panama canal. . . . At Yorktown Cornwallis was 2½ to 1 against Washington, but the short-ender wound up the day with Cornwallis' sword and most of his army.

Columbus, Fulton, the Curies, Marconi, Edison—all of them were short-enders in the betting, but the important thing is that they weren't short on "moxie," which is prize ring slang for courage. . . . Dempsey was the short-ender at Toledo when he won his championship, and he lost it in the rain at Philadelphia to another short-ender, Tunney. . . . So when the odds are again you you're on the threshold of victory. . . . Paste that in your hat.

Hero of the Rose Bowl game was Doyle Nave, and his experience should pep up the entire country, because he was the fourth string quarter back and life is crowded with fourth-stringers who don't get a chance. . . . Not that they lack ability, but because they lack the touch of Lady Luck.

Nave for two solid seasons didn't get the chance. . . . Then in the last minute of the last game of two years of football the fourth-stringer was given a first-string opportunity and Nave converted those sixty seconds into the most important minute of the football year. . . . So if you are typed erroneously as a fourth-stringer be patient because some time or another they'll run out of first-stringers and second-stringers and third-stringers, just as they did in the Rose Bowl. . . . Nave warmed the bench for two years and became a hero in ONE MINUTE. . . . No warmer message of encouragement ever has been authored.

The important thing to remember is that Nave was ready, measured up to the opportunity. . . . He was a fourth-stringer with first-string ability. . . . He had spent two years on the bench, not only waiting, but learning.

Not long ago in one of these columns I told you that victory and defeat were unimportant relatively so long as you accepted both or either of them gracefully. . . . The point is dramatized by Wallace Wade, Duke university coach, who elected himself as the No. 1 sorehead of 1939 by his absurd actions after the game.

Wade, who is paid a lot of money to build character [and winning football teams], refused to shake the hand of Doyle Nave, substitute Southern California quarter back, who rifled the pass that beat Duke in the last forty seconds of play; observed that Southern California was not as good a team as Pittsburgh, declared testily he didn't care whether or not he ever returned to the Rose Bowl again.

It is unfortunate that a man in Wade's position would prove so petty in defeat, but he dramatizes the lesson of graceful losing to you and so serves the purpose.

When you lose—and be assured that you'll lose many times throughout your life—prove a graceful loser. . . . Don't scowl and grimace and carry on like a 2 year old; crying over spilt milk is the least profitable of careers.

The reason that all of us out here were so charmed by the Notre Dame players is that they lost a game that meant a great deal to them and offered no alibis, ifs, ands, or buts. . . . They were disappointed but not discourteous, rueful but not rude.

Plenty of lessons were taught in that Rose Bowl game, and you kids might take them to heart. . . . Southern California's victory in the last minute of play is a testimony to the necessity of taking nothing for granted. . . . Southern California didn't take defeat for granted. . . . If you stay in there and keep swinging, anything can happen. . . . In other words, don't fold up—don't quit. . . . It's not easy, of course, but you've got to keep pitching the full route.

In the closing minutes of the game, Coach Howard Jones of Southern California yanked Star Lansdell and substituted Fourth String Quarter Back Doyle Nave. . . . It was daring substitution, but Jones was convinced that Lansdell wasn't the man for the job. . . . So if one thing doesn't work for you in life, abandon it and try another. . . . If you are unsuccessful with one approach, bench it and send in a substitute, because like Nave, that substitute idea may be only awaiting a chance to prove its superiority.

Every lesson that was taught in the Rose Bowl has been proved time and again in Hollywood. . . . Underdogs have become stars, understudies have stepped in and "stolen" pictures, performers who were considered fourth-stringers have waited years for just one rôle to prove they had first-string talent.

So in this analysis of the Rose Bowl game I'm not inventing pretty phrases to fill a column; I'm just clothing old ideas in new garb to fill your heart with new courage, your mind with new determination, because I'm certain that the odds are not worse than 2½ to 1 against any one of you kids.

SYNOPSIS.

Nora Stacy receives a letter from India from her fiance, irresponsible Jim Murdock, breaking their engagement. Heartbroken, Nora writes Jim she'll marry the next man who asks her. Jim's family live next door to the modest English cottage where Nora lives with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Callender. When Bob Matherson of Fairways, rich young bachelor and recent neighbor, proposes to Nora she accepts. Three days before the wedding Jim returns and demands that Nora run away with him. Nora feels morally pledged to Bob. Jim gives Nora her love letters to him—except the one in which she vowed to marry the next man who asked her. Mrs. Pearl Almy a former attachment of Bob's, who rents a cottage on his estate, gets the letter and sends it to Bob hoping he'll call off the wedding, but Bob goes through with it. Their wedding night Bob tells Nora he married her for convenience, too. They agree their marriage will be in name only. Bob and his sister's husband, David Longton, are in the aircraft armament business for the government. Daisy Loughlin tells Nora that Mrs. Almy, who used to work in their office, is suspected of giving away the firm's secrets to a rival. Bob is in danger of being arrested for double crossing his country. A government man, Capt. Grew, arrives at Fairways and Bob invites him to stay for an informal party. Mrs. Almy is plotting with Jim to steal plans that night from the Fairways Tower room safe. Pearl faints to distract attention while Jim robs the safe. Bob thinks Nora gave Jim a duplicate key to the tower room, but she convinces him otherwise. Frightened, Pearl and Jim make a hasty getaway. Capt. Grew places Bob under arrest in his home, but allows him a day to produce the plans.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

TRICKED.

"What is this?" Mr. Klosters said.

"What?" Pearl asked sharply.

"There is no seal."

"Should there be one?"

Her voice was fainter now, because she knew very well that the case should have borne the seal affixed to it by the government. That seal was put on to stay until the plans were released separately to the engineering sections.

Keeping one eye on the heaps of bank notes, Mr. Klosters opened the case. Yes, the blueprints were there.

He spread them onto the table, his mouth twisted doubtfully, and bent over them.

It seemed a long time counted in heart beats before Mr. Klosters raised his head, and when he did so his expression was devastating.

He pushed the blueprints from him so violently that one of them slid off the table—a contemptuous gesture, which spoke more eloquently than words.

Pearl, deathly white, jumped to her feet.

"Just so much trash!" he spat out.

"That's not true—you are trying to trick us!" she cried.

"See for yourself if you do not believe me. It is you who have been tricked—or else you were trying to put something over on my people. But I was not born yesterday."

Jim bent down and with shaking hands picked up the sheet that had fallen to the floor.

Pearl snatched it from him, and it needed only a glance to tell her what seemingly it had taken the agent ages to find out, or else he had been overthorough in his examination.

True, they were the plans for one of Matherson and Longton's machines, but it was a 1930 model and so completely out of date that they weren't making them any more, hadn't been, for a long time.

She turned on Jim Murdock in a rage.

"You fool—you took the wrong case! I ought to have known you couldn't be trusted."

"I took the only case there was," Jim retorted, as furious as she was. "There wasn't anything else in the safe at all."

She knew, of course, that her accusation was unfair; she knew well enough who had been at the bottom of this clever piece of conjuring.

Mr. Klosters was putting the bank notes back into his dispatch case. He snapped the catch and locked it.

"My people thought it was too good to be true when you assured them you could get the plans," he said, with biting scorn. "However much Matherson trusted you, madame, it was hardly to be expected he would allow you access to such important papers. I now give myself the pleasure of bidding you and your friend good-night."

He clicked his heels, made them a deep bow, and took himself out of the room.

Jim Murdock reached for the whisky bottle, but his hand was arrested by the uncanny sight his confederate presented.

He saw a woman growing ten years older before his very eyes.

She was muttering under her breath: "I might have known better . . . I ought to have left him alone. He would have been my friend if I had kept peace with him."

Bonzo thrust out a pink tongue and licked her hand.

On the stroke of nine the next morning Keen, the chauffeur, had the big car waiting at the main entrance of Fairways and Bob, David Longton and the young man from the home office came out ready for the drive to town.

David wore a long face, Capt. Grew's cold was in its first fine flowering, and Bob, himself, looked reasonably preoccupied.

His vivid imagination pictured only too well the scene taking place last night across the channel, and it did not fill him with amusement or any particular satisfaction. When people who meddled with him hung themselves it was not his custom to exult. But on the other hand, he did not weep.

They were arranging themselves in the car at the last moment when Nora rushed out.

She looked just about the slickest, loveliest thing imaginable in the black lamb coat and cossack cap to match which Bob had insisted on buying for her at the beginning of their strange honeymoon.

"Goodness, you nearly got off without me!" she cried.

"I didn't know you were coming," he said. "Look here, we'll put Capt. Grew in front and let Keen catch his cold."

Bob's face had lit up with the old playboy expression. He liked women to be gay and lovely and beautifully dressed. But Nora's air of gayety puzzled him.

Everybody else thought he was on the way to his doom. Did she think so, too? If so, she was not being very tactful.

David Longton knew that the case of blueprints should have been available at Fairways, because in his panic he had brought it down on Friday and delivered it into Bob's hands, himself.

Saturday morning at the office, when the inquiry had burst upon them without due notice, Bob had said frankly that the case was at Fairways—which was the truth as far as David knew—and that he would deliver it in person on Monday and most certainly with the seal intact.

But apparently that had not been good enough for the home office people, so they sent down their Captain Grew to be on the spot and keep an eye on what was going on.

Yesterday Bob had told Grew that the case was not at Fairways, a flat contradiction of what he had stated on Saturday, and it was plain enough that he did not, at this moment, have it concealed about his person.

"Why did you come?" he asked Nora. "Or is this just an excuse for a shopping expedition?"

"Shopping!" she exclaimed scornfully. "No, Bob. I wanted to see how you are going to work it."

"Work what, Beautiful?"

She flushed and dimpled.

"The hat trick."

"What makes you think I'll be able to?" he asked, giving David and Grew an earful. "You've got more confidence in me than some other people I know."

"Because I just know you will, Bob! Besides . . . you've got to."

"Well, I'll do my best to put on a decent show for you, Nora."

Bob did not speak to Nora again with any significance until they reached the office building where Matherson and Longton had their city headquarters and then, as they were getting out of the car, he said something very strange, indeed.

"I can only be too thankful, Nora, that I did not trust you."

She stared at him, surprised and considerably hurt, trying to draw back as he took her by the arm, but he hustled her along.

"Come on, it's just ten. We mustn't be late for our appointment."

GASOLINE ALLEY—LOST, STRAYED, OR STOLEN

Declares Wasteful Mental Life Is Chief Cause of Mediocrity

Wasteful mental life, wishful thinking, revengeful fantasies, and unproductive reveries are among the most important handicaps which cause mediocrity, Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, consulting psychiatrist for Illinois schools, so informed the Human Relations council yesterday.

Mediocre persons, Dr. Hulbert said, usually lack self-respect and self-confidence. They may be indolent or suffering from fatigue, or painfully shy. They may be lonesome. Often they reach a final judgment too soon. Many lack an opportunity or the courage to reach decisions.

As some of the cures for mediocrity, Dr. Hulbert recommended that executives try to deal more understandingly with their juniors, because the fault often lies with the superior.

Arts club members will be excited over the cards they will receive this morning announcing that Robert Virovai will give his first Chicago recital at the club on Sunday evening, Jan. 15. Those who heard the young violinist in Orchestra hall with the Chicago Symphony orchestra — and those who didn't— are looking forward to hearing him in the intimate surroundings of the club.

The program will be preceded by dinner for members and their guests at 7:30 o'clock. This young prodigy, he is not yet 18, has been winning honors since he was 10. He is a native of Jugo-Slavia and of Hungarian descent.

Canadian style bacon really isn't bacon at all, but boned and cured pork loin. It is much more like ham than bacon, being lean and pink. It may be baked whole, but more frequently is sliced very thin and fried or broiled.

Canadian bacon isn't the most inexpensive meat to buy, but it is delicious in flavor and an adaptable breakfast or luncheon meat. It's good with eggs, omelet, Welsh rabbit, broiled tomatoes, and in sandwiches. If you want to serve it for dinner, creamed or scalloped potatoes are as good an accompaniment as any.

Canadian Bacon Supper.

[Serves Six]

1 cup brown rice
6 large mushrooms
¼ cup butter
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
Salt, pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
6 slices pineapple
12 slices Canadian bacon

Cook the rice in two quarts of boiling, salted water until tender. Drain. Cut the stems from the mushrooms and brown them lightly in butter 6 to 8 minutes. Add flour and blend. Stir in the milk and cook until thickened. Season with salt and pepper, and add Worcestershire sauce. Brush pineapple slices and mushroom caps with butter and place on broiler rack with the bacon. Broil 6 to 8 minutes, turning once. Put the hot rice in the middle of a chop plate. Cover with mushroom sauce and arrange the slices of pineapple, topped with bacon and mushrooms, around it.

Canadian Bacon Rolls.

[Serves Six]

12 slices Canadian bacon, cut ¼ inch thick
1 cup stale bread crums
3 tablespoons butter, melted
¼ cup chopped seeded raisins
¼ cup cropped English walnuts
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
¼ teaspoon sage
¾ cup tomato juice

Make a stuffing by mixing together lightly crums, butter, raisins, nuts, and seasonings. Spread slices of bacon with the stuffing, roll, and secure with toothpicks or cocktail picks. Put the rolls in small muffin pans and pour a tablespoon of tomato juice over each. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

Select "Best" Color for You, Use It Subtly

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Remember away back when, if a lady had blue eyes, blue was the one and only color she thought of as her basic wardrobe note? And loads of blue went into that wardrobe. Or, did she have brown eyes, then browns were her standby. Red-heads were told that even the most delicate dusty pinks were not for them. They had little color choice outside of tan and brown. Anyway, there were a lot of traditional do's and don'ts about color. But look at the 1939 color riot. Nothing stops the girls now except their pocketbooks.

We were talking color with Benay Venuta, currently appearing in a Broadway hit. She argues for subtle wearing of that one best shade that every woman has. Not drenching one's self in it, understand, but introducing it, as she says, subtly.

"For example," explains Miss Venuta, "I like to 'cue' my hair or eyes, which I have found to be a good trick. If your eyes are blue, adopt a blue supplementary. That is, don't get a blue dress and a blue hat. Get a scarf with a touch of blue for the throat; a bit of jewelry of sapphire or lapis-lazuli, either in a clip, earrings, necklace. Try a blue feather in the hat, cornflowers on your coat or hat. Or, if you'd like to accentuate the green of your eyes, try aquamarine, or emeralds with accompanying green touches."

Eyes are not the only feature for "cueing," in the songstress' opinion. There's nothing more flattering for the light skinned brunette than a soft, pinkish peach to match her unusual skin tones.

Couple Living with In-laws Can't Dictate

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I have been married just eight months. My husband and I live with my father and my stepmother. There is no peace in our house. It is nothing but fight, fight, fight all the time. My stepmother tells untrue things to my husband about me. She causes trouble all of the time. Yet we have no money, nothing to start out on by ourselves. Please give me some advice. "KIT."

You are looking for sympathy, aren't you, Kit? Well, you're not going to get it. You married the boy knowing you would have no money to start up for yourselves. You married him knowing you would have to live with your dad and stepmother. You were told that moving in with the in-laws was sheer folly. Yet, you went ahead and did it.

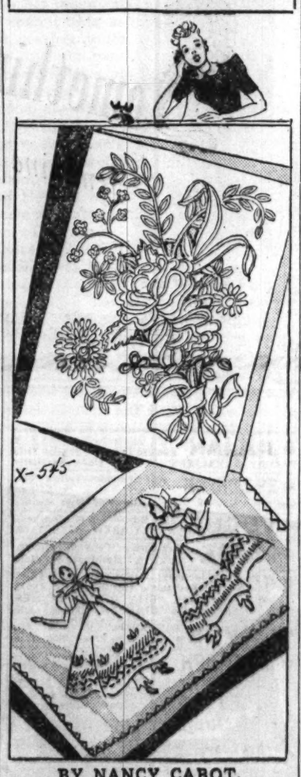
We don't know your age, but if you are old enough to be married, you are old enough to sit down and do a little right thinking. You moved in on your parents, bringing an extra one in to be housed and fed. You are temporary guests in that home. You do not own the home or have the right to dictate its running.

Your stepmother is your senior. We know nothing about her, but assume that you dislike her anyway. Otherwise you would not quarrel with her constantly. Like it or not, it is your business to refrain from the quarreling. It is your business to treat her as the head of that home you are fortunate enough to occupy.

We know so many of your kind, young woman. You feel that your parents owe you a living after marriage just the same as before. That's where you are wrong. You should not have married until your husband could support you. Even though it be one furnished room for the both of you, you belong in it away from your parents. But if you choose to remain under dad's roof, it is up to you to be thankful for the help you are getting.

It's up to you to enforce peace by a change in your own manner, or get out and get a job so that you two young people can be by yourselves.

Art Embroidered Cases Conducive to Orderliness



BY NANCY CABOT.

To maintain perfect order in a dresser or chiffonier one must keep one's personal belongings in cases. The handkerchief case in the lower illustration is ideal for the young girl's dresser drawer. Then, mother always is trying to keep the telephone book in one place and in order. The cutwork design embroidered on linen creates an ideal cover for the telephone book and conceals its utilitarian purpose.

For the hot iron transfer pattern for the handkerchief case and telephone book cover, No. X-545, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Here Are Ways to Stop Child from Teasing

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate.]

As only too many mothers know, and as we were saying yesterday, teasing is not an easy thing to cope with. Yet it is a practice that can bring such unhappiness to the child who is teased that we should do what we can to spare him.

But if we can't cope easily with teasing, what about the young victim—and victim is not too strong a word? He is usually utterly helpless, and there is no feeling quite so devastating as the one of helplessness.

So, we have three or four approaches to the teasing proposition—including whether it is in the family or on the playground, whether it concerns the teaser, or the teased:

One is to try to make the teased child see that, if he can only pretend he isn't teased, his tormentor will stop. Teasing is no sport if the perpetrator doesn't succeed in getting visible results.

Another is to try to make the teaser see that he's being a little bit of a bully, and certainly a poor sport; that it's something like hitting a fellow smaller than yourself. And there may even be times when you simply send the teaser about his business, or if he's in the same house, send him into another room.

Teasing sometimes develops merely from too close association. Children in the same family should not necessarily be together all the time. They can get on each other's nerves, as grownups do. Let them play apart frequently.

Boredom also provides fertile ground for the seeds of teasing to take root. If the thing starts, think up a new and interesting occupation or game for the children.

Also, realize that in a mild form it is a harmless and passing phase, which, however, you do have to keep in check!

And last, if the teasing is chronic, go deeper and look for serious causes. We listed a number of them a day or so ago, jealousy, unhappiness, inferior feelings, and others. Then, wisely and carefully remove the cause.

We shall be glad to hear from mothers who have coped successfully with teasing and will use the most helpful letters in this column.

Publish "Our Town" in "Talking Book" for Nation's Blind

New York, Jan. 4.—[Special.]—"Our Town," Thornton Wilder's play, acted by a full cast, has been recorded as a "talking book" for the blind, the American Foundation for the Blind announced today.

The "talking books" consist of portfolios of disks resembling phonograph records and are played on special reading machines which the blind can easily control by touch.

The recording of plays for the blind is a recent development.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE AND SKIRT.

To stretch your clothes budget and give variety to your wardrobe, there is nothing quite like a varied collection of blouses and skirts. We're offering two patterns for this project today. The blouse pattern creates four different toppers, as the sketch illustrates. Each is different from the others, and some are tailored trimly, others in feminine fashion. They may be worn with a separate skirt or with your suits. Silks, cottons, and woolens, plain shades and prints, all are acceptable and fashionable.

The skirt is a simple model with snug waistband and gradual, graceful flare. Woolens and silks are the best fabrics, in either plain colors or plaids, although if you're going south you may use linen or cotton effectively.

Style No. 3061 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16, in the blouse with long sleeves and ruffle trim, requires 2 yards of 39 inch material and 2 yards of ruffling. The jacket type blouse requires 1⅞ yards of 39 inch material for the long sleeved, cardigan neckline version.

Style No. 2955 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 18, and 20, and 24, 26, 28, 30, and 32 inches waist measurement. Size 16 or 28 requires 1 yard of 54 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

I was delighted with the answers to question 30 of the recent examination. The question and answer were:

At rubber bridge, you are West, declarer at a three no trump contract. Opponents made no bid. North leads the spade six. Your hand and dummy are:

West [declarer]	Dummy
♠ Q 8 4	♠ A
♥ K 6	♥ A 7 5 3
♦ A K 9 6 3 2	♦ Q 5 4
♣ K 4	♣ 9 7 6 5 2

What card do you lead from dummy after winning with the spade ace? Give short reason for your play:

Answer: At trick two you must lead the diamond QUEEN from dummy. If diamonds are split as well as 3 to 1, the suit is solid for six tricks and you have three sure tricks in spades and hearts. If all four diamonds are in North's hand, it does not matter how you play the suit—you must lose one trick. But if all four diamonds are in South's hand, you can locate them and pick them up by leading the diamond queen. [No demerit for leading low diamond; 15 points CREDIT for leading diamond queen, with the right reason.]

The particular safety play involved in this question was identical with one in last year's examination. This, of course, was deliberate on my part, my object being to find out whether the average player really absorbs knowledge from these examinations. It was gratifying to find that he does, and I thoroughly enjoyed assigning credits to almost 16,000 examinees.

TODAY'S HAND.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Nebraska is the white spot of the nation and we are very proud of the fact. Also, it has three state mental hospitals and they are crowded beyond capacity. I am wondering if the great national indoor sport, bridge, is in any way responsible for the latter condition. The other members of one of the numerous bridge clubs of this town are trying to get East and West [in the following hand] committed to one of the aforesaid institutions:

South, dealer.

	NORTH
	♠ Q 10 4
	♥ A 7 2
	♦ K 3 2
	♣ J 10 7 6
WEST		EAST
♠ A K		♠ 7 6 3 2
♥ 10 9		♥ Q 8 6
♦ A Q J		♦ 8 7 5 4
♣ A K Q 4 3 2		♣ 9 8
	SOUTH
	♠ J 9 8 5
	♥ K J 5 4 3
	♦ 10 9 6
	♣ 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds
Pass	4 clubs	Pass	5 clubs [final bid]

"Please advise us which one, East or West, should be placed in the violent ward. NEBRASKA."

If bridge players were committed for bidding of this nature, Nebraska wouldn't be the only state with overcrowded asylum conditions. I grant that East and West did not bid perfectly, but I have seen far worse bidding in my time. West's opening bid was, of course, correct, and so was East's response. West's three clubs was equally correct, but East went sadly astray when he bid three diamonds. He had nothing resembling a diamond suit, and such a bid would be sure to mislead West. Since the forcing nature of West's opening bid precluded a pass on East's part, the only logical solution was to rebid the no trump, thus denying any suit strength. Had East made this bid [three no trump], West's proper course would have been to pass. As a matter of fact, three no trump was a perfectly legitimate contract that depended only on reasonable luck. If the club suit had broken, and if the opponents' hearts had been divided four and four, or if the heart jack had been in North's hand instead of in South's, at least nine tricks would have been a laydown. Five clubs was a bad contract because, in addition to getting a club break, West would have to lose a diamond trick even if the king were on side, since he never would be able to enter the East hand for a finesse. Since three no trump could not have been made, however, due to the position of the cards, East-West did not lose very much on their failure to arrive at the correct three no trump contract.

3 PLEAD GUILTY; WILL TAKE STAND AGAINST MORAN

Admit Conspiracy; State Drops Forgery Charge.

Three of nine men arrested with George [Bugs] Moran in connection with the $500,000 forgery plot for which he and two others are on trial, pleaded guilty before Judge James Fardy in the Criminal court yesterday to charges of conspiracy to forge.

The state then nol prossed three forgery charges against them and they will testify against Moran, Frank Parker, the one-time airplane bootlegger, and Frank Hicketts, alias Ross. Moran, Parker, and Hicketts are charged specifically with forging $62,000 in American Express checks.

The express check forgeries were only a part of a gigantic scheme to counterfeit liquor and cigaret revenue stamps and to issue bogus bonds of the New York Central railroad, the state charges.

Engraver Pleads Guilty.

The three who pleaded guilty to conspiracy late yesterday are Berger Hanson, the engraver, who has confessed making counterfeit zinc and copper plates for the gang; Dell F. Bruno, and Emil Arends. Their pleas and the nolle-pros action were considered aimed at the defense strategy of warning jurors that much testimony in the trial would be given by co-defendants seeking to save themselves.

Selection of a jury proceeded slowly yesterday, the second day of the trial, as the defense parried every effort of the state to seat any juror who might know a policeman, be related to a policeman, or have any business dealings with a policeman.

Of its thirty peremptory challenges —ten for each defendant—the attorneys had used eighteen when court adjourned. Only four jurors had been accepted by both sides. The state had used eight of its challenges.

Records Brought to Court.

During the morning session Attorney James M. Burke, who is representing Parker and is acting as chief of the defense counsel, got a subpena and had records of the Medinah Athletic club brought into court.

This was seen as a move toward attacking the testimony of the state's star witness, Attorney Emil Van Bever, who has been in voluntary custody at the club since the arrest of the gang of ten men several months ago. Van Bever is listed as the undercover man for the express company, who helped break up the gang.

BUCKNER'S BOND FRAUD TRIAL SET FOR TOMORROW

The bond case was set for trial Friday.

A BENCH DEBUT FOR THOMPSON AS HAWK PILOT

Leads Team Against Bruins Tonight.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Paul Thompson, Blackhawk coach under the terms of his contract, but new manager in fact, will not put on his shorts, his skates and other hocky regalia for tonight's game with the ferocious Boston Bruins. Instead the new skipper, dressed as a snappy young business man, will sit on or stand in front of the bench to direct play in his managerial inaugural. At his side will be the so-called co-coach, Carl Voss, who reported yesterday to take up his new duties.

In this one game of absence from the rink Thompson and Voss expect to work out a plan of operations whereby they can collaborate smoothly on the nights when Paul will be on the ice and Voss will be making surveys from the crow's nest. There will be a system of semaphores at first, but later on the communication between the two bosses will consist mostly of slapping a stick against the sideboards, accompanied by hollering and cursing.

Four-Way Wigwagging.

There was some talk that the semaphores would include a code for Owner Frederic McLaughlin, who sits in a box behind the Hawk bench, and President Bill Tobin, who sits in the counting room. This thought that there is to be four-way wigwagging was not confirmed officially, however.

The Thompson-Voss directorial baptism will be an especially arduous event in view of the opposition. The league leading Bruins haven't been very kind to the Hawks this year. Here, on Dec. 4, they slapped down the Chicagoans, 5 to 0, and two nights later in Boston, they socked 'em for another shutout, 2 to 0. These whitewashings were a part of the string that made Frank Brimsek, Bruins' rookie goalie, an all-time hocky sensation.

He'll Hew to the Old Lines.

After deciding to leave off his hocky costume, Thompson conferred with Voss, fresh from Buffalo, and it was decided to stick by old alignments, except for the adjustment made necessary by Thompson's absence from the lineup. Thus, Baldy Northcott will fill in for Thompson with Cully Dahlstrom and Earl Robinson. Thompson announced he would hew to the old lines, after a scrimmage in the Stadium.

Thompson and his coaching partner did not permit their minds to reach into the future beyond tonight's game. It was just as well, perhaps, for no soft touches loom in the immediate offing. The Maple Leafs will be here Sunday, then the Hawks play the Bruins in Boston Tuesday, the Rangers in New York Thursday, the Leafs in Toronto a week from Saturday, and the Rangers in Chicago a week from Sunday.

Some of the lads have been getting goals past Brimsek since he reeled off his amazing string of six shutouts in seven games, but hocky fans still are rating him one of the game's greatest attractions.

The youngster, who succeeded the Hawks' Mike Karakas, as goalie of the Eveleth, Minn., High school team, was in the nets for the Bruins in the first two games of the season, the Bruins winning from Toronto, 4 to 2 and from Detroit, 4 to 1.

Started Scoring in Chicago.

Tiny Thompson then took over for five games prior to his sale to the Red Wings, then Brimsek resumed with a 2 to 0 beating at the hands of the Canadiens. He got hot in Chicago in that Dec. 4 game. His record in that and subsequent contests to date, follow:

Boston, 5; Chicago, 0; Boston, 2; Chicago, 1; Boston, 3; Rangers, 0; Boston, 3; Montreal, 2; Boston, 1; Montreal, 0; Boston, 2; Detroit, 0; Boston, 3; Americans, 0; Boston, 7; Rangers, 1; Boston, 8; Toronto, 2; Boston, 2; Americans, 4; Boston, 1; Rangers, 1; Boston, 4; Detroit, 1.

The Bostonese weren't so well sold on Brimsek after his 5 to 0 shutout in Chicago, but when he squelched the Hawks in Boston two nights later the bugs began to warm up and since he has taken the spotlight away from such beloved gents as Eddie Shore, Dit Clapper, Ray Getliffe, Bill Cowley, Charley Sands, Porky Portland, Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart, and Roy Conacher.

Young and Pirates Talk Salary; He Doesn't Sign

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Floyd [Pep] Young, the Pirates' sparkling second baseman, left for his home in Jamestown, N. C., today with his 1939 contract unsigned. Young conferred briefly with William E. Benswanger, Pirate president, without reaching a salary agreement. Club spokesmen indicated, however, that they did not believe he would enter the holdout classification.

Retrospect.

Take down the tinsel, wrap up the lights, sweep up the needles, gone are the nights, when from the windows, shone the bright glow, of gleams a sparkle, over the snow. Holidays fleeting, soon fly away, though glad our greeting, for a brief day. Gifts are sweet tokens, but better far —songs of a manger, tales of a star. Happy the season, when for a time, folks are so kindly, something sublime, gift of the angels, leavens our hearts, sweetens our natures, good will imparts. —B. L. Bruce.

Won't you tell me, lovely maiden,
Why your countenance is laden,
Sparkling as the dew beneath the sun?
Is your smile one of affection
Or a guise for your protection,
Tantalizing hearts of every one?

Do you thrill to words soft spoken,
Though they be a lover's token,
Rendered 'neath the magic of the moon?
Do you thrill to them completely
Or accept them, and discreetly,
Whilst you camouflage your lover's doom?

. . . But you say within your haven
Dwells a sorrow that is laden?
Sorrow of your heart that never dies.
'Cause your smile is superficial
And your tears, not artificial,
Shining like a mirror in your eyes.

DIZZY DEAN IN TOWN WITH GOOD NEWS: ARM'S O. K.

Cub Problem Child Plans a Big Season.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Dizzy Dean, the fellow the Cubs acquired from the Cardinals last April upon payment of $185,000 in cash and a parcel of ball players, is as sound as a dollar. There is no longer anything out of whack in the pitching arm which the Cub officials, assisted by a series of doctors, nursed so carefully all of last summer.

The above must be accepted as fact because it comes from the Great Diz in person. Dean was rushed into town from Dallas, Tex., yesterday for an X-ray checkup prior to being tendered a contract for 1939, but the big guy bubbled over without awaiting the doctor's report on the pictures. The pictures will be examined today by Dr. Sumner L. Koch, one of the several who decided months ago that if Diz hoped to make a comeback he would have to rest.

He Gives a Demonstration.

Dizzy, of course, doesn't actually know, nor does any other person, what his arm will do after he puts strain on it with actual pitching. But it feels well and that's enough for him at the present. To prove that he isn't trying to guard it, he put on an exhibition of one armed wig wagging, announcing proudly when he swung the ailing wing straight up from his shoulder: "Well, I couldn't do that a few months ago."

"I know it's all right because I took a peek at those X-ray things today before they were dry and old Diz has been X-rayed so often he's an expert," he continued. "That spot around the shoulder doesn't look half as bad as it did in the previous shots."

He's Been a Good Boy.

Diz insists in all seriousness that he hasn't cheated on the orders given him by the doctors when he quit work last October.

"You know how I fixed this thing?" he offered. "Well, I have been caddying three or four times a week for the missus down in Dallas. No, I didn't even try to take one whack at a golf ball.

"Yes, and Brother Paul is all right again," Dizzy continued. "His arm's so good he's been playing golf. I told him he'll win twenty games for those Cardinals and lose only four next season. He'll lose those four pitching against me, which is how many times I intend to beat the Cardinals."

Promises Eight Victories.

Dean, always the optimist, was different in one respect. Back in his heyday he talked annually of the forty games "me and Paul is going to win."

"Let's see," he said. "Didn't I win seven games last year. Well, I'll win eight this season, how's that? That seven game record has irked me all winter. Made me restless on the days I couldn't find anybody to caddy for.

"Yes, and another thing I can't get out of my head is how that Crosetti hit that homer off me in the world series. I was going pretty good until then. A guy hits a couple of homers all season and in a world series makes a chump of the Diz. Those are the kind of batters who'll beat you if you aren't careful. A couple of years ago I could have thrown baseballs past him all afternoon."

Where Was He Born?

Dean's visit to the Cub office meant only confusion for Bob Lewis, the traveling secretary, desirous of having the correct data in the 1939 roster, Lewis inquired of Diz as to his birthplace.

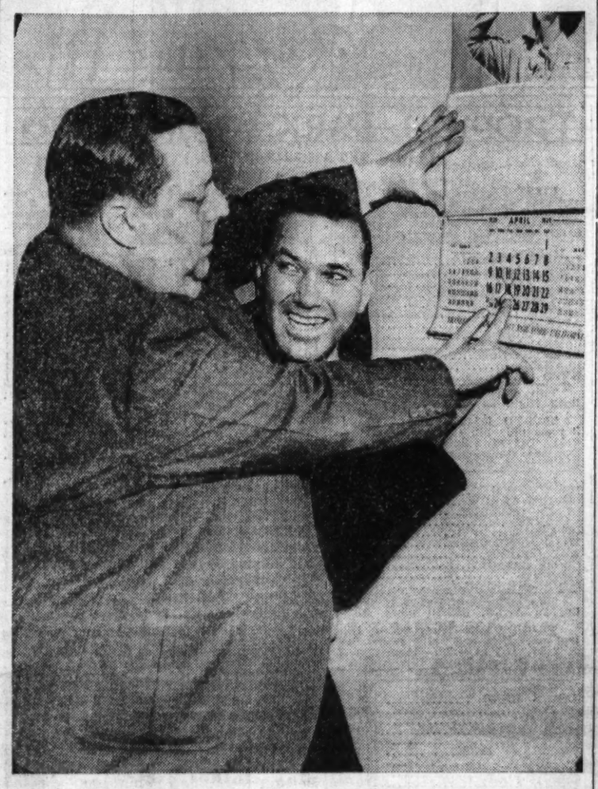
"Lucas, Okla.," was the reply. "It ain't a town; its a horse shoeing shop."

Lewis immediately wrote down Holdenville, Okla., that being one of the three Dean birthplaces up to the time Diz thought of Lucas.

White Sox Release Meyer; Get Texas League Infielder

The White Sox yesterday released Infielder George Meyer and acquired an infielder named Joe Gedzius from the Lubbock, Tex., club of the West Texas league. Meyer, who was brought in from Dallas late last season, was sent to St. Paul under a five day recall option.

It Can't Arrive Too Soon for Dizzy



Dizzy Dean (right), the Cubs' problem pitcher, tells Bob Lewis, traveling secretary, he is ready for the opening of the season on April 18. Dean came to town yesterday with the news that his pitching arm is strong as ever. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Loyola Beats Santa Clara Five, 33 to 31

George Wenskus, sophomore guard for the unbeaten Loyola university basketball team, shot only three baskets as the Ramblers vanquished Santa Clara in the Loyola gymnasium last night, but his third, made with less than a minute to go, gave his team its margin, 33 to 31.

Wibs Kautz, all-time scoring champion for Loyola, made only thirteen points as the squad registered its eighth straight triumph, and he, too, was an opportunist. Going into the second half with the score tied, 18-all, Wibs broke down the center from midcourt, dribbled beneath the basket and hooked in a goal that gave Loyola a margin it held to the finish.

Loyola Pulls Away.

Santa Clara threatened midway of the second half when Ralph Giannini and Bob Feerick accounted for six points in two minutes to cut Loyola's margin from 26-20 to 27-26, but big Mike Novak dropped in a free throw and Kautz contributed another basket from the side to put the Ramblers safely in front again.

Kautz, whose thirteen points topped the shooters of both teams, fell far below his previous average per game of twenty-one points. The visitors' star was Giannini, an undersized forward, who accounted for four baskets and a free throw.

Service Game Delegates Go to Washington

A delegation composed of Brig. Gen. A. F. Lorenzen, George Crowley, and Roy Barnett left yesterday for Washington, D. C., to continue negotiations to bring the Army-Navy football game to Chicago next fall. The delegates hope to arrange a meeting with President Roosevelt at which time they will petition him to use his influence on behalf of bringing the service teams west for the first time since 1926, when they played in Soldiers' field.

Kankakee, home town of the Army and Navy football captains, will reenforce the Chicago group if the conference with the President is arranged. Mayor Al Hattenburg of Kankakee has announced that he will go to Washington to ask that his townspeople get a chance to see Harry Stella and Allen Bergner, captains of the Army and Navy respectively, play in Chicago.

VINES SHOULD KNOW BY NOW BUDGE IS GOOD

Don Wins Again; Meet in Stadium Saturday.

Ellsworth Vines, the lanky Pasadena citizen who has been boss of the world's professional tennis world for five years, is convinced that his fellow Californian, J. Donald Budge, is a pretty good tennis player in any league, amateur or professional.

Vines was given a personal demonstration of same by the red headed Budge in Madison Square Garden Tuesday night and in Boston last night when he was handed straight set defeats on both occasions. The matches were the first in a national tour which will bring the two to the Chicago Stadium Saturday night.

New Rôle for Budge.

Vines has been a Chicago favorite for a number of years, having met Bill Tilden and Fred Perry here on similar tours. Budge is a newcomer to these parts in so far as professional competition is concerned.

Saturday's program in the Stadium will open with a singles match between Bruce Barnes of Texas and Richard Skeen of Los Angeles, the other members of the touring cast. Vines and Budge will then step onto the courts for their singles battle, after which Don will join with Skeen against Ellsworth and Barnes.

Some Youthful Guests.

The Stadium announced yesterday that seventeen local members of the Junior Davis and Wightman cup teams will be guests of the management Saturday night. They will be seated in a special section near the playing area and will be introduced to Vines and Budge personally.

Tickets are now on sale at Bond's clothing store, 65 West Madison street, and the Stadium grill, 1824 West Madison street.

BUDGE WINS AGAIN

Boston, Mass., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Steady Don Budge overcame Ellsworth Vines, 6-3, 8-6, 6-4, tonight, when they played the second of their seventy professional matches before 6,980 spectators in the Boston Garden.

Vines was described as in much better form than last night when he lost the New York opener 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, but his highly polished backhand and forehand strokes were just enough off to cause his downfall.

Budge, imprisoned behind the base lines during most of the match, had little to do but return the shots he could reach and stand idly by as Vines' sizzling backhanders of the far corners landed an inch or so outside and his forehanders just missed clearing the net.

Vines out-scored Budge with 38 placements against 16 and 9 service aces to 6. Vines' errors, however, were 48 nets against 20; 37 outs to Don's 24, and 3 double faults to 1. Vines and Bruce Barnes completed the night's program by defeating Budge and Dick Skeen, 6-3, 6-3, in the doubles competition.

EFRATI TO FIGHT LELLO IN PARK CASINO ARENA

Signing Ends Reports Bouts Would End.

Leone Efrati, Highwood, Ill., junior lightweight, and Pete Lello of Gary will meet in a ten round bout in Park casino next Wednesday. The announcement of the bout squelched reports that weekly shows in the casino would be discontinued because recent cards there have shown a loss.

The match was scheduled by Izzy Kline, casino representative, after Efrati's manager, Emil Nanny, spent three days dickering for more money than the west side promoters were willing to pay.

Efrati, who received $325 for defeating Frankie [Kid] Covelli in the west side arena Dec. 7, demanded a $500 guarantee with a privilege of 22½ per cent of the net receipts. The club countered with an offer of $400 or 20 per cent of the gate. Kline said Nanny accepted the club's terms.

Frankie Covelli, Brooklyn featherweight, yesterday refused an offer to fight Eddie Lander, recent conqueror of Frankie Kainrath, in an eight round feature match in Marigold Gardens Monday. Nate Bolden, who earned a chance to step into the limelight last Monday through his conquest of Tony Zale, also turned down a proposed bout with Marty Simmons, Saginaw, Mich., middleweight, who held Champion Solly Krieger to a draw Jan. 2. As a result Matchmaker Jack Begun will arrange an eight rounder for Monday's card between Phil Saeli, Italian lightweight, and Earl Gibbs.

The Illinois Athletic club sports committee yesterday announced referees, judges and timers for the seventh amateur boxing tournament sponsored by the I. A. C. in the club gymnasium Jan. 17, 18, and 25. Referees will be Phil Collins, Tommy Thomas, and Fred Caserio. J. J. Lipp, Charles Sidebotham, and William Finn will be the timers. Judges include Edward Hintz, Livingston Osborne, John Bray, Rube Metz, Lieut. Romaine A. Goudie, James McManus, William O'Connell, and Carl Witt. Johnny Behr, club athletic director, will do the announcing. Behr said teams from Peoria, Elkhart, and South Bend will compete. Entries close Jan. 14.

Willie Joyce, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves featherweight champion, ended training yesterday for his ten round bout with Bobby McIntyre in White City tomorrow by sparring three rounds with Joe Law. Joyce matches his skill with a worthy opponent in McIntyre, Detroit lightweight. Law is paired with Lew Jenkins of Texas in a six round secondary feature. George Mitchell, Detroit middleweight, asked to be excused from meeting Charley Jerome of Milwaukee in a four round supporting encounter. . . . Bill Johnson, Chicago flyweight, is paired with Floyd Robinson of Lafayette, Ind., in one of a series of intercity amateur contests in Madison Athletic club tomorrow.

WAR ADMIRAL TO CARRY 131 LBS. IN WIDENER CUP

Hold $50,000 Race on March 4 at Hialeah.

Miami, Fla., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Samuel D. Riddle's War Admiral, winner of last year's Widener cup race, will carry 131 pounds when he attempts to repeat that victory on March 4 at Hialeah Park. Weights for the renewal of the $50,000 stake were announced today by Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan.

Seabiscuit on Coast.

Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit was allotted top weight of 133 pounds, but inasmuch as he already has been shipped to California to prepare for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, it is not considered likely that his handlers will change plans. He has been given an impost of 134 pounds in the Santa Anita event, which is to be run on the same day as the Widener.

Following War Admiral in the Widener weight allotments are Herbert M. Woolf's Kentucky Derby winner, Lawrin, and the Binglin stable's Ligaroti, each with 124 pounds. Maxwell Howard's Stagehand, winner of last year's Santa Anita handicap, was given 123 pounds. Sorteado, Charles S. Howard's recent importation from South America, drew the same impost.

Must Declare by Jan. 16.

Owners will be required to make a declaration of intention to start by Jan. 16, at which time an additional fee of $100 must be posted. The original entry fee was $50. The starting fee will be $500.

For Worth, Tex., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Coach Leo [Dutch] Meyer of Texas Christian university ended any possibility of a "national championship" game between the University of Tennessee and his Horned Frogs tonight by stating the team was through playing football for this season.

"The boys need to do something about their education," he added.

L. C. [Pete] Wright, T. C. U. business manager, also said there was "positively no chance" of another game.

Suffolk Drops Battle Over Race Dates

Boston, Mass., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Officials of the Suffolk Downs race track today terminated the injunction proceedings with which they had sought unsuccessfully to prevent the Massachusetts racing commission from allotting racing dates to a proposed track at nearby Westport.

The Eastern Racing association, operators of Suffolk Downs, obtained the dismissal of litigation from Superior Court Judge A. E. Pinanski, the while retaining its right for future action.

The Suffolk Downs officials had applied for 60 days of racing, extending from May 15 to July 22, but on last Saturday, the day following institution of the injunction proceedings, the commission met and granted it only 42 days [from May 15 to July 1] and then voted the proposed track at Westport the more favorable dates running from July 4 to Aug. 12. The Eastern association, in obtaining the injunction charged that two members of the commission were in a conspiracy to grant the better dates to the Westport track, as yet unbuilt.

WAR ADMIRAL, 9 OTHER HORSES FLORIDA BOUND

Berlin, Md., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—George Conway, veteran trainer of Samuel D. Riddle's stable, today boarded a Florida bound train with ten horses, star of which was War Admiral. Conway said that the great 5 year old will be pointed for the $50,000 Widener cup race, to be run at Hialeah on March 4.

The Riddle contingent will arrive in Miami tomorrow afternoon. War Admiral, Conway said, had been handicapped in training by bad weather at the Glen Riddle farm near here. A lead pony accompanied War Admiral and the nine 3 year olds who were in the party.

TRIBUNE SKATING TROPHY MAY BE RETIRED JAN. 15

Two Teams Have Chance to Gain Award.

The Northwest Skating club, of which Bill Beck is coach and manager, has won the Eckersall team trophy twice in the annual Silver Skates Derbies. So have the Catholic Youth organization skaters who are coached by Pete Miller. If either of these teams wins the championship in the twenty-second Derbies a week from Sunday in Garfield park that team will gain permanent possession of the trophy.

The Northwest club already is on record as determined to win this most coveted trophy in speed skating. This trophy, a two foot silver shaft on an ebony base with the figure of a skater mounted on a silver pedestal, was placed in competition in 1931 the year after the death of Walter Eckersall, founder of THE TRIBUNE's Silver Skates races. It will be replaced by a similar trophy if retired next week by either the Northwest Skating club or the C. Y. O.

Names 103 in Eight Races.

Coach Beck has nominated 103 boys and girls in the eight races. Forty are entered in the men's senior Derby. Several of these skaters previously have won Silver Skates in lower age classes.

"We have a well balanced team," Coach Beck wrote in submitting the list of Northwest skaters, "with such stars as Bob Horn, Casmir Kucharski, Shirley Jameson, Shirley Jane Burnett, and Robert Lundgoot stepping into higher classes in quest of another pair of skates. In addition, Bob Sherman has a fine chance in the senior division and Walter Baron will be a strong contender in the boys' intermediate class. Then there's Marvin Thomson in the junior class who fell in last year's championship on the last turn with a lead of nearly ten yards."

Weather permitting, the city championship races will be held Sunday in Humboldt park under the sponsorship of the Northwest Skating club.

Entries Close Saturday.

A trophy is given each year in the Silver Skates Derbies for the club which has the largest number of contestants competing. How these skaters finish does not affect the scoring. Each contestant, of course, always receives a souvenir button and each winner of a preliminary race is awarded a gold medal. Among the team entries submitted yesterday were those from Morse playground, Spaulding and Ohio streets, H. S. Kane, instructor, and Horan playground, 3033 Van Buren street, A. E. Pestine, director.

Entries will be accepted until midnight Saturday. This permits the minimum of time necessary for the clerks to prepare the program which will be distributed free on both days of the Derbies. Trials in four of the Derbies, boys' midget, boys' juvenile, boys' junior, and girls' junior classes, will be held Jan. 14. Other preliminaries and all championships are planned for Sunday afternoon, Jan. 15.

OLYMPIC TRIALS OFF

Soft ice yesterday forced the postponement of the 5,000 meter Illinois sectional Olympic trials, scheduled for Humboldt park lagoon.

Meanwhile, Chicago skaters of the Illinois Skating association have taken to harder ice out of town in preparation for the Chicago Park district carnival tomorrow night in Garfield park and the Northwest Skating club's city championships in Humboldt park Sunday afternoon.

A 220 yard and one mile race, open to class A senior men skaters, will be held as special features of the park district's meet.

City championship races for men, women, boys, and girls, in all age and class divisions, will constitute the Northwest Skating club's meet program.

Bob Heckenbach, Leo Freisinger, and Bob Sherman, three of the city's leading skaters, may not be in shape to race tomorrow night. The three suffered cuts in the state meet in Aurora, Ill., Monday, and have been off the ice since.

TULEY DEFEATS WASHBURNE IN OPENER, 25-23

Tuley and Washburne made their debuts in the junior division of the west section in the City High School Basketball league yesterday at Washburne, Tuley winning, 25 to 23.

Killian tied the score for Washburne at 23 all with 30 seconds to play. Truman shot the winning basket.

require sixteen nights of boxing. Three of the meets overlap and on four nights there will be two shows. By starting the first tournament on Feb. 1 in the Madison A. C., a week earlier than last year, the duplication of shows has been reduced over 1938.

The first physical examination will be held in about two weeks. The Catholic Youth Organization already has arranged to have its contestants report Jan. 23 for physical examinations. It will be possible this year to enter the northwest and north side tournament after Feb. 1 for the final physical examination probably will be held Feb. 3.

All Get Souvenirs.

Each contestant in the Chicago tournaments, Open and Novice divisions, will receive a souvenir button. The 64 qualifiers in the tournaments, 32 novices and 32 open division boxers, will be awarded gold medals. The prizes for the Tournament of Champions are golden gloves, each studded with a diamond, for the champions of the eight weight classes; eight silver gloves for the runners-up, and bronze gloves for all other contestants chosen as members of the Chicago intercity squad.

The list of newspapers sending teams to Chicago for the Tournament of Champions follows:

Expect Battle Over Site of Davis Cup Play

New York, Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Members of the Davis cup management committee today paved the way for a battle during the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association here on Feb. 4 by recommending the Merion Cricket club of Haverford, Pa., as the site of the 1939 challenge round matches.

This recommendation is certain to be fought by the Germantown Cricket club of Germantown, Pa., which conducted the matches last year and presumably will seek them again this year.

The Courts Were Unsatisfactory.

The committee's decision, according to Walter L. Pate, nonplaying captain of the American cup team, was justified by the condition of the Germantown club's courts at the time of the 1938 rounds last September. At that time, Pate pointed out, officials of the club had had a year's time to prepare the grass courts, but they were in such poor shape that one of the Australian challengers offered to weed the courts on the theory that this would leave the tournament with a fine clay court.

Germantown, by reason of its prestige and tradition, would have been a natural site for the tournament, Pate said, but because of the condition of the courts for the 1938 rounds it would be too much of a risk to invite a foreign nation's team to what might prove to be similar conditions. Merion, Pate emphasized, has had its courts in perfect condition for such tournaments as the women's interscholastic and intercollegiate.

To Change Foot Fault Rule.

Another point expected to come up for discussion in the annual meeting, and one which the U. S. L. T. A. will recommend at the Paris meeting of the International Lawn Tennis federation on March 4 will be the striking out of a clause in the foot fault rule. There was considerable controversy on this point in the deciding match between Adrian Quist of Australia and Don Budge, wherein Quist was penalized a number of times for foot faults. The clause in question states that "the server shall, throughout delivery of the service, maintain contact with the ground."

Quist was penalized a number of times during the Budge match because he jumped up an inch or two at the moment of serving, although he did not overstep the baseline.

ARMOUR VS. LAKE FOREST

Armour Tech basketball team will meet Lake Forest college this afternoon in the 108th Engineers armory.

The game will be the second of a home and home series between the two squads. Thus far Tech has lost only to Lake Forest and the University of Chicago.

Led by Co-Captain Ed Swanson, center, high scorer of this season with a total of forty points, Tech will be out to avenge a close 33 to 29 defeat handed it by the Forester five in December. Tech's chief worry is Harrison, Lake Forest sophomore forward, who scored twelve points against Tech in the previous encounter.

Alumni Back Trustees on Zuppke Action

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Firing Robert Zuppke as head football coach at the University of Illinois would do little to improve the school's future athletic standing, members of the McLean County Illini club and other alumni declared at a meeting today.

The county group passed a resolution stating:

"Resolved that the McLean County Illini club expresses its full approval of the ability of the board of trustees of the University of Illinois to cope with the situations that fall under its scope of action and expressly approves the actions of said board of trustees in repudiating the action of the athletic board of control as regarding the position of head football coach at the University of Illinois."

Copies of the resolution will be sent to various university officials and members of the board of trustees. It was suggested by some of the alumni attending the meeting that if the school must have winning teams the solution would be in financing players. A fight to bring other colleges back to real amateur standards instead of a fight against Zuppke was another suggestion.

MICHIGAN CENTER MAY BE OUT OF BIG 10 OPENER

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Center Jim Rae of the Michigan basketball team suffered a recurrence of an old back injury today. Coach Benny Oosterbaan said Rae probably will miss Michigan's Big Ten conference opener at Illinois Saturday.

Danny Smick and Capt. Leo Beebe were injured during the Christmas holidays.

If Rae is unable to play, Smick will be moved to center, and Russ Dobson, Mike Sofiak or Herb Brogan will start at forward.

LIONS GIVE UP TWO PLAYERS TO GET PATTERSON

Gutowsky and Huffman Go to Pirates.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Ace Gutowsky, veteran full back, and Vernon Huffman, husky triple threat back, were traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Football league today by the Detroit Lions for Bill Patterson of Baylor university.

Patterson, who led the West All-Stars to a 14 to 0 victory over the East in San Francisco Monday, was drafted by the Pirates. The trade is conditional upon Patterson, a law student, entering pro football.

It was the first trade of the offseason and shifted from Detroit two of the outstanding backs in professional football for an untried youngster. Announcement of its completion was made following an exchange of telegrams between Art Rooney, owner of the Pirates, in Pittsburgh and Owner George A. Richards of Detroit, who is in Los Angeles with his new coach, Gloomy Gus Henderson.

Holds Tribune Award.

Huffman was one of the outstanding quarter backs in college football in 1936 when he was chosen Indiana university's most valuable player and won THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Silver Football as the most valuable player in the Big Ten conference. The following summer he led all quarter backs in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S nation-wide All-Star poll and played against the Lions in the 7 to 7 tie in Soldiers' field. He joined the Lions immediately after the game and was assigned to a regular position in his first year. In addition to football Huffman was one of the conference's outstanding basketball players. His home is in New Castle, Ind.

A Graduate of Tulsa.

Gutowsky, who has had eight years of experience in the pro league, is a graduate of Tulsa university and was born in Russia. He is regarded as the best man on a spinner play in football and, with Ernie Caddel at right half back, was a unit in the most powerful weak side running attack in the league.

GRAIN MARKETS ARE BOOSTED BY CROP DAMAGE

Corn Prices Strongest at Closing.

Unfavorable crop reports from the American winter wheat belt and from the large corn producing areas in Argentina yesterday dominated the action of the grain markets. July and September wheat, September corn, and all deliveries of oats sold at new seasonal high prices on the Chicago Board of Trade.

An upturn of about ½ cent a bushel in wheat futures was not maintained. Traders believed rains may fall in the southwest overnight and turned to the selling side late in the session. Closing trades were ⅛ to ⅜ cent lower. Corn finished with gains of ⅜ to ½ cent. May corn sold at 54⅛ cents at one time, a new high mark since late in September. Oats futures closed unchanged to ⅛ cent higher.

Crop Deterioration Reported.

Seldom has the grain trade received such unfavorable crop reports from the winter wheat belt at this time of the year. The weather bureau indicated there had been further deterioration in parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas. More than 50 per cent of the 47,000,000 acres seeded for harvest this summer is in the four states.

There has been some damage from freezing and thawing in the Ohio river valley. Duststorms were reported in parts of Kansas.

Argentine Corn Damaged.

Official reports indicated drouth and intense heat had caused irreparable damage to the Argentine corn crop. It is a total failure in parts of the provinces of Cordoba and Santa Fe. Last year Cordoba planted 4,510,000 acres and harvested only 301,000 acres. For more than three weeks maximum temperatures in Argentina have exceeded 100 degrees.

Export sales of about 500,000 bushels of American grain were reported. More orders are in the market, brokers said.

RFC INDICATES APPROVAL OF PLAN FOR ERIE

Considers Lending 22½ Millions.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—(AP)—A bondholder committee's plan for reorganization of the Erie railroad received conditional approval today from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Henry S. Sturgis, vice chairman of the committee representing holders of Erie refunding and improvement mortgage bonds, introduced a letter from Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, at the opening of reorganization hearings by the interstate commerce commission. If approved by the ICC, Jones said, the RFC "will give favorable consideration to the treatment provided for the debts due it."

Owes RFC 16 Millions.

The Erie owes the RFC about 16,000,000. The bondholders' plan proposes to give the government lending agency a prior lien on the reorganized company. Jones also said the RFC would consider lending the reorganized company $22,500,000.

The bondholders' plan proposes to reduce the fixed charges of the Erie from $14,238,000 to $7,670,000 annually, with additional interest charges contingent upon earnings of $2,328,000.

Road Has Different Plan.

The Erie management's plan would reduce fixed charges by about one-half and would give present holders of preferred and common stock share for share of common stock in the reorganized company. The bondholders' proposal would require stockholders to make heavy reinvestment to retain their equity.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railway intervened today in the proceedings. Its petition said the C. and O. owns 55.68 per cent of the Erie's capital stock—65.17 per cent of the common, 31.61 per cent of the first preferred, and 37.96 per cent of the second preferred.

HUDSON'S AUTO SHIPMENTS RISE ABOVE YEAR AGO

The Hudson Motor Car company already has shipped one-half as many of its new models as were shipped during the entire 1938 season, W. A. James, Detroit, said yesterday. He spoke at a meeting of dealers and salesmen at the Graemere hotel. The meeting was sponsored by Butler Motors, Inc., Hudson distributor for the Chicago area.

"Our sales last week were 34 per cent above the same week last year," James said. "As an even better index of how business is improving, our higher priced cars have accounted for 28 per cent of our sales of 1939 models to date and the percentage is getting higher. For the last few weeks 35 per cent of our sales were our Country club series, our highest priced cars."

ORDER BACKLOG OF STEEL FIRMS BOOSTS OUTPUT

The backlog of construction and railroad orders placed in December for shipment this year has lifted the national steel ingot production rate to about 52 per cent of capacity. This was reported yesterday in the weekly survey of the trade journal Iron Age.

Steel output has risen approximately 12 points above the indicated rate at this time last week. December bookings, the journal said, were 15 to 20 per cent under those for November, but a large part of the orders was for delivery in the new year.

Iron Age predicted that ingot production this year would total 40 million gross tons, or about 40 per cent more than the output in 1938. Last year the estimated production was 28.5 million gross tons.

Ingot output at Chicago last week jumped 4½ points to 52½ per cent.

The Iron and Steel institute reported that 14,000 employés were added to the steel industry's pay rolls in November, bringing the total to 450,000.

RAIL AND STEEL SHARES CLIMB; OTHERS FOLLOW

Legislative Hopes Cause Upturn.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 4.—The stock market advanced fractions to about 4 points today. The upturn, traders said, was based on the belief that rail and armament legislation would be adopted in the present session of congress. Buying force started before President Roosevelt's message to congress was made public, but was extended somewhat after traders had studied the message.

Observers pointed out that it was the first time in several years that the market gained after a presidential address to congress.

Volume picked up substantially after early sluggishness. Turnover was 1,500,760 shares. Of 851 issues traded 572 advanced, 128 declined, and 151 closed unchanged.

Best Prices Are Reduced.

Early hesitancy gave way to an advancing trend as the time neared for the President's message. While the speech was being delivered the list marked time. After the President finished the rally gained momentum. Best prices were shaded just before the close.

Rails and steels were in the front, with aviation shares picking up many of the preceding day's losses. Steel shares assumed market leadership early in the session. Bethlehem, up 3, and Crucible, up 3⅝, were standouts. United States Steel and Youngstown both added more than one point.

Rails were most prominent prior to the President's speech in the expectation he would say something for them. Santa Fe ran up 1½ points, Great Western 1⅝. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Southern railway, Illinois Central, and Delaware and Hudson were other prominent rails. Rail equipments also worked higher in sympathy.

Utility Issues Firmer.

Public utility issues firmed after early easiness. Amusement and motor truck shares met some support in the early trading. In the former Paramount was active and fractionally higher. In the latter Yellow Truck worked half a point higher. Standard motor shares attracted their share of attention. Chrysler added 1¾ points, General Motors nearly 1 point.

Oils were mostly fractionally higher. Rubbers behaved in similar fashion, although United States Rubber added 1⅝ points.

Copper shares, including Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott, and International Nickel showed gains of 1 point or more. Most chemical, mail order, and machinery shares closed fractionally higher.

A moderate number of specialties had brief moments of popularity. Safeway Stores and Kroger Grocery reached new high ground for the 1938-'39 period.

Collateral borrowings by New York Stock exchange members as of Dec. 31 amounted to $717,084,329, an increase of $97,129,059 over the Nov. 30 total.

GREAT WESTERN ROAD ASKS MORE WORKING CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The Chicago Great Western railroad company has filed a petition asking the interstate commerce commission to modify the plan of reorganization for the railroad. It would provide $750,000 to $1,000,000 of additional working capital and authorize the pledging of bonds of the reorganized company for a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan if necessary.

The petition set forth that since the close of hearings on the reorganization case "the money market has become so stagnant that it is now impossible to sell the first mortgage bonds of the reorganized company except at an excessive discount."

It said that the reorganized company "cannot function without working capital, and unless it can procure funds from sources other than the sale of its bonds, the plan of reorganization cannot be put in effect."

Paper Products Prices Raised 5 to 10 Per Cent

New York, Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Prices of all major kraft paper products for January shipment have been advanced 5 to 10 per cent, Alexander Calder, president of the Union Bag and Paper corporation, announced today. Production and shipments of kraft paper bags and kraft board in 1938 set new peaks, Calder said.

Silver Scheme Probe Is Asked in Senate Bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—Senator John G. Townsend Jr. [R., Del.] today introduced a resolution calling for the appointment of a joint congressional committee to investigate the administration's silver program.

Senator Townsend.

The resolution, coming at the opening of congress, and close on the heels of President Roosevelt's proclamation of last Saturday night extending the government's price of 64.64 cents an ounce paid for domestic silver, indicated that the President may be called upon to explain his continuation of a policy doomed to failure.

In extending the present high price paid as a subsidy to silver interests, in deference to the demands of senators from the west, the President acted contrary to the advice of treasury officials, who saw the program's failure and urged a cut in the price.

Metal Worth Only 43 Cents.

Although the government pays 64.64 cents for newly mined silver, the metal is worth only around 43 cents an ounce in the open market. The program also calls for purchases of foreign silver at 43 cents an ounce.

The preamble of Senator Townsend's resolution contains an indictment of the silver program on more than 50 separate counts.

"The silver program has caused public confusion," the resolution states. "It has occasioned ill will toward the United States in various foreign countries. It has failed to accomplish any of the beneficial results promised by its advocates.

"The United States has acquired more than 1½ billion ounces of foreign silver while under the terms of the silver purchase act there today remains to be bought more silver than was the case when the act was passed. Yet there is no way of knowing how much silver ultimately will have to be purchased to fulfill the requirements of the act.

"Program Is Inconsistent."

"The silver program is inconsistent with other monetary policies of the federal reserve system and the treasury. There is now more than three times as much silver in public circulation as there was in circulation before the program started, and in addition there are held idle in the treasury—not as backing for silver certificates—almost one billion ounces of silver costing over $530,000,000."

Representative Martin [D., Colo.] today proposed an investigation of manufacturers of automobile tires. He introduced a bill authorizing the federal trade commission to determine whether unfair competition existed in the sale and distribution of tires from factory through retail stores to purchasers.

DELAY IS SOUGHT IN MILWAUKEE'S REORGANIZATION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—Deferment of reorganization of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific railroad until congress acts on promised railroad legislation is being sought. It was learned today that the debtor and some other parties to the Milwaukee's reorganization had made this request. They did so in briefs taking exception to a plan of reorganization recently proposed by M. S. Jameson, examiner for the interstate commerce commission.

Thirteen sets of exceptions filed with the commission attacked the proposed plan. Some of the briefs charged the proposal was based on "guess work."

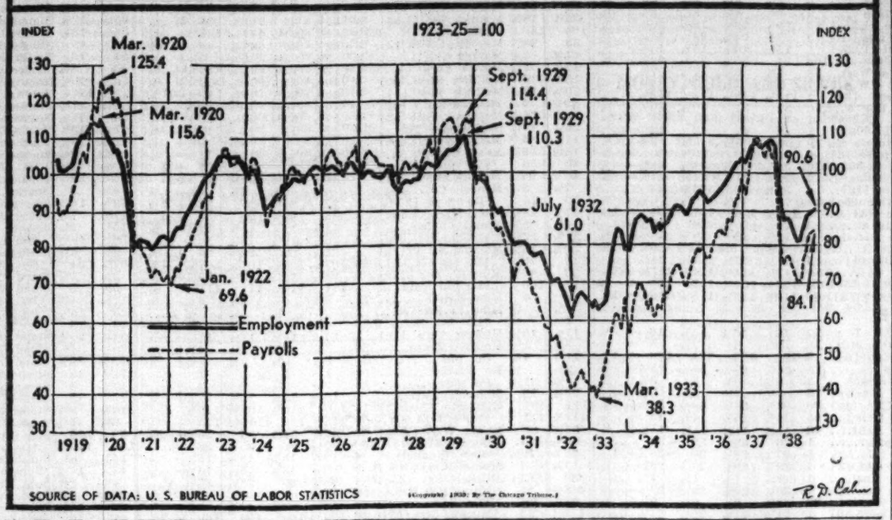
They also charged the plan was an attempt by the commission to "speed the reorganization unduly in the face of insurmountable obstacles relating to allocation of new securities and forecasting the future."

STERLING MAKES GAIN ON DOLLAR; GOLD ADVANCES

British currency advanced in value in foreign exchange transactions yesterday. It closed 1⅛ cent higher against the dollar in late buying. Earlier in the day the pound had fallen below the final quotation of the preceding day when it touched the lowest point in several months. Other currencies declined.

The price of gold in the London market rose to 150 shillings 5 pence [$34.79] an ounce, a gain of 4½ pence [about 9 cents] over the preceding day, and the highest price ever recorded in that market. Bar silver fell 3-16 pence [about ⅜ cent] an ounce in London, closing at 20 15-16 pence [43.64 cents.]

Trend of Employment and Pay Rolls in Manufacturing Industries 1919-1938



Utility to Buy Debentures at 70 Pct. of Par

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday cleared the way for the immediate expenditure of $9,000,000 to buy up debentures issued by the Utilities Power and Light corporation and for the purchase of claims against the company. He signed a petition authorizing Charles True Adams, trustee for the company, to take $9,000,000 from the funds of Utilities Power and Light Corporation, Ltd., Canadian subsidiary of the utility company, for that purpose.

Purchases will be made at the rate of 70 cents on the dollar. Small claims—$5,000 or under—will be paid off first and the amount remaining will be used for the purchase of the debentures and other large claims.

Save Five Millions.

Adams said that payment at the rate of 70 cents on the dollar will result in a savings of $5,000,000 on the book values of the claims against the parent corporation. For the $9,000,000 the trustee will buy $12,857,142 of claims and liquidate $1,200,000 of defaulted interest. A condition is that sellers of debentures and claims agree to forego the interest. The saving includes $750,000 in annual interest on the defaulted debentures.

Those who do not wish to sell their claims under the terms authorized will have to await settlement under a plan worked out for the reorganization of the Utilities Power and Light corporation. That part of the $9,000,000 not expended on buying claims and debentures will be used to buy debentures held by the Atlas corporation, New York investing company. Atlas holds about $19,000,000 of the debentures. Purchase of the debentures held by Atlas will be on the same terms as the other purchases.

Cash from Property Sale.

The Canadian subsidiary has $16,418,538 of cash, Adams' petition stated, and liabilities totaling $7,664,711. The cash was derived from the sale of the English properties of Utilities Power and Light in 1936. Title to the English properties was held by the Canadian subsidiary.

Judge Holly will hold a hearing today on a petition asking permission to spend an additional $3,000,000 on similar obligations. If Judge Holly approves, the Securities and Exchange commission must pass on it.

The Utilities Power and Light corporation is a Chicago utility holding company which once had assets of about $400,000,000. It is now in reorganization under section 77B of the bankruptcy act. Harley L. Clarke once headed the corporation.

LIVESTOCK NATIONAL BANK ADDS $250,000 TO SURPLUS ACCOUNT

The Livestock National bank announced yesterday an addition of $250,000 to its surplus account, bringing the total to $1,250,000. Funds for the increase were made available by a transfer from the undivided profits accounts.

David H. Reimers, president, said 1938 net operating profits of the banks were $85,725 compared with $103,770 in the preceding year.

The surplus addition is the fourth increase of that size made in the last five years, Reimers said. The bank is following a policy of using all its earnings to build up surplus. This policy will be followed, he said, as long as deposits continue to expand.

BUILDING AWARDS SET DECEMBER PEAK SINCE 1927

Construction contracts awarded in December were the highest for any December since 1927, Engineering News-Record, trade publication, reported yesterday. Awards totaled $339,250,000. The weekly average of $67,850,000 was a gain over 25 per cent over the November rate and 70 per cent over December of the preceding year.

Total construction volume for 1938 was $2,791,931,000, the publication said. This was 14½ per cent above the preceding year.

State and municipal projects accounted for more than two-thirds of the December construction total. Such contracts amounted to $240,204,000. Federal government construction contracts last month amounted to $39,389,000. Private contracts were $59,657,000.

U. S. Will Drive to Obtain More Foreign Trade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—The year 1939 will bring a determined drive by the United States to win foreign trade in this hemisphere from the expanding totalitarian powers of Germany, Italy, and Japan.

The American government believes there is a growing menace in the increasing trade of the dictatorships, especially in the foothold that has been gained in many instances in the Latin American countries. The danger lies, it is believed, in the political influence which often follows a close trade relationship.

Showdown Is Foreseen.

A struggle to the finish is foreseen in the opposing forces that will be at work in 1939. These will be expansion of the American reciprocal trade agreements on the one hand, and the drive of the totalitarian countries for trade in foreign lands on the other.

There is every indication that the administration plans expansion of reciprocal trade agreements to take in parts of the British empire, particularly Australia and New Zealand, and a concentrated drive among Latin American countries, where Fascist influence has been felt most. Already the state department has under active consideration trade agreements with Venezuela and Cuba. The draft of an agreement with Turkey has also been initialed and is expected to be signed next month.

Four Facts Made in 1938.

JOSLYN WORKER TO GET $31,845 SHARE IN PROFIT

Retiring at 66 with 'Security' Nest Egg.

On May 1, 1900, Jeremiah F. Quinlan went to work as a shipping clerk for the Joslyn Manufacturing and Supply company. Now, having reached the age of 66 on Dec. 10, he is retiring. And yesterday he was told by the company that besides the good wishes of his employers he will take with him $31,845. The retirement nest egg was built for him under the profit sharing plan of the Joslyn company, which manufactures telephone line equipment and other products.

This, briefly, is the story of a Chicagoan who was enabled by his employers to provide for his old age in a far better way than he ever could have done under federal social security. The Joslyn company's program has been described as one of the outstanding profit sharing plans in the nation. It was set up by Marcellus L. Joslyn, president of the company.

Contributes $3,145 Himself.

Quinlan's retirement fund was built in the twenty years in which the profit sharing plan has been in operation. He contributed $3,145 out of his own earnings. Company bonus payments under the plan amounted to $9,200. Interest compounded annually at 8¼ per cent amounted to $19,500.

Quinlan's retirement fund is more than 50 per cent of his total earnings during the years the profit sharing plan has been in operation.

Quinlan is now engaged in clearing up his desk at the Joslyn company plant at 3700 South Morgan street, where he has been manager of the warehouse, and where he has been looking after stock, shipments, and receipts.

A Tuna for Mr. Joslyn.

"I want everything to be shipshape before I go," he said yesterday. "Then I am going deep sea fishing off the coast of California. The first tuna I catch is going to Mr. Joslyn, the second to Mr. Roeder [Joseph A. Roeder, in charge of the plan for the Joslyn company]. After that I'll make up my mind what I want to do. I want to do some work, besides playing."

Quinlan owns a bungalow at 7725 South May street, where he lives with his wife, his son John, who works for an insurance company, and his daughter Florence, who works for a loop department store.

"We have some mighty fine neighbors and friends," Quinlan said, "and maybe Mrs. Quinlan and I would be happier if we'd just stay here in Chicago close to them. But we'll decide that later. Now we will have to start life all over."

Advice to Young Men.

Looking back on his long life of activity, Quinlan said he would offer this advice to the young man just starting to work:

"Don't watch the clock. Be willing to give as well as take from your employers. If a young man is willing to coöperate, that will be noted and he will be helped along.

"My employment at Joslyn's has been one continuous happy round of years. I never remember having had a cross word from any of the executives of this company. Our workers are happy in having the profit sharing plan. I have watched a lot of young folk. Some of them were a little careless when they started here. But soon they got to feeling that they had an interest in this company. Then their carelessness stopped. Seldom does any one employed by this company squander his time or the company's time or supplies.

No Labor Trouble at Plant.

"We know that there are labor troubles in this country because we read about them. But we have none at the Joslyn plant."

Quinlan was born on a farm near Woodstock, Ill. His brother Dan is active in the real estate business near Woodstock and some of his relatives live on the old farm. His father was born in Ireland and his mother in New York.

Under the Joslyn profit sharing plan, employés save 5 per cent of their annual earnings and the company contributes 10 per cent of its net earnings. In twelve of the twenty years the plan has operated the company's net earnings have made it possible to contribute $4 for each $1 contributed by the employé, in one year $3 for $1; one year $2 for $1; one year $1.30 for $1, one year $1 for $1, one year 20 cents for $1 and in three depression years it did not make contributions.

American Telephone Gains 66,300 Stations in Month

U. S. SPENDING IS 1.6 BILLIONS ABOVE INCOME

Outlay Is Boosted in Six Months.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—[Special.]—The federal government in the six months ended Dec. 30, 1938, spent $1,601,920,303 more than it took in, the treasury disclosed today in its daily statement of condition.

The deficit was more than three times the deficit in effect on Dec. 31, 1937, when the amount was $552,541,744.

The effects of the administration's policy of trying to cure the business recession of 1938 by stepping up its spending was disclosed in the treasury's statement, which covers the first six months of its fiscal year. During that period its spending expanded sharply as revenues declined.

Expenditures 4½ Billion.

For the six month period ended Dec. 30, expenditures amounted to $4,529,205,700 and receipts amounted to only $2,927,285,396.

In the first six months of the preceding fiscal year expenditures amounted to $3,728,755,290 and revenues totaled $3,176,213,515.

Among important sources contributing to the decrease in revenue were income taxes, which at $1,124,766,855 in the six months of the current year were down about $22,483,000 from the total in the corresponding period a year earlier; miscellaneous internal revenue at $1,199,915,865, a decrease of about $68,453,000, and customs receipts of $163,619,639, off about $50,149,000.

The rising expenditures were increased by the huge sums poured out for relief purposes in the six months ended Dec. 30, 1938.

Emergency Outlays Climb.

Emergency expenditures for relief and for the purpose of stimulating recovery amounted to $1,512,712,909. In the six months ended Dec. 31, 1937, such expenditures totaled $1,020,411,111.

Among the relief expenditures, the Works Progress administration's outlays for the half year totaled $1,180,033,931, compared with $649,758,438 in the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of $530,027,492.

The public debt on Dec. 30 was $39,427,183,901 as compared with $37,279,291,518 on the corresponding day of 1937—an increase of more than 2 billion dollars.

The treasury gave the computed rate of interest per annum on interest bearing debt outstanding at 2.586 per cent on Dec. 30, compared with 2.568 per cent on Dec. 31, 1937.

COTTON

Cotton prices fluctuated irregularly yesterday. Weakness in Liverpool caused selling and early decline. Mills and speculators absorbed the offerings and a rally followed. Closing trades were on .04 cent lower to .05 cent a pound higher. Traders are inclined to be cautious pending developments at Washington in regard to farm legislation.

One of the largest domestic cotton mills announced it would go on a three day production schedule, curtailing operations from four days a week to prevent accumulation of stocks.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .02 cent lower, with New York, 8.92 cents; New Orleans, 8.70 cents; Houston, 8.55 cents, and Galveston at 8.47 cents a pound. Prices follow:

INLAND STEEL'S NLRB FIGHT GOES BACK TO COURTS

Company Appeals Order; Charges Prejudice.

The Inland Steel company's long fight with the national labor relations board over the company's method of dealing with its workers went back into the federal courts yesterday. Attorneys for the company appealed an order issued by the labor board on Nov. 12, 1938, which directed Inland to cease certain allegedly unfair labor practices.

Charles A. Wood, accused of prejudice.

Inland Steel, which has its headquarters in Chicago, is one of the largest independent steel companies in the country. It has plants at Indiana Harbor, Ind., and Chicago Heights.

The steel company asked that the United States Circuit Court of Appeals review the labor board's order, that the court set aside the proceedings on which the board's order was based, and that the court dismiss the labor board's complaint.

Fight Goes Back to 1937.

The controversy began in 1937 when the board filed a complaint based on charges which the Steel Workers' Organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, made after a strike. The board issued a "cease interference" order against the company April 5, 1938, but withdrew it May 12, 1938. This was shortly after a Supreme court decision in another case had cast doubt on the legality of procedures of some federal bureaus. Meantime the company had appealed to the courts. After revising its procedure, the board resumed study of the Inland case and on Nov. 12 issued another order similar to the April 5 order.

In the petition filed with the court yesterday Inland's attorneys set forth fifty-four main objections to the labor board order. They declared that the order "is erroneous and beyond the power of the board and in contravention of the National Labor Relations act and of the constitution of the United States."

Call Examiner Prejudiced.

Among the contentions made by the Inland attorneys were the following:

That Trial Examiner Charles A. Wood, who heard the original complaint against Inland, was "prejudiced," and by virtue of his temperament was unable to give the company a "full and fair hearing."

That the trial examiner throughout the long hearing displayed "animosity and hostility toward and prejudice against the petitioner [Inland], the petitioner's attorneys and the petitioner's witnesses as evidenced by his repeated and unwarranted accusations of improper conduct on the part of counsel."

Intimidation Is Charged.

That the company's witnesses were subjected to intimidation.

That the trial examiner narrowly limited the company's cross-examination, whereas the petitioner's witnesses were subjected to the most extensive and searching interrogations by the attorneys for the board and by the trial examiner.

The petition was signed by Attorney E. S. Ballard, Ralph E. Bowers, Frederic Burnham and Herbert A. Friedlich. It was certified by Clarence B. Randall, a vice president of Inland.
